

Basilio Wins Decision Over Sugar Ray Robinson

By JACK HANF
NEW YORK (AP)—Blood-smearing Carmen Basilio, a dogged body puncher, won the world's middle weight championship from 37-year-old Sugar Ray Robinson on a split decision Monday night after 15 grueling rounds at Yankee Stadium.

There were cheers, mingled with a few catcalls from the crowd of about 25,000 in the ball park this cool fall evening as Basilio was hoisted high in midring by his co-managers and handlers.

Just when Robinson appeared to have run out of gas, he staged a sensational last-gasp finish in the late rounds to make it close.

Both judges voted for Basilio, the welterweight champion, but referee Al Bert had Robinson way out front 9-5. Judge Arlie Aidala scored it 9-5 for Basilio and judge Bill Recht 8-6-1.

The Associated Press card was 6-4-3.

Both men were stunned and bewildered at different stages of this free-wheeling battle of champions but neither would go down. Robinson hit Basilio with the same wicked left hook that flattened rugged Gene Fullmer in Chicago last May but Carmen merely rocked back, ducked low and charged in to punch away with both hands.

BASILIO CUT

Robinson fell back on his old superior boxing skill to slash a cut around Basilio's left eye as early as the fourth round.

Blood streaked Carmen's left cheek through the late stages as Sugar Ray tried desperately to put over the killer.

It appeared that Basilio surely must go the way Fullmer and Bobo Olson in the 13th when Robinson staggered him with a crushing left hook just before the bell.

But while Ray tried to follow up, Carmen covered and escaped until the round ended.

Again in the 14th, a dead tired Robinson dug deep into his waning reservoir of strength to throw a right-hand bomb that landed at the pit of Basilio's stomach. The star-martin from the onion lands of upstate New York doubled up but remained on his feet peering through a screen of blood.

Basilio, who had been a surprising 6-to-5 favorite, raked Robinson for fully 20 seconds with a return in the big 10th round. Driving him to the ropes with the fury of his two-fisted body punching, Carmen lashed the Sugar man from Harlem with a crushing 12 punches before the defending champ could escape.

Seven years younger than Robinson and 6½ pounds lighter at 153½ to Ray's 160 pounds, the dedicated little slugger from Chittenango, N.Y., kept boring in under Robinson's darting fists. Sugar Ray's body must have burned from some of those searing punches.

LEGS BEGAN TO GO

Robinson, who had won the 160-pound title an unprecedented four times, showed much of his old-time skill at jabbing and moving until his legs began to go back on him in the late rounds. Then he had to make his stand by slugging and he almost pulled it out with those big wallop punches in the 13th and 14th.

Round after round, Basilio's corner crew yelled to their craggy faced warrior to "get down" and "keep low." Oddly, Basilio fought Robinson standing almost erect in the early rounds as though scoring his power.

In the fourth Robinson cut loose with a right to the head, followed by a left hook to the head—the dazzling combination that knocked out the sturdy Fullmer. Basilio shook his head, showing no emotion on his crushed face, and went back to his dedicated job of slamming away at Robinson's body.

When Robinson resorted to one of his old tricks in the sixth and tried to hold the ropes with one hand while punching with the other, he ran into a heavy left hook. Robinson was bleeding from the nose when the round ended with Basilio throwing a punch after the bell.

Sugar Ray's boxing form was a marvel to see in the seventh as he jabbed with his left and moved back. But Basilio brushed past the jab and beat Robinson to the punch when they both threw for knockouts.

It seemed that the sturdy legs of the Harlem song-and-dance man were going back on him in the ninth. Basilio beamed with confidence as he took up the chase while Robinson started missing badly with wild punches. Referee Bert had to warn Robinson for a borderline flurry of punches midway in the ninth. Then came the 10th with Basilio's all-out effort and a listless Robinson missing by wide margins.

That round Basilio drove past Robinson's defence to pin the Negro on the ropes and hammer him without return for a dozen punches.

Just when the tide seemed to be running strongly in Basilio's favor, Robinson extended to the 12th with a fine display of boxing. Near the end of the round he connected with a left hook to the head that hurt Basilio.

It was the same pattern in the 13th with Basilio manhandling Robinson inside and slamming the Negro with both hands to the head and body until, just before the gong, Robinson staggered him with that left hook.

The right to the stomach that almost dropped Basilio came in the 14th. The 15th was a free-wheeling round in which Basilio bombed away at the body and Robinson fell back on his hook to the jaw. All three officials gave Basilio the 15th round.

Manic, with three hits in 13 trips saw his average dip four points to .365. Cleveland's Gene Woodling ranked third at .322, followed by Nellie Fox of Chicago at .316 and Bob Boyd of Baltimore at .314.

Musial, who won his first hitting title in 1943, hasn't captured one since 1952. His other front-running seasons were 1946, 1948, 1950 and 1951.

Winning the championship would give Musial seven batting titles—the same number as Rogers Hornsby attained in his National League career. Only Wagner has exceeded that figure in the senior circuit, having led the league eight times.

Frank Robinson of Cincinnati is third in the batting listing with .328. Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, who won the title in 1956, is next with .322 followed by Pittsburgh's Dick Groat with .317.

Aaron is the National League runs batted in leader with 126 and is tied with Chicago's Enrie Banks for home runs supremacy with 42 each. In the American League Washington's Roy Sievers is tops in both RBIs with 112 and homers with 41.

Musial And Williams Still Lead With One Week To Go

NEW YORK (AP)—Veterans Ted Williams and Stan Musial, numbering 75 years between them, go into the final week of the 1957 baseball season with substantial leads in the major league batting races.

The 39-year-old Williams virtually clinched the American League crown with a perfect weekend series against New York Yankees. The Boston Red Sox slugger went 4-for-4 and his average rose to .363, 18 points higher than runner-up Mickey Mantle, the Yanks' defending batting champion.

Musial, 36-year-old Cardinal ace, boosted his average to .345 while New York Giants' Willie Mays dropped to .334.

If Williams maintains his superiority, he will become the oldest player ever to win a major league batting title. Honus Wagner, was 37 when he hit .334 for Pittsburgh to top the National League in 1911.

Williams also is in quest of his fifth batting crown. He won the championship in 1941, 1942, 1947 and 1948. His best batting figure in 1941 was .406—the last player to achieve the select .400 mark.

Forest Fire Losses Down

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal resources department credits "quick and effective action by provincial government forest firefighters" with keeping forest fire losses in Canada this year to about one-fifth the acreage destroyed last year.

The department reported Monday that only 386,456 acres were burned by the end of August this year compared to 2,206,598 acres in the corresponding period last year.

To the end of August there were 5,039 forest fires compared to 4,809 the previous year, the department reported. "But improved forest fire protection facilities have made it possible to reduce the damage so significantly."

During August alone 1,275 fires burned 121,540 acres of forest compared to 1,108 fires that wiped out 463,674 acres in August, 1956.

Skimmed Milk Under Control

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness announced Monday that the government has placed skimmed milk powder under import control as of last midnight.

Noting that skimmed milk receives a federal price support, the minister's statement said "under the influence of the support program imports have become heavy, with producers in other countries taking advantage of the support price."

Stocks on hand Sept. 1 "were in excess of 27,000,000 pounds, the highest on record."

The statement added: "In order to protect Canadian producers from the danger of their market being swamped by large supplies of imported milk powder the government has acted to apply control."

On Sept. 12 the government announced it would sell its holdings at its price support purchase level—17 cents a pound for the spray process variety and 14 cents for the roller process.

A Fan Answers Back

Sir—After reading Mr. Francis' fairy tale about the recent play-off game last Sunday between Peakes and Morell. The writer could not resist to make some very necessary corrections and observations.

Firstly—The so called pop-fly landed between the left fielders grass (32½ ft) by actual measurement. Some pop fly!

(By a strange quirk of fate), quotes Mr. Francis, this four legged (Mantle) retrieved the ball after a long run, but contrary to the training of his master, who apparently had trained the dog to assist the Morell outfielders against the Peakes feared long hitters, refused to give up the ball, alas! "The best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley." Smith followed his team mates across the plate long before Fido had fetched. Needless to say the three "Pro" Umpires saw the clean cut grand slam home run as did the estimated three thousand fans. So much for the Doggy home run.

Contrary to Mr. Francis, the Peakes coach and players did congratulate the Morell team. But seldom indeed have the Peakes ball team had an occasion to congratulate the Morell team on winning a trophy. (In fact never), Peakes have learned to accept defeat manfully.

In a recent letter written by Mr. Francis I did not like the remarks regarding the Peakes coach nor those concerning Merlin Devine in his last letter.

Personal remarks are taboo in all sports and as for the criticisms concerning the above two persons, Mr. Francis was away out in left field (where the dog was). Both these men are great athletes and for years have kept the young people occupied in good clean sport, and thus helping the community.

Furthermore their remarks concerning the Peakes coach was to say the least, not expected in the realms of sport, nay, even bordering on libel. Considering their source they were rightly taken with the proverbial grain of salt.

Mr. Francis must have a short memory the writer was during the sudden death game to decide the league leadership when Mr. Francis "without folding his tent," slowly sneaked away like an Arab.

In conclusion we congratulate the Morell ball team and their coach, also Mr. Francis and his trained dog, and are glad to see Mr. Francis taking such an interest in rural baseball, but sorry to see his exuberance as a blinded by his good sense and robbed him of his judgement.

His childish prattle re "Fido" in left field, his referring to the men in blue as "Oysters" and his other observations about the game, brand him as unqualified to pass judgement on the merits of a player, coach or ball game.

But brag or boast not unduly lest perhaps next year Mr. Francis and his ball team may "Like the Arab fold their tents and slowly steal away."

Pride goeth before a fall.

Big Crowd At Fight

Sir—Approximately one thousand spectators jammed the Civic Stadium last Friday night to see belting Bud Ramsay climb through the ropes to take on New Brunswick's Kid Walsh for the P.E.I. - N.B. Welterweight crown.

Ramsay found Walsh a willing scrapper but his lethal fists struck the man often enough to give the Alberton scrapper an unanimous decision. He was promptly confronted with a challenge from "Roy Tiger" Steele former Charlottetown scrapper now campaigning in Pictou County rings under the management of Henry Pilsinger.

Steele arrived home on a week-end visit and announced he would do battle with the winner of the Walsh-Ramsay bout. A scrap between Steele and Ramsay is something P.E.I. fans have been demanding for many moons. It has been talked about before, but this time said Promoter Charlie Hogan, maybe something can be done.

The first four rounds of the main go saw both fighters move around the ring in cat like fashion. Ramsay began to show more courage in the fifth and hammered away with both fists.

In the remaining five rounds the Alberton slugger took off, from then on he hit Ramsay with a couple of right hand shots to the body, but Ramsay's power gradually took the steam out of him. Ramsay's win has revived the hopes of his followers that he will be in line for bigger and better things. Though he fight was sort of boring in the early rounds. It nevertheless saw the Alberton lad come out of the battle with a championship. "Nice going Bud! P.E.I. is proud to call you her own."

FAST K.O. IN SEMI-FINAL

A much improved Walter Arsenault from Summerside took but two rounds to dispose of Island lightweight champion Leo "Tiger" Steele, the latter favoured by some to defeat Arsenault was by one of the most rugged island punchers to display his wares here in latter years.

The six round special produced plenty of action. Alberton's Blonde Bomber Wendel Oliver was given a split decision over Rogers Urban of Indian River. The boys stood and slugged it out toe to toe the whole route.

Rogers deserves a bouquet for his display of courage, he has the stuff that champions are made of. When it is considered that he was making his first appearance before the public. Several times he was on the verge of a K.O. but his fighting heart carried him over the tough spots and he received a well deserved ovation as he left the ring.

In the preliminaries Elmer Gussie Gallant won a four round decision over game Peanuts Arsenault. The opening fight on the card saw the ever popular youngsters, Young Arsenault and Young Gussie, battling to a three round draw.
