Speaks Tonight In Cancer Drive

MR. WM. HAYWARD Mr. Wm. Hayward, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Charlottetown, will speak over Radio Station CFYJ this evening at 7:45 o'clock following the newscast. Mr. Hayward is Provincial Chairman of the Cancer Campaign, and will talk on cancer.

Finance Minister

The NATO alliance by restoring social stability in Europe; also because Western Europe is an enormous market for the foodstuffs and raw materials of the world, including Canada, and thus a more prosperous Europe means more demand for exports. "As a result of European progress, and of the dismantling of import controls, Canadian exports to the United Kingdom for example, were 35 per cent higher in the first half of this year than they were last year. "The benefits of increased exports are reflected in greater economic activity throughout Canada. For that reason and for others we must avoid doing anything which will make it difficult for overseas countries to sell their products in Canada, since only by selling to us and the United States can they obtain all the dollars they need to pay for their purchases from us. "The Government, Mr. Harris said, have indicated a desire to assist in cutting the costs of commodities by reducing taxes. "I can assure you that the only desire is to provide a climate for the intelligent and vigorous competition which has always marked the Canadian business world. We, therefore, ask you to take the same view, namely, keep costs down and aggressively seek business so that we can continue to improve our standard of living."

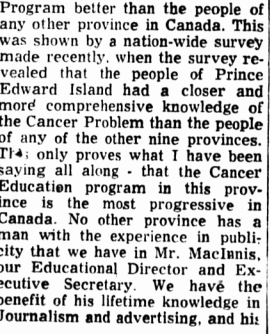

OPENING REMARKS

In his opening remarks the Finance Minister recalled that when Cardinal first saw Prince Edward Island he spoke of it as "the jewel of the Atlantic." "I am glad to admit that the attractiveness of this region is just as obvious to the visitor of today as it was to him, he added. "The Maritime region has a deep historical interest for all Canadians who take pride in the origins of our country. To people in all parts of Canada, Charles is the cradle whence came our united and prosperous country. As we all know the city of Charlottetown is celebrating its centennial this year. I understand that the first civic elections were held in 1855 and I have heard it said that the citizens enjoy elections today as much as they did then. Sharing as I do with all Canadians a feeling of great pride in the history of our country, I am especially pleased to be able to visit the birthplace of Confederation in this Centennial year of the founding of this city. I am, therefore, most grateful to you for inviting me to speak to you. "The forces making for Confederation were both political and economic. Politically, it was designed to forge a stronger and bigger community, one which would be more secure from possible, external pressures. In terms of economics, it was hoped to create a large free trade area with the markets of Upper Canada, with the expectation that trade with Upper Canada would replace to a considerable extent the dwindling overseas trade. The prosperity of this region was based on the products of the sea and the carrying trade which took these products to overseas markets. As long as the sailing vessel was supreme and the British Colonial preferences existed the Maritimes could be assured of an important place in the economy of the North Atlantic. The shift from the sail to steam and the disappearance of colonial preferences changed all that. "The political objectives of Confederation have been pretty satisfactorily fulfilled. Indeed, I think the Fathers would say - amazingly so. But I know that the various parts of Canada have not progressed economically together - one seemingly doing better than another, but in turn being superseded by some other part. "It does seem to me, however, that the post-war period, while full of problems and adjustment for all regions of Canada, has brought to the Atlantic Provinces a new spirit of confidence and a determination to make the full use of their potential resources. We all know that the Atlantic Provinces labour under certain natural handicaps arising from the long distances between them and the big markets of Upper Canada. Freight rate subventions and special help to the steel and coal industries on the part of the Federal Government may have done something to offset this handicap, but it remains a problem for many of our industries. Then, until recently there was the question of the comparatively limited nature of the basic resources of the region

Value Of Education In Cancer Fight Stressed

I read a Statement recently that said: Education is saving more lives than Research in the fight against Cancer," declared Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan, O. B. E., President of the P.E.I. Division of the Canadian Cancer Society. Doctor MacMillan was addressing the opening meeting of the Special Names' Cancer Campaign last evening at the Charlottetown Hotel. Your presence here tonight proves your interest in the fight against Cancer and your willingness to work to conquer this subtle killer," Dr. MacMillan continued. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Wendal Beaton, National Director of the Society and General Chairman of the City Cancer Campaign. Mr. Wm. Hayward, Provincial Campaign Chairman, was the present and addressed the meeting in a spirit of enthusiasm for the Cancer cause pervaded the meeting. Mr. Albon Farmer, Q.C., Chairman of the Special Names' Division of the City Cancer Campaign distributed the cards and instructed the canvassers in their duties. Continuing his excellent talk Dr. MacMillan said in part: "You may not realize how many people you meet who have had cancer and are now active and well because their trouble was discovered soon enough. "It is unfortunate that we hear more about the casualties from cancer than we do of those who have been cured. At a meeting recently, a man said to me, I was cured of Cancer 14 years ago and have never been sick since. There are many more, but they are slow to speak up. Some do, however, like a lady who came in one day with a big collection for our cancer campaign. She was not young, and I said to her, you are certainly a great worker for the Cancer Campaign. She replied, I should work for the Cancer Campaign as my husband was cured of cancer over 15 years ago. I'll work as long as I can as I consider the cancer campaign one of the most necessary public appeals."

"I know you can buy health, but you can buy health knowledge. The people of this province have absorbed the Cancer Educational Program better than the people of any other province in Canada. This was shown by a nation-wide survey made recently, when the survey revealed that the people of Prince Edward Island had a closed and more comprehensive knowledge of the Cancer Problem than the people of any of the other nine provinces. It is a worthy and necessary work. It is perhaps the life of someone near and dear to you. I know you will be successful as the Cancer Campaign always is over the top."

City Cancer Drive Special Names Teams

The following are the teams for the "Special Names" Division of the City Cancer Campaign, under chairman Albon Farmer, who start their canvass today, to conclude this week: Arthur Belcher, Ian Burnett Gordon MacDonald, H. E. Hyndman, R. LaPage, Frank MacPhee, L. D. MacKay, A. Y. Lennox, Gerald Proctor, Ernest Cudmore, Roy MacGillivray, J. G. Montgomery, D. E. Matthews, Ralph Jones W. W. Reid, George Purvis Douglas W. Fraser, Fred Moore Tom DeBolis, Arthur Wright, C. M. McLellan, Arthur Peake, Dr. K. A. McEachern, C. H. Black.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

"I have noted with interest some of the new economic projects taking shape in the Maritime region. The mineral discoveries are an important reason for confidence and optimism. As I understand it, the market for the output of the forest industries remains good. I also notice that the construction industry is taking on more importance since the war and particularly in recent years. The manufacturing industries are also responsible for a substantially larger part of your total output of commodities than was the case before the war. In Nova Scotia the figure has gone up from 33 per cent in 1938 to 41 per cent. In New Brunswick the increase is from 29 per cent to 44 per cent. This diversification is all evidence that the Maritimes are not standing still. "The Finance Minister went on to discuss economic developments across Canada, and of the world economic situation in general. One of the reassuring events in North America, he noted, has been the way in which the economic contraction which began towards the end of 1953 was held in check in 1954 and turned into a renewed upward movement in 1955. "It is reassuring," he said, "because it demonstrates that the economic system in this country and in the United States is resilient and flexible, able to cope with large changes in demand, or other such adjustments, without serious disturbances and unemployment. It also points to the fact that confidence in the future of the Canadian economy is widespread. "He dealt at some length with regulations and other federal policies.

Panel Discussion

work has been effective as the nation-wide survey shows. The present cancer research program, being carried out across Canada and in other countries of the world, is the greatest ever launched against any disease. Virtually every branch of science - biology, zoology, chemistry, physics, genetics, medicine, x-ray and atomic research are contributing to man's knowledge of cancer, helping towards the ultimate defeat of this insidious disease. "The money for Cancer Research comes from the annual Cancer Campaign. The results of Cancer Research are not determined in one year, but the various research projects take many years. Research is not something you can turn off a water tap. It must be continued and next year more scientific funds will be necessary for cancer research in Canada than ever before. Statistically, the chances of dying of cancer of the stomach are significantly less today than they were twelve years ago. This fact has been established by a recent analysis of the cancer mortality rates in Canada for certain sites conducted by statisticians for the National Cancer Institute of Canada and the Manitoba Cancer Relief and Research Institute. "In 1941, the mortality rate for stomach cancer was 31.7 per 100,000 population for males and 18.1 per 100,000 for females. In 1953 the rate had improved to 25.4 for males and 14.1 for females. This is a drop of approximately 20 per cent for both sexes. Cancer of the uterus shows an improvement over the past 13 years of 38.5 per cent. Fifteen years ago, only 5 per cent of men with cancer of the prostate gland survived for five years. Modern treatment has increased this to 30 per cent. The cobalt bomb is proving an effective treatment against deep-seated cancers. These are some of the reasons for the Cancer Campaign which you gentlemen will conduct."

ARMY CAMP He felt that the Maritime Provinces should now take advantage of the fact that the Federal Government has seen fit to establish its largest military camp in New Brunswick and made the suggestion that all of the camp's equipment including arms and ammunition should be manufactured near the site of the camp where it is used. Mr. Levesque visualized the possibility of a military highway for the efficient and fast movement of troops. He urged members to put the good of the cause ahead of petty politics. He solicited agreement among the Maritime Boards on all briefs submitted to Ottawa. "We need public interest and public support in carrying out the program," he said.

NEWFOUNDLAND

Mr. T. S. A. Freeman of St. John's, Newfoundland said that Canada buys very little of Newfoundland's products while the newest Province buys $150,000,000 worth of Canadian products each year. Prior to Confederation, he said Newfoundland dealt mostly with the United Kingdom and the United States whereas the picture is changed so that they now buy 95 per cent of their produce from Canada. He felt that his province was not getting its share of benefits and solicited the help of APEC in keeping them informed of government grants and other things from which they could benefit from Ottawa.

Mr. Freeman told of surveys which were being made in the Province in connection with the secondary industries but that these had not proven too successful. He suggested that again APEC might be of some assistance in this direction. The Newfoundland delegate said that there was a need in his province for education towards proper work habits. He said that a great many of the younger men were leaving the fishing industry to work in industry because of the fact that they could not draw unemployment insurance during the off season. Mr. Freeman painted a gloomy picture of transportation in Canada's newest Province. He said that the Canadian National Railway narrow gauge line was practically the only inland means of transportation and that the Railway saw fit to increase its rates every winter when water competition was not present. "Before Confederation, the National per capita debt of Newfoundland was small compared to what it is today. If we were obliged to assume our share of the national debt we in turn should be entitled to a proportionate share of its benefits," he said. "APEC should see that no other Maritime province should try to hinder Newfoundland's trade."

MR. G.G. ANGLIN, C. B. E. said, "I think that we are in for a period of prosperity in the next ten years that has never been equalled. If our Premiers work together when they go to Ottawa they will get their just dues for the Maritime Provinces."

THE ISLAND'S CASE

"The need for such an organization as APEC has existed for a number of years" said Mr. Earl Hickey, C. A., the only Prince Edward Island member on the panel. He noted that for years the products of agriculture and fishing had left the Island in a raw state but that a move was being made through Government assistance to relieve this situation. Mr. Hickey said that markets to Prince Edward Island were most important. He felt that statistics should be made available to find out what the potential was in the frozen food industry. He expressed the opinion that Maritime members at Ottawa were not getting much recognition and urged that Federal representatives work as a unit rather than individually.

MUNICIPAL TAXES.

Mr. C. M. Anson, vice-president and general manager of DOSCO, Sydney, said it was his belief that more emphasis should be placed in trying to maintain the industries now existing before too much thought is given the promotion of new ones. He took strong exception to the degree to which industry being taxed by some of the municipalities

Shows Pictures Of War Graves

On Sunday evening a large number of Legion members, relatives and parents of deceased veterans congregated at the Clover Club to see a film shown by Mr. Vic Sanderson, a veteran of the First World War and father of a boy who paid the supreme sacrifice in the Second World War, who has returned recently from Europe where he not only visited the last resting place of his son, but also visited the graves of many other Islanders who fell in the battlefields of Europe. Before going overseas Mr. Sanderson arranged with parents to visit the graves of their loved ones and bring back first hand information. This he did by taking individual pictures of the graves of the former Islanders. He was equipped with a movie camera which he filmed the pictures. They gave a good view of the many military cemeteries and showed the last resting place of Islanders being cared for by loving hands. Appreciation was expressed to Mr. Sanderson for his work, and to Mr. Arsenault of the National Film Board, through whose cooperation the evening's showing was made possible. A vote of thanks was adopted and presented to Mr. Sanderson and Mr. Arsenault by the president, Comrade Frank Rush of the Charlottetown branch, under whose auspices the show was held.

and in attendance were Messrs. E. T. Higgs, Wallace Higgins, J. A. Clark and F. W. Curtis. R. E. Mutch is also a past president of the organization. An expression of appreciation was extended to Mrs. Carl Burke who was unavoidably absent, for the reception arranged by the Maritime Central Airways of which he is General Manager. Upwards of 200 members and guests were present at the reception and dinner which followed, including many ladies. Head table seating included: F. W. Curtis, Past President M. P. B. T.; H. W. Jamner, N. B. Vice-President M. P. B. T.; B. E. Rogers, President Ch'town Board of Trade; A. M. MacKay, Chairman Maritime Transportation Commission; Hon. A. W. Matheson, Premier; Hon. W. E. Harris, Minister of Finance; Alan H. Holman, President M. P. B. T. (Chairman); Hon. T. W. L. Prowse, Lieutenant Governor; J. D. Stewart, D. S. O., Mayor of Charlottetown and President of Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, J. R. Mungall, President S'ide Board of Trade, W. H. Sheridan, Ass't General Manager Canadian Chamber of Commerce; T. S. A. Freeman, Past President, St. John's Board of Trade; Henry MacWilliam, President, Charlottetown Junior Board of Trade.

Mr. Gaonong referred to what he termed the magic 13,000,000 mark in a country's population, recalling that throughout history, each began to enjoy an era of prosperity. He said that since Canada had reached its 13,000,000 there had been a tremendous upswing in business and there was every reason to believe that this upswing would continue for some years to come. Speaking from the floor, Mayor Parker Mitchell from Lancaster, N.B., felt that Mr. Anson's criticism regarding excess taxation of industry was unfair. He said that the municipalities had only one source of income clear of personal and real estate taxes and that was industry. He said it was hardly reasonable to raise the taxes of a man struggling to build a home. He suggested that industry should take a greater interest in civic meetings including school meetings. "If we are going to have high schools made of gold bricks, we must pay for it somehow," he said. Mr. Anson replied, "There is such a thing as killing the goose that lays the golden egg."

In summing up, Mr. O. Nelson Mann emphasized the fact that if the Premier's of the four provinces are to take any action they must have the facts and it is up to APEC to see that they get them. He gave a comparative statement of incomes in the Maritimes showing that the per capita yearly is as follows: in 1954: N.B., $755; N.S., $896; Nfld., $680 and P.E.I., $632. The income for all Canada in the same period was $1,224. These, he said were some things which the Council had to consider.

Mr. G.G. Anglin, C. B. E. said, "I think that we are in for a period of prosperity in the next ten years that has never been equalled. If our Premiers work together when they go to Ottawa they will get their just dues for the Maritime Provinces."

N. Y. Dock Strike Extends To Other Parts

(By Arthur Everett) NEW YORK, (AP)—The International Longshoremen's Association Ind. Union extended its New York waterfront strike to all Atlantic and gulf coast ports in the United States. The new strike call, contained in telegrams sent to 400 I.L.A. locals, was directed at 100,000 men in 35 busy ports. An I.L.A. spokesman here said the telegram was being sent to the union's Canadian office but that longshoremen in Canada probably would not be expected to join the strike. He said it would be satisfactory if the Canadian dockers merely refused to handle cargo diverted as a result of the strike in the U. S. Several Canadian I.L.A. leaders have already announced they would handle such cargo.
