OLD PROBABILITIES.

LATELY, we have had no warning of "coming storms." Telegrams have not, as formerly, been forwarded from the Meteorological Department to Mr. Cundall. The cause is supposed to be the cost of telegraphing which is double that of telegraphing to any other Province. It is to be hoped that an effort will be made to overcome this difficulty. The "Telegraph Company" should, we think, make special rates for meteorological reports, which are of immense importance to the class of persons from whom it derives the largest part of its revenues.

THE MISSING LINK AT LAST.

An Islander, writing from Colorado says:—"White at the Spring I saw a petrified man. He was 7 feet 5 1/2 inches in height, and weighed 550 pounds. His hands and feet are in proportion to his body, and he has a tail four or five inches long. Barnum was there and offered Mr. Conant, the discoverer, $25,000; but he would not accept it as he intends to travel with it."

At the Stipendiary Magistrate's Court yesterday morning, John McCabe was fined $3 and costs of truckage or 14 days for drunk and incapable. William Sculley was fined $2 and costs or eight days for the same offence. John J. Oakes, on complaint of Captain Conway, was fined $1 costs or four days for being drunk on board his vessel. Angus McDonald, Angus O'Hanley, John McVarish and James McCormack were each, on complaint of Conductor Wood, fined $6 and costs for disorderly conduct on board the train from Summerside. Hugh Monaghan, for allowing a nuisance to prevail on his premises, was fined $1, and $1 day for every day the nuisance is unabated, and is notified to have two more water closets built on the premises where the nuisance prevails, under penalty of $2 for each day such water closets are not erected. John Arnold was fined $3 and costs or 14 for vagrancy.

ROW ON THE TRAIN.—On Thursday evening a crowd of about fifteen fishermen boarded the steamboat express at Kensington. They were all the worse of liquors, and shortly after leaving the station became engaged in a general row, during which heads were cut, noses enlarged, chairs and stoves broken, and windows smashed. All efforts were made by Conductor Wood to quiet the disturbance, but without success; and they were left to finish the fray to their satisfaction. On arriving in this city four of the party were handed over to the police. They were arraigned before the Stipendiary Magistrate yesterday morning, and fined $6 each and cost of damage done to the car. We may here remark that the reason Conductor Wood could not quell this row is owing to the limited powers he is allowed to exercise. Fancy a regular express passenger train without one pair of "brass jacks."

FINE WORK.

To the Editor of the Daily Examiner:
DEAR SIR,—When Pat was levelled with a poker by his brow-beating wife he felt it hard, and sought Stipendiary Justice, and got it. Biddy was fined, and Pat, of course, paid the fine. Justice's justice is past finding out. Instance the fining of those volunteers doing sentry duty at the corners, without fee or reward. Why not not have given them "so long," as the phrase is without the option of a fine? Their folks were fined, not them. Other muscles than those of the legs need development. Playing at throwing the light hammer at stones for the street, in view of future Caledonia games, or the old-fashioned "pump-or-down" New England system in such cases would answer better.
Yours,

WAS HE INTERRUPTED?

To the Editor of the Examiner:
The Patriot says Hon. W. D. Stewart got interrupted at Crapaud, while labouring to make the audience believe that he and his Government were all that could be expected from the sons of Adam. Yes, it is true that he was interrupted. You would have laughed to listen to that poor blue blood labouring to clear himself and the rest of the gang. I dare say you can well imagine him standing forth, with all the pompousness of an oracle, pouring forth a torrent of words such as would scare the heart out of a red Indian. No doubt his wonderfully persuasive arguments would have had some effect on the ears and hearts of an ignorant lot of Indians; but for Mr. Stewart to come amongst the people of the First District to make them believe anything he might utter is, to use the mildest term, an insult on the people. But for us, boys, it was the greatest fun out to see the Editor of the Patriot there doing his prettiest to make Crapaud swallow the pill. It was no go. No, no. Poor Stewart seeks strange quarters for re-election. Was he really interrupted? Well, now, was he "tarred and feathered?" I expect not. The people are too well behaved here to treat any one in that way, let him be ever so bad. They will bide their time for revenge. I would like to see Mr. W. D. Stewart come to this District again with his fine stories of what he would do. Well, we know what he has done, poor fellow. How is Mr. McIntosh getting on with the Asylum? Perhaps he may get an interruption there too. Well, if he does it would not be bright, since he took so much trouble amongst the ice last winter. He may get an interruption about that what at the shore of the Model Farm, too, if it's true that he got one built there by the contractors of the Asylum. What a shame to interrupt him, wasn't it, Mr. Patriot? Now, Mr. Patriot, you might just as well put kerosene oil on the fire to keep it from burning as to think that you can keep yourself in office and bolster up injustice by calling it nice names. A man is judged by the company he keeps.
Yours truly,
A LISTENER.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 9, 1877.
Our city was visited last Thursday by one of the most violent storms of wind and rain it has ever been my fortune to witness. It was little less than a tornado. Roofs, chimneys and trees were demolished, while for a time the air was fairly filled with hats, umbrellas, papers and sticks. Only those who were caught out in the first hard gust were sufferers, for people here are too well acquainted with such storms to venture out after one has set in.
The fall weather made its appearance with the month of "Gay October." We have had naught but summer before. Congressmen and those who propose spending the coming season at the capital arriving by every train, and on all sides the prospect is fair for a winter of unusual social and political interest. Meantime the Capitol, which will of course be the centre of attraction, has had its toilet made more elaborately than for many years before. Bathed clean in paint and white-wash curled with over five miles of steam and air pipes, crimped with new ventilating apparatus, and clad in robes of fresh, bright carpeting and upholstery, we hardly recognize our Capitol. Outside, too, in grounds and driveways splendid improvements have been made since the last session. A hundred and thirty-five workmen have been employed on them all summer, so a change ought to be apparent. Lawns have been sowed and sown with Kentucky Blue grass, red top and clover; trees and shrubbery have been set out; ornamental trellises erected and vines planted to climb over them; fountains and statues placed in some of the parks; and the walks and driveways smoothly paved. During the past year over thirty large trees and fifty small ones have been transplanted, and one hundred Oriental Plane trees have been imported; 7,837 plants and trees have been set out, and 18,000 yards of the best asphalt pavement laid.
The savages—twenty-five Indian chiefs—who came here two weeks ago to day, left for their Western homes three days since, disappointed that the President insists upon their wintering upon the Missouri River; but delighted, and pacified in a measure, by the gifts he presented to them—suits of clothing, overcoats, trunks and $40 each, with which to buy presents for their families. They went home by way of New York, where they bought cheapshaw's, scarfs, satchels, jewelry, etc.

It is said the rain, of which I have spoken, worked nearly as much damage in the roofless Patent Office as the fire did. Papers and furniture were destroyed, and in one apartment an aperture had to be broken through the thick marble wall to let out the water. Two weeks have passed since the fire, and there has been yet no temporary roof constructed. The reason is that the boards forming it must be laid inside the walls, because there would be no way of holding it down if laid over the top; and to do this all the iron rods that were embedded in the marble walls must be removed. No derrick can be used with safety, as this work has to be done wholly by hand, and therefore is slow of accomplishment.
Moody and Sanky have decided to let Washington go to the — and to turn their attention to sedate New England for the fall and winter. The Young Men's Christian Association is organizing resolutions and means to promote temperance and revive religious interests. To this end the Y. M. C. A. rooms are being fitted up anew, and a series of parlor entertainments gotten up to attract visitors and strangers into a good atmosphere.
Ranaull, Cox and Taylor are all in the city, ready to begin the battle for the office of Speaker of the next House, which they each covet. Of the other House offices, that of Doorkeeper appears to be the most sought after no less than six gentlemen being candidates for the position—half a dozen men engaged in a lively struggle for the prize of a door-nob. The Postmastership comes next, and the candidates are Stewart of Virginia, Guyder of New York, and Finley of Ohio.
The Labor Exchange has got nicely at work; 1095 applications for employment have been received already, only about one-fourth of whom are females; but it is found that there is a much greater call for female help than for male. Positions are easily found for women who wish to do general house-work. The disappointed ones are those who apply for positions as governess, to do fine sewing and such kind of work, and those who come for help to obtain Government clerkships. For these there is no relief to be found at the Exchange.

SUMMERSIDE ITEMS.

SUMMERSIDE Oct. 12.
Oysters have been coming into town in large quantities this past week. They sell at $1.30 to $1.40 per barrel. The steamer "Miamichi," on her way to Montreal, took 750 barrels on Tuesday. This shipment was Monday's catch.
The Moncton Times is sold on our streets in the evenings, on the arrival of the boat from Shediac.
The Teachers of Prince County have formed what is called a "Teachers' Institute." P. Gunn, Esq. is the President. The object of this institution is, as a correspondent in a late issue of the Journal puts it, "for mutual improvement and the sharpening of our intellects." Quite a number of Teachers were present at a meeting held in the Grammar School, on Thursday last.
Mr. John Lawson, of the Charlottetown Patriot, is in town visiting his friends.
The streets have assumed their old appearance after the last three day's rain. There is no scarcity of mud.
Professor Cushing's billiard hall is patronized rather extensively by young men who have more money than sense.
A. L. Graves, one of the energetic proprietors of the Journal has been confined to his house by sickness since Wednesday.
On Tuesday night, Mrs. Walter Dougan left her child asleep in a bedroom while she attended to some household duties. In her absence a cat entered the room and laid on the child's breast, and began sucking the breath of the little one. On entering the room Mrs. Dougan found the child nearly suffocated. It was with difficulty that the cat was driven away.

A young man, belonging to Wellington, was brought before James Campbell, Esq., on Thursday, charged with shooting a horse belonging to one of his neighbors. He was discharged.
The cricket match between Summerside and Charlottetown has been postponed on account of the wet weather.
Perhaps it would be interesting to your readers to know that horse racing is not all the "go" up here. A dog fight don't amount to much; but when you see a man pull out $20 and offer to put it up that a city dog can "knock spots" out of our town "pups" it is rather exciting.
