Sport Echoes From Prince County

Four misses and a hit! Congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bernard for a successful blue ribbon event. All the others were pink ribbon affairs. We understood Gerard and the Misus were working on a softball team, but we reckon the plans have been changed. If this newcomer ever fogs the old apple over the platter like his dad did in Dartmouth, Middleton, Chatham and home here in Summerside, you proud papa with one- and two-year-old future batting champs in your high chairs, don't take too much for granted!

Well, Alberton downed the Summerside Mercurys in two straight games, and we congratulate the Regents on their accomplishment. We haven't seen the Alberton aggregation play this year but we think they will have to be slightly better than just good to take that doddering old man of the blades, Oscar Campbell, and his cohort into camp. They're smart, those boys, and the more chips are down, the more chips they get on their shoulders.

We have a protest to make to the Physical Fitness Department, however. We ask, Messrs. Reid and Hogan, why take the Summerside boys and put them in a class one notch above where they should be? Sydney, Glace Bay, Moncton, Halifax, St. John and Charlottetown all have large artificial ice rinks, so they're all put together in the "Big Six" class. Here on the Island, Kensington, Beedee, Borden, Alberton and O'Leary have natural ice rinks, so they should go in one class. Right? Well, then, Wellington, Lot 16, Muddy Creek, Summerside and Miscouche all have open-air rinks, and should be put in another class. Right?

On behalf of the Mercurys, we hereby challenge the last mentioned teams to a round robin of games on some clear night when the wind is west, and light, for the open-air championship of Prince County. Bring along your shovels, fans, and root for the home town.

We're kidding, of course. But it could come that in the course of a few years, if - - - There are really no "ifs" because Doc Clark and his committee are on the job, and we have faith that they will bring results this time. We don't want to sound as if open-air rinks are a complete wash-out. They're a fine addition to the recreation facilities of a small community, and the places mentioned above are to be commended for the initiative and effort that made them possible.

Notes Distinct Changes In PEI Sheep Raising Industry

The past year has brought about distinct changes in the sheep raising industry of Prince Edward Island, stated Mr. W. R. Shaw, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, in his report yesterday as secretary of the Sheep Breeders' Association. The sentiments of many years ago are under process of revival, and the value of sheep production is impressing itself on the minds of farm producers. This change in thinking is not coming about because of the direct economic benefits of sheep raising, but through a number of other influences which include improvement in farm fertility, weed control, lower labour costs, economy of housing, and other factors.

The returns of the past year have kept pace with those from hogs and cattle, Mr. Shaw stated. Lamb has been in keen demand and reached a high through inspected packing plants of thirty-five cents alive. These prices brought in snug profits at low investment and production costs. Wool prices also reached the highest point in our history, and to all who marketed wool properly through approved channels a high of $1.05 was received. This price included a five cent bonus to clipper who marketed the 1950 clip through the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Limited. Late shippers unfortunately missed the high prices and received little better than half the market value of early contributors.

In order to assist those who made late deliveries an extra five cents per pound was added to the market level and thus helped the ultimate receipts. The markets for the year were extremely difficult to predict. War orders operated in the early months drove prices up to unheard of levels, and created artificial values. Later this prop was suddenly removed and the market as suddenly collapsed. Later prices have recovered somewhat, but uncertainties still remain and it is difficult at this time to say what is going to happen in the trade. Very serious losses have been experienced by interests that bought heavily at the top prices.

Through this trying period the strength, stability, and business efficiency of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Association, Limited, has been very amply demonstrated. This organization stands at the very top of efficiently handled business associations in Canada, and sheep producers little realize the protection that has been rendered through this medium to the sheep breeding industry.

Charges Skulduggery Practices

"The quantity of wool handled through its Sheep Breeders' Association this year was increased over that of 1950," Mr. Shaw stated. "In competition with the organization scores of itinerant buyers from as far away as Quebec ranged up and down the Province buying wool at ridiculously low prices, and never at any stabilized level. Neighbours living side by side very often received different prices on the same day from the same buyer. Prices ranged from less than seventy cents to ninety cents per pound, but conformed in a pinch to the advertised price of the Sheep Breeders' Association. Wool was taken from the door, very often under the influence of unfair suggestion, and low marketing skulduggery practices. "When the truck was loaded the buyer promptly left for distant points, traded off his product at a handsome profit, and hurried back to repeat his performance. Our wool growers perhaps did not realize that a two-ton load of wool at seventy cents to the producer lifted almost $1,000 out of the producer compared to the price the Association paid for the product. Why sheep breeders continue to sell their product to itinerant buyers at prices below the market is difficult to understand. These roving gatherers give no service to the producer. The Sheep Breeders' Association on the other hand render to every breeder aside from the fine service in marketing wool, the following: providing phenothiazine tablets at a low price; distribution of improved rams throughout the Province; assistance in importing rams of outstanding quality; arrangement of Sheep Field Days and encouragement of better Field Husbandry; assistance in sheep supplies, and marketing materials; encouragement of higher prices for lamb, through rail grading practices; assistance in formulating breeding policies aimed at the production of a more desirable market type; and increase in number of lambs per sheep and flock."

Stabilizing Influence

Without the stabilizing influence of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers during the past two years wool prices, Mr. Shaw maintained, would have prevailed at little better than half of the market level secured. He urged that sheep-men get together and organize their marketing practices under Board control.

During the past season, he reported, a change was made in our lamb subsidy policy, and at the present time seventy-five cents per head is paid on lambs grading "A1" on the rail. This does not include buck lambs. A total of $810,000 was paid in subsidies this year, and approximately 1,200 lambs were settled for on a rail grade basis. This is really not enough, and it is our feeling that if all lambs were marketed on a rail grade basis an impetus would be given to sheep improvement in the Province by this practice.

During the meetings of the Agricultural Council a recommendation was passed to the effect that a programme of education and demonstration be conducted at various sheep breeding centers in the Province, at which training would be given in pilling, dipping, docking, clipping, castration, and packaging wool for market. Other recommendations were that the Sheep Breeders' Association, in co-operation with the meat packers, initiate a policy deducting $1.00 on all buck lambs, and that this money be placed in a fund controlled by the Sheep Breeders' Association to be used in a programme of education and extension within the industry; also that a constructive policy of efficient marketing of wool and lambs be undertaken by the Association at the earliest possible moment.

Police said the capture of Alonzo Boyd was not the result of a tip-off, but was due to constant watchfulness of Dets. Payne and Craven, who nabbed their victim with fellow-officers. Police disclosed that thugs conveyed Boyd to the apartment only a few hours before the dawn raid. While the gang-land escort hustled the wanted man into the apartment, police watched from their hiding places. Like her husband, Mrs. Boyd was asleep in the apartment when police staged their carefully-planned attack. The attractive brunette is seen in custody of a policeman.
