Nanny Has A Look

By Thornton W. Burgess

Double check if you would know, What you think is really so. —Danny Meadow Mouse.

Something moving in the grass. She couldn't see it clearly because it was mostly hidden in the grass; but it was moving and it was black.

Danny Meadow Mouse had gone home and told Nanny Meadow Mouse that he had found out where the wonderful seeds were.

That was enough for Nanny Meadow Mouse. She didn't want to see any more. Just as soon as she could she crept back into the tunnel where Danny was waiting.

Nanny went first to peep out the end of the tunnel. She crept out of the hole Danny had made there and crept under the long Chickadee grass just far enough to be able to look out and see the flat rock.

That was enough for Danny. He turned around and scampered back along that tunnel and Nanny was right at the end of Danny's short tail.

What Nanny saw caused her to freeze, as the saying is. That means she became perfectly still. It wasn't because she wanted to keep perfectly still. It was because she couldn't move.

CONTRACT BRIDGE By Josephine Culbertson

HE MISSED HIS CHANCE The opening lead in the following deal gave South an outstanding chance for his slam contract, but he couldn't see it.

South dealer. North-South vulnerable. 106 A Q 9 7 A 8 4 K Q 9 8 5 3 2 6 3 K 9 7 5 A 3 N E S J 10 6 2 J 10 8 7 5 A Q 7 K J 10 8 5 2 J 3 A Q 7

The bidding: South West North East 1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass 2♥ Pass 3♥ Pass (final bid)

It was reasonable enough for North to cue-bid the spade suit even though he was fibbing about that control, but having made that call, it was somewhat redundant for him to bid six hearts over South's three.
