Politician Says Board May Aid Economic Ills

A Canadian fish board, similar to the Canadian Wheat Board is one of the ways in which the economic ills of the Atlantic region could be cured according to Alvin Hamilton, a former minister of agriculture, who spoke in O'Leary recently. To meet the need of the world for fish, Mr. Hamilton said, "you cannot continue with isolated fishing in the different provinces."

If Canada is going to move into fish export in a big way, Mr. Hamilton said, there has to be a method of storing and grading. Storing can be done by freezing or drying. "We have developed a drying technique where you don't dry on racks, we dry by mixing in potatoes with fish and to do it cheaper, get all the water out of both the potatoes and fish, so we can sell this at a price that the people all over the world can afford to buy and we still get a living wage."

"The storing and grading are the first requirements," said the former agricultural minister. "The next step is to set up a Canadian Wheat Board type of marketing. Call it Canadian Fish Board if you like."

EASTERN POLICY

Listing some points in what he called the eastern farm policy Mr. Hamilton suggested the establishment of an eastern feed grain board which he said was "the same system as the Canadian Wheat Board, but this time its in reverse."

The Feed Grain Board rather than selling for the farmer at the best price, would be buying feed grain for him at the best price.

Mr. Hamilton said he would like to see policies to increase the production of feed grain in eastern Canada. Fertilization

American Motors Announce Prices

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. announced Tuesday its 1966-model prices and said the list included provision for the standardization of a safety-equipment package heretofore rated as optional. AMC thus followed the U.S. auto industry's big three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—in all but eliminating a practical comparison of its 1966 prices for a basic car and the suggested retail prices released for similar 1965 models.

American Motors said its prices also reflected 1965's three-per-cent reduction in the U.S. excise tax on new cars. AMC President Roy Abernethy said the company's 1966 prices, compared with prices of 1965 models with such then-optional equipment as padded instrument panels, back-up lights, windshield wipers and rear seat belts, will be about $70 below the average, in addition to an average excise-tax reduction of $58.

STATION WAGON CHEAPER

Prices for similarly equipped models were reduced, the company said, $132.85 on the four-door station wagon in the Ambassador 880 series and $5.70 on the two and four-door sedans in the Rambler Classic models. The company's Marlin two-door hardtop, which with all the safety equipment was priced at $2,720.75 for the 1965 model, will be $2,601 on the 1966 line, a net decrease of $119.75.

Abernethy said all AMC's 1966 cars will have a new, stronger laminated windshield glass which provides higher resistance to penetration and shattering.

"Further, we will continue as standard such additional safety features as our dual brake system and variable speed windshield wipers," Abernethy said. The company said it will install an exhaust emission control system on 1966 cars sold in California, at a delivered price of $45.

was one of the methods he mentioned. He would like to see the cattle population of Eastern Canada increase by one million a head over the next five years. To do this he would like to see a national land and water services act to supply the grass and water needed for these cattle. This would include dams, better use of underground water, diversion of rivers and the drainage of land to get more grass lands.

Mr. Hamilton said if Ontario and Quebec were to join into a single milk organization the federal government might set a support price of about $4 a hundred and market the surplus milk. This could be done through a school milk program which would take about one per cent of the surplus, and second, "we would like to adopt the islands of the Caribbean. First of all bring milk to their school children, their hospitals, and line up some development projects on those islands."
