

Red Propaganda Seeking Profit From Berlin Visits

By GEORGE BOULWOOD
BERLIN (AP)—The Communist propaganda machine is working in top gear to make the most profit from the Christmas visits through West Berlin by West Berliners.

The campaign appears to have three main objectives: —To remove some of the bad odor raised by the building of the wall and shooting of refugees; —To gain a further measure of recognition from the West of the Communist regime of East Germany; —To sell the idea that West Berliners and West Germans have something to gain from negotiations with East Germany.

The controlled press of East Germany is full of editorials, interviews and descriptive stories praising the Red regime to the skies for its generosity in letting Berlin families get together for Christmas.

The fact that it was the Red regime that parted them in the first place by building the wall is played down. The wall is described as a "frontier security measure" taken in the interest of peace for all Germans; indeed, the whole world.

"Now exhibitions in Canada and the U.S. are studying the idea of putting the animals in the staff back-end first," he said.

No record is kept of the number of hands in which declarer concedes down one — even a though he could make the contract by playing on — but it usually must come to a sizable figure. Usually, the declarer gives up in such hands because he usually has no way of avoiding defeat and is anxious to get on with the next deal. This attitude is not a healthy one and can cost many points.

It is still caged in. In essence, also, is the fact that the East Berliners are still caged in and unable to return to visits by guests to the West.

Nevertheless the Communists are hammering on the theme of "something by the negotiating with us."

They say their proposal for confederation of the two German states leading to a confederation have long been on the table. They have offered to "normalize" relations with West Berlin by signing a peace treaty that would eliminate Western rights and make it a "free Germany."

This is the Communist concept of German divided into three portions—East and West and West Berlin—a concept the West does not accept.

Here is how the Communists have used the Christmas visits to promote their political aims.

The Red guards on the wall, hated because they have orders to refuse anyone who goes out of their way to be polite and helpful. The official staff of a news agency, ADN, described how a colonel of the East German news agency ADN, described how a colonel of the East German news agency helped a crippled old lady from West Berlin through the controls.

The Communist's moral: "We're human, too."

HIT BY PROPAGANDA

The visitors are constantly reminded — by loudspeaker announcements, by conversations and by leaflets handed out at the wall—that they are visiting the capital of the German Democratic Republic, not East Berlin.

They are described as "guests" in their own city. People who have actually gone from one end of a street to the other to see relatives are told they have gone from one country to another.

Leaflets handed to visitors blame the West for making the
