

Dutch Old Jo In Asia

HOLLANDIA (AP) — A flag-raising ceremony today ended Dutch rule over West New Guinea and the Netherlands' role as a colonial power in Asia which began 300 years ago.

Terminating a 15-year dispute which threatened a South Pacific war, UN and Dutch flags were raised over the former Dutch government's palace as administration of New Guinea was handed over by Acting Governor Rijkman Groenwel to Joseph R. Holtzman, Indonesian temporary UN administrator.

Under a Dutch-Indonesian agreement of Aug. 15 the UN administration will be succeeded by an Indonesian regime next May 1.

A flag-raising ceremony in Hollandia's public flag will not be flown from now on.

In a proclamation, Rijkman said this was a unique occasion because the United Nations never before had been called on for direct administration of a territory. He urged understanding and accommodation by all.

In the seven-month interval between now and May 1 the UN temporary executive authority, with the backing of a 1,000-man Pakistani security force, will endeavor to maintain order.

When most Dutch policemen and civil servants already go home, and an advance unit of only 300 Pakistanis on hand, however, there already are signs of a breakdown in administrative services and law and order.

There have been reports of riotous handover among some tribesmen.

What exactly was happening was shrouded behind the mystery of Yemen's closed borders and Saudi Arabia's controlled military region, was also the only source of information.

The radio announced five more members of the royal family and supporters were executed Saturday, bringing to 17 the total executions since the uprising began in April.

The vessel was believed to be a coastal freighter.

Rebels Fight Grip On Yemen

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
ADEN (AP) — Yemen's new military region, strengthened by British troops from the Saudi, United and United Arab Republics, announced more arrests and executions Sunday in a move to suppress a rebellion.

Yemeni sources here said the rebels apparently Sunday night in the isolated Red Sea country.

Prince Salim al-Husayn, claimant to the throne, was reported to stand firm in his nephew, Imam Mohammed al-Badr, ties to a council of war in neighboring Saudi Arabia.

The president and the foreign secretary saw world problems as the main reason for the British talks at a White House news conference.

On a potential point of difference between the British and the United States was the joint statement was blank, John Russell, spokesman for the British foreign ministry, said "it stands to reason that that subject did come up" but declined to disclose what was said on the subject.

Student Riot Quelled By Massive Federal Force

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Student-rioted briefly at the University of Mississippi Sunday night after a massive show of federal force.

U.S. marshals fired tear gas and quelled the mob action in a matter of minutes.

The violence erupted at the moment President Kennedy spoke to the country urging a peaceful settlement of the federal-state dispute over racial segregation.

Students attacked an out-of-state car, smashing the windshield and sending a man and woman flying.

They tore a news camera.

They nearly beat a minute, 200 marshals continued to fire tear gas.

The marshals fired without warning.

Students scattered in all directions.

For nearly half a minute, 200 marshals continued to fire tear gas.

At one point before the tear gas started going off, state Sen. James V. Bevel, a leader of the demonstrators, was struck in the crowd, wounded with them to look off.

The students shouted him down.

When before the marshals aimed their pellets at students appearing to be leaders of the troublemakers, they started firing.

Reporter Wounded

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — A Shotgun blast during firing on the University of Mississippi campus Sunday night wounded reporter Bill Cline of The Associated Press.

Cline himself by Tuesday faces charges and a $10,000 fine for allegedly urging himself off the campus.

He urged the students to preserve the peace, Kennedy said.

The eyes of all the world are on you... and your honor and the honor of the university are at stake.

Kennedy said that while everyone is free to disagree with me, I am not free to be highly placed in disloyalty to the surest road to tyranny.

CITIZEN DUTY

A government, he said, can permit "no mob however unruly or obstinate to defile the streets of a city."

He said that the responsibility for the peace and order of the city is not the responsibility of the police alone.

Kennedy had delivered his speech from 7:30 p.m. after a 20-minute delay in the stadium.
