

Mr. Moody on Public Speaking.

Mr. D. L. Moody is very fond of talking to the boys of the schools near his home, sometimes on Bible subjects and sometimes on other topics. Addressing a class once on public speaking he made the following points:

- 1. Don't talk too much.
2. Don't talk unless you are posted.
3. Give the best you have.
4. Don't talk when people are asleep.
5. Don't try to show off your learning.
6. Get hold of the most stupid man and you'll hold the rest.
7. Don't try, but don't be afraid, to make people laugh.
8. Be natural, don't try to be some one else.
9. Avoid cant and pulpit tones.
10. Don't preach too long.
11. Don't hesitate to repeat what God uses.
12. Don't keep on talking just because you are holding the audience.
13. While people are gathering, use the time with song.
14. Shoot where people stand.
15. Don't gesture and move about too much, and don't talk with your hands in your pockets.

The Girl He Kissed.

IT LOOKED SQUALLY FOR AWHILE, BUT THE YOUNG HUSBAND PULLED THROUGH.

A young lawyer, who has been recently married to a beautiful belle, was made the victim of a malicious anonymous letter that might have resulted seriously to his domestic happiness. It seems that the young man has made an enemy of a man who has an office so near that he can at times overlook his movements. A few days ago the young man's bride received an anonymous letter saying: "As new a groom as your husband ought not to have a young lady call on him in his office, and he ought not to take her in his arms and kiss her. Wednesday, 11.15 a. m." The young wife was almost heartbroken. She cried until her eyes were red, and when her lord came home upbraid him bitterly. She showed him the letter, and he didn't have any explanation but a denial, matters began to look very interesting around his home. He couldn't think who would tell such a falsehood about him, and he started down town in a very moody condition. As he sat in the corner of the car brooding over his trouble, an idea suddenly struck him. It had the same effect on him as if he had sat down on a pin. In an instant he was running at full speed homeward, while the passengers in the car were congratulating themselves on their narrow escape from a dangerous lunatic. Bursting into his wife's room he fairly danced with delight as he exclaimed: "Don't you remember! You were in my office Wednesday morning, you were the young woman I kissed!" Peace now reigns, but he had a close call.—Louisville Post.

She Would not Swear or Kiss the Book.

A lady voter who approached the curtain in one of the St. Paul's Ward polling booths yesterday to record her vote was challenged by the "liquor interest scrutineer, and the following dialogue ensued:

Scrutineer—My dear madame, I must request that you be sworn.

Lady—Me sworn! What must I be sworn for.

Scrutineer—No offence, ma'am, is meant at all: you know it is our business to swear any person who we think is not qualified to vote.

Lady—I never swore in my life and won't swear now; but what must I say, at any rate!

Scrutineer—(Handing up the Bible)—All you have to do is to kiss this Holy Book.

Lady—Do you think I would kiss that dirty thing after you, you blackguard, mauling it all over with your greasy fingers! If I can have nothing better than that to kiss, I will not vote at all.

And she left.—Toronto Globe.

It is singular that the London correspondents should make the mistake of saying, as they do, that the opening of Parliament by Queen Victoria on the 21st, was her first public appearance since the death of the Prince Consort, twenty-three years ago. Within recent years the Queen has several times opened Parliament in person. In 1871, nine years after the prince's death, she took part in a very elaborate ceremonial, at which were present the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Teck, Prince Arthur, the Princesses Louise and Beatrice, the Duke of Cambridge and Earl Granville, then Lord Chancellor, who read the speech, Assembled in the Peers' chamber were representatives of all the wealth, blood and beauty of the kingdom.

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored.

We have recently published a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excess. Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cts or two postage stamps. The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically. This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Address: THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO., 41 Ann St., New York. Post Office Box 450
