The results of the tests are not to be taken as a definite standard in themselves for the grading or non-grading of pupils into Grade 9 but are to be used in conjunction with the tests set by the individual teacher throughout the school year. It was suggested that similar tests could be given to all grades shortly after school opens in the fall and another test before closing in June and thus an accurate estimate could be obtained.

How many gallons in a pay cheque?

More than ever before! Back in 1939, for instance the average Canadian weekly pay cheque would buy 84 gallons of gasoline... based on figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Today's weekly pay cheque will buy 144 gallons, including the provincial gasoline tax, which is considerably higher than before the war.

To put it another way... in 1939 the average Canadian worked 33 minutes to earn enough to buy one gallon of gasoline. Today he works just 17 minutes, or about half the time. And today's Esso gives more miles and better performance than ever before.
