

Among The Farmers

(Federation of Agriculture News)

The Financial Post

The Financial Post is expert at bogymen behind every farm organization tree, and has recently suffered a marked rise in blood pressure as the result of a campaign by the Manitoba Farmers' Union to gain support for the setting up of a Livestock Marketing Board in that Province.

The Farmers' Union is not in any sense a national body and when the Post conjures up a nightmare in which all connected with the meat industry are the victims of the wicked dislike of the Post for all organizations which have their genesis with the ordinary man, it is getting the better of its common sense. The mouthpiece of big business refers to wheat marketing as a mess and from the standpoint of the cigar-smoking tycoon who used to rampage on the floors of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, gambling with the farmers' products and the food of the world, we suppose it is.

It is quite likely that the Post numbers among its friends and is strongly supported by those groups which people of Canada have found necessary to preach for price fixing and various practices in restraint of trade. We do not recall on any occasion of the Post playing the role of St. George in hunting down any of the dragons which the government has discovered in big business.

The philosopher which sees in the little man's efforts to improve his position a threat to the general welfare and yet overlooks the machinations of its powerful friends, is hardly a worthy one on the part of the spokesman for the financial interest of this country.

Shall We Sow

It is not to be wondered that the Canadian farmer becomes the victim of some mental confusion when considering the question of production. He is constantly being urged by conservation-minded people and by Depts. of Agriculture to maintain and increase the fertility of his soil and efficiency of both plant and animal production. Putting this advice into practice is bound to result in greater production and still greater surplus which are presently bedeviling the market for most major products.

Advising the Canadian farmer to improve the fertility of his soil really amounts to advising him to plough his money or profits, if any, back into the soil. From the standpoint of posterity this may be a very sound thing to do, but unfortunately, the stern reality of present day financial obligations forces the farmer to take steps to protect his own position rather than to lay up stores for future generations. If the farmer adopts a policy of conserving his soil by reducing production and incidentally raising food prices to the consumer, then he becomes a villain who is fattening up the grocery basket of the housewife.

It then begins to appear that what policy the farmer follows he is bound to be a source of annoyance to the tax-payer who is bound to resent, on the one hand, the high cost of scarcity in the form of dear food, or the moderate cost of subsidizing food production until that happy day when the Canadian population can consume it all, or the hungry of the world can afford at least one square meal per day.

Dairy Advertising

For the first time Island dairymen will have the opportunity of contributing one cent for each pound of butterfat produced in the month of June to a national advertising and promotional program administered by the Dairy Farmers of Canada, an organization controlled and directed by Canadian Farmers. Already every creamery, cheese factory and milk plant has provided its patrons with a pamphlet which explains the purpose of the contribution, and states plainly that if the farmer does not wish to cooperate he is free to advise his plant to that effect.

It should be clearly understood that our dairy concerns do not receive for their own use any of the money, neither do they receive any part of the work they do in the considerable amount of bookkeeping entailed.

The dairy plants are freely assisting the farmer in raising money for the developments of his own industry and are to be commended for their assistance in this respect.

June Meetings

Towards the latter part of June each Country Federation will be holding its usual semi-annual meeting. These meetings come at a time when the rush of cropping is over and before haying starts and give the farmer the opportunity of meeting with his county neighbors for the discussion of agricultural problems. It is likely that at these meetings an expression of opinion will be sought on policies to be followed by the Potato Board in the handling of this year's crop.

In Kings County the term of the Potato Board of both producer members expires and the regulations call for an election among the producers. A member of the Potato Board holds a position of both responsibility and of authority, and it is important that the best man possible be selected, for this reason the potato growers of Kings County should do some serious thinking on the matter and be prepared to attend in large numbers any meeting which may be called for the election of Board Members.

Seek $100,000 From Stampeders

CHICAGO, (AP)—Chicago Bears of the National Football League filed a $100,000 damage suit in California Monday against the coach and general manager of Calgary Stampeders.

The suit alleged the Calgary coach, Lawrence Sembler, and manager Robert H. Robinson, "willfully and maliciously" induced Eddie Macon, Bear halfback, to breach his 1954 contract with the Bears.

Macon and Sembler live in Stockton, Calif., and the suit was filed in U. S. district court in Sacramento, Bear offices in Chicago said.

The Cathedral Parish Of St. Dunstan In Charlottetown

The diocese of Charlottetown did not long remain widowed, for on the 8th of May 1860, Rev. Peter MacIntyre was appointed Bishop of Charlottetown, and on the fifteenth of August of that year was consecrated in St. Dunstan's Cathedral, where Rev. James Rogers was on the same day consecrated Bishop of the new diocese of Chatham, New Brunswick. The following account of the ceremony is taken from the Charlottetown Examiner of August 21, 1860.

"Consecration of the Bishops of Charlottetown and Chatham: This important event as announced in our last number, took place in St. Dunstan's Cathedral on Wednesday the 15th, instant, it being the feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin. It was the first ceremony of the kind ever witnessed in this Island, and consequently it attracted much attention. Besides the very numerous attendance of Catholics from all parts of the Colony, anxious to witness the elevation to the episcopal dignity of the amiable and indefatigable priest who is to be their chief pastor, a large number of Protestants were also present on the interesting occasion. The weather was the most favorable that could be desired, and this contributed no doubt to swell the large attendance which occupied the Cathedral from an early hour until the close of the ceremonies.

"About half past nine o'clock the high dignitaries of the church and other ecclesiastics, left the Episcopal Palace, lately fitted up in sumptuous style for his Lordship Dr. MacIntyre, and preceded by the Processional and Archiepiscopal crosses, all vested in their appropriate robes, walked in procession to the Cathedral in nearly the following order:

His grace the most Rev. T. S. Connolly, Archbishop of Halifax—Consecrating Bishop.
The Right Rev. Dr. Rogers, Bishop elect of Chatham.
The Right Rev. Dr. Mullock, Bishop of St. John's, Newfoundland, Assistants to Dr. Rogers.
The Right Rev. Dr. Dalton, Bishop of Harbour Grace, Newfoundland.
The Right Rev. Dr. MacIntyre, Bishop elect of Charlottetown.
The Right Rev. Dr. MacKinnon, Bishop of Arichat, Assistants to Dr. MacIntyre.

The Right Rev. Dr. Sweeney, Bishop of St. John, New Brunswick.
Rev. Mr. Power of Halifax—Deacon.
Rev. Mr. McManus of New Brunswick, sub-deacon.
Rev. Mr. Belcourt of Rustico, Deacon of Honour to the Archbishop.
Rev. Mr. Phelan of Charlottetown, Sub-deacon, of honour to the Archbishop.
Rev. Angus MacDonald of St. Dunstan's College, Master of Ceremonies.
Rev. Michael Eagan, of Miramichi, Chaplain to Dr. Rogers.
Very Rev. James MacDonald of Grand River West, P. E. I. Chaplain to Dr. MacIntyre.
Rev. Mr. Vercker of St. John's, Newfoundland, chaplain to Dr. Mullock.
Rev. Mr. O'Connor, Chaplain to Dr. Dalton.
Rev. Mr. MacGillivray of Arichat, Chaplain to Dr. MacKinnon.
Rev. James Quinn of St. Stephen's New Brunswick, Chaplain to Dr. Sweeney.
Rev. Dr. Daniel MacDonald of St. Columba, East Point.
Rev. Canon Woods of Halifax.
Rev. Pius MacPhee of St. Andrew's, P. E. I.

Rt. Rev. Peter MacIntyre, Third Bishop of Charlottetown (1860-1891)

"The church was beautifully and tastefully decorated for the occasion—evidences of the taste and skill of the good sisters of the congregation of Notre Dame being conspicuous in every part of the interior of the building." At the time of his being chosen Bishop of Charlottetown, Father MacIntyre was mission priest of Tignish. Immediately upon his consecration, he removed to the capital and he rented the old homestead of the Reddin family which stood upon the site now occupied by the Episcopal Palace.

procession, and vested himself in the robes suitable for the Mass. Rarely was beheld a more magnificent spectacle than that presented at this stage of the proceedings. The richness and beauty of the vestments, the chaste and beautiful decorations of the tabernacle and sanctuary, the venerable and sanctified appearance of His Grace, the Bishops and the clergy, all were calculated to make impressions on the mind of the spectator, and excite emotions, not easily effaced or subdued.

"After the first gospel, the preacher, the Rev. Canon Woods of Halifax, having first received His Grace's benediction, ascended the pulpit and delivered an eloquent discourse suitable to the occasion. He proved the Divine origin of the Episcopacy from the Scriptures and the testimony of the Fathers, pointed out the many and onerous duties connected with the office of Bishop, enlarged on the claims which a Bishop has on the fidelity and obedience of those whom he rules; and concluded by passing a very high eulogium on the two dioceses who were that day about to be elevated to the episcopal dignity, for their zeal in the discharge of their duties while missionaries.

"The sermon over, the ceremony was proceeded with in the usual manner and with the utmost regularity and precision. Old and experienced clergymen assert that they have seldom seen the solemn ceremonies of the Church performed in better order, and everyone we are assured who took part in the proceedings was thoroughly acquainted with his business. At the conclusion of the Mass, the Archbishop, the other Bishops and clergy all returned to the Episcopal Palace in the same order in which they came to the Cathedral in the morning.

and which he made his home. Rev. Thomas Phelan was transferred to Tracadie and the late very Rev. Dr. Daniel MacDonald was appointed vicar general, and priest in charge of Charlottetown. After the removal of Father Phelan to Tracadie, the house which he had so long occupied and which had been built by the zealous Father Fitzgerald was sold to one James McInnis and hauled to Queen Street where, added to and rejuvenated it long stood, the dwelling house and business establishment of Mrs. Offer.

In 1862, the Bishop purchased the house of Mr. Joseph MacDonald on Dorchester Street and removed to it in the summer of that year.

In 1862 St. Dunstan's College, originally a wooden building, was encased in brick. To assist in defraying the expense of this undertaking the sisters of the congregation of Notre Dame held a bazaar in the college, the first Catholic Bazaar ever held in the diocese. It was very successful, $350 being realized.

1864 was marked by a notable achievement which deserves a place of honour in the annals of the diocese.

At that time, when Charlottetown was not, as it is to-day, bristling with schools, and when its educational establishments were exclusively Protestant, with the exception of the one Convent Boarding School on Hillsborough Square, there was felt to be great need of a day school at the west end of the town. The old Convent of Notre Dame was crowded to its capacity, and the teachers' strength overtaxed in attending to the large number of children who flocked to their classes; yet, all these children came from homes in the east end of the city; those of the west end were unprovided for. The Bishop ever zealous for the welfare of the little ones of his flock, took this matter into consideration, and endeavored to procure a house in a convenient neighbourhood, where the Nuns could open a school.

His Lordship purchased a lot on Pownall Street, whereon stood some very dilapidated houses, one of which might be made habitable and, while it was under repairs, he placed the Sacristy of the Cathedral at the disposal of two of the Nuns, who, for some weeks, taught a class of ninety-two little girls in this very small apartment. They then moved into the repaired cottage, which was small and dingy, and not by any means suitable. They believed, however, that a blessing would rest on their labors, and their faith was rewarded—Providence soon came to their aid.

"The church was beautifully and tastefully decorated for the occasion—evidences of the taste and skill of the good sisters of the congregation of Notre Dame being conspicuous in every part of the interior of the building." At the time of his being chosen Bishop of Charlottetown, Father MacIntyre was mission priest of Tignish. High Voltage ALUMINUM CABLE from Canada was used in a Peruvian high-voltage power line, installed at altitudes of from 13,000 to 15,000 feet—the world's highest. Canada supplied not only the cable but also the technical assistance required on this record job. We imagine that aluminum's light weight was particularly appreciated by the llamas or whatever other beasts of burden were used to get the cable to the top.

In the rugged mountain country of British Columbia where Alcan's own huge Kifmat development is going on, the aluminum transmission lines used represent another record: they are the largest-diameter overhead power lines in the world. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).
