Fine Weather Greeted Sunday School Picnics

The largest number of children to attend Trinity United Church Sunday school and congregational picnic gathered Saturday afternoon at Stanhope.

Over 500 kiddies accompanied by parents and teachers enjoyed bathing in the surf. The weather after causing a postponement the previous week, co-operated fully and a well planned program of sports was carried out by Col. A. W. Rogers.

The picnic was under the direction of Trinity Men's Association with vice-president, Frank Goober presiding. Among the guests were some 30 children of the Prince Edward Island Protestant Orphanage. Members of the congregation co-operated by providing volunteer transportation.

Adding much to the enjoyment of the day was the Band of Queen Charlotte High School who played during the afternoon. The band was present through courtesy of Bandmaster Iva Cudmore.

ST. PAUL'S
The children of St. Paul's Anglican Church Sunday School were favoured with ideal weather for their annual picnic at Dalvay on Saturday which was also attended by their teachers, and many parents.

In addition to the many treats handed out, the children partook of the substantial lunches provided and took part in the usual sports events.

Successful Field Day Held By Radio 'Hams'

Over 300 contacts were made by members of the Keith Rogers Memorial Club as they took part in the American League's Annual Field Day over the weekend. This is the second successive year that the club has participated in the exercise.

The 11 members who took part were able to contact a great many of the states and provinces as far south as Florida and west to Manitoba.

The site for the field day held at Holland Cove was supplied by His Honor, Lieut.-Gov. F. Walter Hyndman, who is also a very active member of the club and has been associated with the hobby since as far back as 1916.

The object of such a field day is to give the operators an idea of what to expect from their equipment in case of an emergency.

Stations were kept in operation from four o'clock Saturday until four o'clock Sunday without a single interruption of any equipment. By careful placement of antennae the "hams" were able to operate all four stations from the same site at the same time.

Walkie-talkies were used across the harbour and also used for tuning the antennae, which were about 400 feet from the station.

Eight local young lads, from 14 years of age and up, had the opportunity of watching the "experts" at work and were allowed to operate the equipment along with a licensed operator.

PROSPECTIVE MEMBERS

terminated most successful with over 300 contacts being made in many of the states and provinces. A total of 11 members of the club took part in the exercise.

Members were Douglas Moser, VE1ACL, Clifton Stewart, VE1GR and Alan MacKenzie, VE1PR.

SAID SUCCESSFUL
The weekend exercise was described by Stewart Smith VE1ZM, as being "most successful." The field day was climaxed by a lobster supper prepared by members and their wives.

The radio "hams" are not special people, they come from all walks of life, doctors, lawyers, electricians, or the plain every day working man.

An amateur operator gets his first start when he knows Morse code and is able to send and receive 10 words per minute. Later when he has gained a basic knowledge of electricity and a rules governing radio, he is required to write an examination on the subject. If successful in passing his tests, he is given the privilege of talking with anyone in the world using Morse code.

Gradually, when he has gained more knowledge of Morse code and radio and has passed the required examinations, he becomes a licensed amateur radio operator.

PRODUCERS PRIMARILY
The Falconwood Holstein herd which he invited all to inspect, was selected primarily for production and not for their ability in the show ring as some critics had stated, Mr. Cullen said.

Only one cow in the entire herd tested less than the breed class average, the minister maintained.

All three provincial ministers agreed that the tri-province association in existence since 1957 had been of great value to the Holstein breeders.

Mr. Sherwood suggested that the committee study carefully the possibility of establishing a joint foundation herd by acquiring several of the best available dams and sires.

Such a move would serve as a "shot in the arm" to the entire livestock industry he said.

RAPS DEFEATISTS
Mr. Haliburton said that the people of the Maritimes needed to rid themselves of the too prevalent "defeatist" attitude, and begin to recognize the many opportunities that exist "quite literally underfoot."

For instance, with some added effort and initiative Prince Edward Island, always a synonym for quality in agricultural products, could easily produce and sell considerably more livestock.

With its abundance of uniform soil and level land, the Island Province would soon become outstanding in this field, the Nova Scotia minister asserted.

Mr. Sherwood stated that Maritime farmers must continue to maintain a "happy balance" between their grass and grain acreages.

The policy of devoting more land to the cultivation of grain advocated in an earlier speech by the Hon. Mr. Matheson could be carried too far, the New Brunswick minister warned.

PREMIER'S SUGGESTION
Revitalizing the Island's grain-growing potentiality to the point that it might once more become an exporter of this valuable product, might help in keeping more of the Province's young people at home, Mr. Matheson told the Holstein gathering.

GUARDS SHIFT AT STANDING

LONDON (Reuters) — Officers of the stiff-backed Brigade of Guards are accustomed to long tours of standing at duty at their posts.

But they have given up trying to stand up with Queen Elizabeth's uncle, the Duke of Gloucester.

Protocol lays down that no one can sit while royalty stands.

The duke is colonel of the Scots Guards and this puts the Guards officers in a way to do a lot of standing.

But they have found a way around the problem.

The Sunday Express reported Sunday that they now have a relay system.

The duke maintains his post in front of the fireplace and they spell each other in groups.

While one group stands to protocol, the other puts its feet up in an adjoining television room, relaxing during a rest period.

Regal Dinner Is Good Draw

CHICAGO (AP)—Only 11 of 511 invitations issued to a dinner for Queen Elizabeth July 6 have been turned down, it was disclosed Saturday.

Jack Reilly, in charge of dinner arrangements, said the overwhelming acceptance of 500 short-noticed summer dinner invitations "is probably without parallel in the history of Chicago."

Those who can't come—17 in all, because some of the invitations were doubles, including husband and wife—are out of the country, for the most part, Reilly said.

One of those who can't attend is Adlai E. Stevenson, former presidential candidate, who is in Europe.

CBC Tribulations

mentary climaxed a series of crises involving the CBC. Compared with these troubles, the CBC's usual problems—issues such as whether it should televise some football or hockey game—pale into insignificance.

The CBC began the year with a strike of producers on its French-language radio and TV networks at Montreal that lasted 68 days.

The long and sometimes bitter strike was hardly ended before the CBC landed in hot water over a French-network TV program on the early life of Mother Marguerite d'Youville, beatified founder of the Grey Nuns of Montreal. The program's treatment of her early life brought such a storm of protest from Roman Catholic circles in Quebec that CBC management issued an abrupt public apology.

Then there was the battering taken by the corporation before the Commons broadcasting committee. Determined Progressive Conservative MPs overrode CBC objections—and even the disapproval of Revenue Minister Nowlan—to force the CBC to disclose the well-kept secret of how much of the cost of sponsored TV shows was being subsidized by the taxpayer.

At one point witness E. L. Bushnell, the CBC's acting pres-
