

HAZARD'S GAZETTE

Wednesday, November 28, 1855.

The Editor of the Examiner, with an apparent show of justice, complained to the Corporation made by the City Council. There has been, however, much more done than he is aware of. The formation of a Code of Bye-Laws is not so easy as the Examiner supposes. It is not the duty of the Recorder to draft the municipal code, for he cannot be supposed to know the facts, except as they are furnished to him in writing, how the City Council shall be governed, and the copying the Laws of other places is attended with no small risk of doing injury instead of good. The Recorder of the City is not a lawyer, and the City is encumbered with the better. We agree however, with him, in wishing that the Council had taken into their consideration the subject of the streets and sewers; these are most important subjects, and the sooner they are settled about the better. The principal end in instituting the Corporation system was, to enable it to borrow money to execute these improvements, and it is accordingly empowered to raise £5,000 by way of loan, but we have not as yet heard a word of advertising for tenders either for making sewers, or leading main. All, however, is in good time as yet, the winter is now setting in, and the plan of operations may be readily and satisfactorily adopted. The necessary preliminary preparations made in order to open the campaign with vigor, as soon as the Spring commences. The first thing, however, is to ascertain the resources of the City, and this cannot be effected, until the Assessors have raised their report as to the amount of property liable for assessment. It is necessary to raise the necessary sum to meet the annual or semi-annual payment of the interest upon the sum intended to be borrowed, this is absolutely necessary for no one can afford to do so, unless he saw that the payment of the interest was secured beyond the possibility of dispute. This point satisfactorily settled, the Council would, we think, be readily forthcoming. We have not the least doubt, but that the Council will bend their energies to the task of doing as well as they can, and they will solve worthy of the trust that has been reposed in them.

The Westminster Review has been just received, and we have had the pleasure to read one of the articles "The Position of Woman." This, however, is extremely interesting, and displays a depth of research and a variety of facts, which we think will be perfectly competent to the task he has undertaken. We propose to give some extracts in a future issue of our Gazette. The names are as follows:—1, Euclid; 2, Marcus Tullius Cicero; 3, The position of woman in Barbarism and among the Ancients; 4, Evangelical Teaching; 5, The British system carried by Legislation; 6, The London Daily Press.—Contemporary Literature.

Gas Light.—The question appears to be almost universal throughout the country.—Why is it that we have such bad Gas? We cannot answer, but certain it is, that we never had, and could scarcely have worse. The gas light under which we sit at present is scarcely eight inches from the sheet of paper, and yet we are compelled to have a lighted candle before us to enable us to see. It has gone out of its own accord four times within the last fifteen minutes, and is now fluttering like the snuff of an exhausted candle. We note the remarks of the Editor of the Times Company. Time—Friday evening, six o'clock. There is something very wrong about the transmission of the Company. If we are to have gas, let us have something deserving the name.—Ed.

The Rev. Mr. Brewster, according to announcements, delivered his Lecture upon "The War," to a large and crowded audience in the Temperance Hall, on Monday evening, the 19th inst. The Rev. Mr. Goveyland had attended the meeting with his presence, and occupied the chair on the right of the President. By special request, the Hon. Charles Young, M.P., read the following address, concluding by reading the following appropriate Hymn—

The Lord is King, and earth submits,
How'er impatient, to his sway;
Between the Cherubim he sits,
And round him hovers his seraphim.
All power is to our Jesus given;
O'er earth's rebellious sons he reigns;
He mid the rulers of heav'n;
And holds the powers of hell in chain.
Come giants' Lord, the rebels smite,
And sweep the foes, and all the powers,
And Gath and Ashteth shall mourn,
And all the sons of God shall sing:
Shall magnify the sovereign grace
Of him that sits upon the throne;
And all have joy and praise to raise
Jehovah, and his conquering Son.

The Chair, under the able superintendance of Mr. Mackintosh, the hymn, accompanied by a Melodion, played by Miss Dauchman. Mr. Brewster was then introduced, and for an hour and a-half, enlivened his audience with one of the most humorous—partly written, but chiefly extemporaneous—that we have ever been privileged to hear. He commenced by stating, that he did not intend to enter into the question of the rights of the origin of the present war, nor to occupy time in fruitless speculation of its final result; but he would draw his views upon the pure, calm, and benevolent motives by which Great Britain and France were prompted in invading the soil in behalf of Turkey against Russia.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Extraordinary Cure of a Bad Breast.—The wife of Mr Arthur Burn, of St. John, N. B., was, after the birth of their last child, a constant sufferer with a bad breast, there being several holes in it, and despite of the various remedies tried, her husband could not get anything to benefit it. After every other remedy had failed to cure the sufferer, she had recourse to Holloway's Ointment and Pills, which as a matter of course, quickly caused an improvement in the appearance of the affected breast, and in a few days she was completely cured. This wonderful Ointment will also readily cure all diseases of the skin.
