A DIFFERENCE IN PRICE.

The Member of the Legislature Rises to Express His Surprise.

Four or five Washington correspondents were telling stories of their experiences with statesmen, local and national, when one of them from a state in the southwest swung into line with something a little out of the ordinary.

"I was doing the legislature," he began, "for a syndicate of newspapers, with some free lance work on the side, and was making a potful of money out of it. During the course of my ministrations I discovered a case of vote selling by a rural representative that was astonishing for its smallness. I couldn't find out what the member got, but it couldn't have been much, for the whole matter at issue wasn't worth more than $4.50 or thereabout.

After exhausting all my sources of information I thought I would try the member himself and see how guileless he was on a little thing like that. I didn't dare ask him his price, but I did dare to talk about it, and I went at him directly.

"Say, young feller," he said after I had talked awhile, "how much do you give for a news item like that?"

"It's a pretty big thing for me," I replied persuasively, "and I'll get $25 for the story if I can get it complete."

"How much?" he asked, with an eager air. "Twenty-five dollars," I repeated. "Gee whiz! I'd like to have your job."

"Why? It isn't an easy one. Not so easy as yours anyway."

"Pr'aps it ain't," he said slowly, "but it pays better."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, you get $25 for jist telling about what I done fer $5."

"The syntax mightn't have been perfect perhaps," concluded the speaker, "but the fact was, and that was what I wanted."—Washington Star.

How Memory Saves Life.

"You say," said the captain as the rescued man was handed up from the lifeboat, "that you have been floating in the water for five days and nights. You must be the most remarkable swimmer in the world to have kept up so long."

"I can't swim a bit," said the rescued man as he wrung a few gallons of water from his garments and drank the glass of grog the steward brought him.

"Then why were you not drowned?"

"Well, you know, before a man drowns, his whole past life has got to rise up before him. I had only reached about my fourth year when your boat picked me up, you see?"—Strand Magazine.

Two Points of View.

Diggs—Senator Poser seems to be a man of very broad views.

Biggs—Yes, indeed. I don't believe it is possible to bring up a question that he can't straddle.—Chicago News.

There is an old philosopher, prophet and poet in California who claims that he has solved the problem of living forever. He lives a hermit's life, eats only three times a week and never expects to die.

IT DON'T PAY

To buy drinks for the boys—it don't pay to buy drinks for yourself. It will pay to quit, but the trouble has been to do this. The Dixon Vegetable Cure will absolutely remove all desire for liquor in a couple of days, so you can quit without any self-denial, and nobody need know you are taking medicine, which is perfectly harmless, pleasant to taste, and produces good appetite, refreshing sleep, steady nerves, and does not interfere with business duties. You'll save money and gain in health and self respect from the start. Full particulars sealed. The Dixon Cure Co., No 40 Park avenue, (near Milton St.), Montreal. 4

The Dress Suit Case.

The dress suit case, originally intended for the uses implied in its name, became long ago a regular traveling bag, and it is now extensively used as such. It is made not only in various lengths and breadths, but in various depths, thus adapting it to the needs of the traveler. And it has in large measure supplanted the old style valise.

Dress suit cases may now be seen that are covered with steamer labels. These indicate as perhaps no other marks of travel could the promotion of the dress suit case to full rank as an article of equipment for travel.—New York Sun.

Different Aspects.

It is we who have what we call self confidence. The other fellows are filled with self conceit.—Boston Transcript.

THE WHOLE system feels the effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla—stomach, liver, kidneys, heart, nerves are strengthened and SUSTAINED.
