Vocational Guidance First Ever For Area

SOURIS — Dr. Wolfgang Marold, Souris, welcomed over 100 students to the first vocational guidance course ever held in the Souris area. The course was sponsored by the Souris Lions Club and was conducted yesterday afternoon in the Souris Regional High School. Chairman for the opening ceremonies was Albert Fogarty, principal of the Souris Regional High School.

The students were addressed by three speakers before they went to individual classrooms for special vocational advice. George Cheverie, representative of the National Employment Service, Malcolm MacKenzie, deputy minister of education, and Prof. Ian Campbell, dean of the faculty of arts at Bishop's University, outlined the importance of the course and the need for more vocational training on Prince Edward Island.

Nearly every phase of employment was covered in the course and the students had over 25 counsellors to choose from. Counsellors for the course were Camille Gallant, Ian MacGregor, Norma Morrissey, Cpl. Colin Craig RCMP, Mrs. Eugene Mac-of milk will receive a lump sum payment of $124. A producer who marketed 100,000 pounds of milk will receive $220 and a producer who marketed 200,000 pounds of milk will receive $320. The estimated average producer price for milk in the province is slightly over $100. Cream shippers would receive the same benefits based on an average fat test of 3.5 per cent.

Ayles, Peter MacNeil, Wallace MacKenzie, Henry Larier, Milton Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Walter Solomon, Mrs. Melvin MacQuaid, Sister St. Elaine, Eugene MacDonaid, Dr. Wolfgang Marold, Gerald Allen, Dr. Edward Kassner, John Hughes, Bill Ledwell, Melvin MacQuaid, Sgt. T. F. Binn, Sister St. Augustine, and Mrs. Louise Glenn.

200,000 ELIGIBLE — Mr. Hays said between 200,000 and 210,000 producers will be eligible to receive these supplementary payments.

He estimated the cost of the new program at slightly more than $20,000,000, bringing the cost of the year all dairy assistance program to about $30,000,000.

At the same time, Mr. Hays announced the agriculture stabilization board will be authorized to maintain the support level of 64 cents a pound or creamery butter on the existing basis.

The minister said in his statement the new policy is "designed to provide dairy farmers with an adequate income while at the same time assuring the Canadian consumer a constant supply of the highest quality dairy products at stable prices which will ensure optimum consumption."

He said Canada is a relatively high-cost dairy producing country because of geography and climate. It would be "realistic" to provide a level of support on all milk products that could result in surplus production and a return to an accumulation of stocks.

Failing To Stop Brings $50 Fine

For failing to stop at the scene of an accident, James Frederick Murphy, Vernon Bridge, was fined $50 and costs or 30 days when he appeared before Magistrate James B. Johnston, Q.C. in Queens County Magistrate Court Friday afternoon.

A French Village man pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of liquor in a place other than his residence and was fined $20 and costs or 30 days. Gordon Lockhard Bennett, 102 Upper Prince Street, had his case dismissed. He was charged with driving without due care and attention.

For backing a vehicle when it was unsafe to do so, John Leighton Stewart, Parkdale, had his case adjourned to April 12.

The case of Grant Willis of North River, charged with failing to report an accident, was dismissed.

A commission would be introduced "at the earliest possible opportunity." The board, working with the provinces, would have the responsibility "for the overall relationship between governments and the dairy industry."

HAYS REVEALS

This applies to whole milk. It has an average fat content of about 3.5 per cent across Canada. If farmers get higher prices because of higher fat content, it doesn't mean a lower deficiency payment for them. They would continue to get additional returns over and above the guaranteed prices.

This deficiency payment will be paid out by the processors, who will be reimbursed by the government.

PRICE GUARANTEED — This price guarantee of $3.30 will cover only the portion of milk used in Canada and the amount of the payments will be reduced by the cost of export assistance.

This will mean that if manufacturing milk production and domestic use are in balance," said Mr. Hays, "producers will on the average receive the full $3.30 per hundredweight."

If production exceeds domestic use, the support level will drop by the amount it takes to move the surplus into export.

Mr. Hays gave the common example: "If it were found that a national average deficiency payment of 15 cents per hundred pounds was to be paid under this plan and if the deductible cost of exporting surplus production amounted to five cents a hundred, the actual deficiency payment would be 10 cents per hundred."

The cost of exporting fluid milk will not be deducted from the deficiency payments to producers of manufacturing milk.

On top of this deficiency payment plan, the government will make a direct supplementary payment to producers to raise the level to about $3.50. This payment will go to producers of more than 10,000 pounds of milk or equivalent during the 1964-65 dairy year.

OTHERS NOT CONSIDERED — Mr. Hays said in his statement of the Commons "since that is less than the production of two very average cows or one good cow, the government does not believe" other farmers should "be considered dairy farmers."

This would encourage small farmers to establish themselves on a more economic basis.

In order for smaller farmers to get a relatively higher level of assistance under this supplementary program, Mr. Hays said this is how the scheme would work:

For eligible producers, that is, those marketing at least 10,000 pounds of milk last year, the rate of payment will be 25 cents per hundredweight for the first 47,999 pounds of milk marketed. It will be 20 cents per hundredweight for the amount between 48,000 and 95,999 pounds and 10 cents per hundredweight for all milk marketed in excess of 95,999 pounds.

Thus a producer who in 1964-65 marketed 50,000 pounds

DR. F. W. Gooderham, Ontario Alcoholism Research director, was the keynote speaker at the fifth annual conference of Alcohol Education Studies currently in session at the Charlottetown Hotel. Dr. Gooderham addressed the delegates in a morning session yesterday and delivered the main conference address at a banquet last evening. Some of the high points of his speech were discussed last evening by Dr. Gooderham Premier Walter R. Shaw, and Dr. J. E. Caron, director of Alcohol Education and Rehabilitation for the province of New Brunswick.

Alcoholism Tied In With Spiritual Need

Dr. F. W. Gooderham, Ontario Alcoholism Research Foundation director, delivered the main conference address at the fifth annual alcohol education conference held last evening in the Charlottetown Hotel. Dr. Gooderham also delivered a keynote speech at a morning session of the two-day conference.

In his evening address, Dr. Gooderham connected alcoholism and the need for spiritual help. "It is my experience that many of those suffering from alcoholism have a great need for spiritual help. Given the opportunity they will express this need but they must be allowed to do so in their own way and without receiving judgement."

"Let each man practice that form of religion which is his choice and work out his own particular method of interpretation. Let those of us who profess to be Christians at least practice the example we have been given. Let us make it easy for these people to come forward with their problem."

The speaker also commented on the various organizations designed to help the alcoholic. "Let us honestly examine the assumptions that underlie their methods and let us honestly admit which of them have been scientifically proven to be correct and which are still assumptions."

"Sickness makes no selection according to dogma or creed," he said, "basically, I believe that the purpose of religion is to provide comfort so that mankind can better accept his misfortunes, be it alcoholism or another form of addiction. To do this it is necessary to have understanding of the spiritual area of our existence and to resolve our conflicts in this area."

The conference opened yesterday morning at the Charlottetown Hotel, and will conclude today. 133 delegates from all over Prince Edward Island came to hear the speeches, panel discussions and films which highlighted the two-day study course.

Potato Plebiscite Discussed

SOURIS — The P.E.I. Potato Marketing Board held a meeting in the Souris Regional High School yesterday afternoon to discuss the upcoming plebiscite and to inform producers and dealers of the plans of the board regarding the plebiscite.

Lou Burge, president of the board, issued a statement concerning the plebiscite and introduced the keynote speakers for the meeting.

Hon. Andrew MacRae, minister of agriculture, addressed the growers and issued a warning regarding the production and the actual work of the marketing board. He said that producers, dealers, marketing boards and the government must work together to insure top prices and top quality.

J. Lincoln Dewar spoke on the interest and duties of the potato marketing board. He noted the necessity of a full-time manager for the board and also commented on the quality of P.E.I. potatoes. He said, "The growers on P.E.I. have an edge over Canada regarding the quality and growing of potatoes, but producers must improve for an even better quality control or this edge will be lost. Two things are essential: a good strong board and a strong producer's organization."

The Farmer's Federation was represented by Charles Sutherland, St. Peter's, and the chairman for the meeting was George Howett, French River.
