ELLEN'S DIARY

Smiles Give Happiness To Giver And Receiver

"Busy - have I had a busy week?" one who caters to summer guests echoed our query this evening. "I surely did! So hectic I've hardly had time to smile! Life keeps a balance you know," she quipped. "You may gain in one way but you lose on another. And after all, when you come to consider it, it's sad, isn't it? Because as old Mr. ... used to say, 'A smile is such a little thing to give!'"

How true! "A smile costs nothing" one who has added up its manifold values has written, "but gives much. It enriches those who receive, without making poorer those who give. It takes but a moment, but the memory of it sometimes lasts forever. A smile creates happiness in the home, fosters goodwill in business, and is the cornerstone of friendship. It brings rest to the weary, cheer to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad, and is nature's best antidote for trouble. Yet it can't be bought, begged, borrowed or stolen, for it is something that is of no value to anyone until it is given away. Some people are too tired to give you a smile. Give them one of yours, as none gives it so much as he who has none to give."

Smiles went round this evening at the sawing, when last lengths of logs were portioned by the saw and the resultant firewood given to one of the waiting trucks, the belts of the gear "slipped" and another year's sawing safely done.

"It was quite a chore this time, wasn't it?" James later commented. "Lengthy" another agreed. "But we had good days for it. Couldn't have asked for better."

"It's well weathered at any rate" another grinned. "Lots of sunshine in it. That should make for choice burning."

"We finished in good time," Mack said. "Now we'll have time to get things in shape for that crossing to the Mainland, I'm to make tonight."

"Be sure you take plenty feed along for the cattle. With this strike, you never know how things will be over there" James who likes to be prepared for eventualities, advised.

Now the night closes in - puts its arm around every sleeping thing: the swallows and robin, birds, the little ones on their pillows, the farm-homes, up and down the valley, whence now the lights of another week go out. And Mack went out in the moonlight away.

This was a pleasant week on farms. Whether or not we at Alderlea were busy, we recall now the days had their laughs, their chuckles and smiles. These we think, serve to brighten even the dreariest day, to shorten the most trying task, to make time itself a good friend. And as the weeks pass, and the seasons, and the years too flash by, often this, one of our favorite verses - actually a prayer - comes to mind:

"God, keep my heart attuned to laughter
When youth is done;
When all the days are gray days,
coming after
The warmth, the sun,
God keep me from bitterness,
from grieving
When life seems cold;
God keep me always loving and believing,
As I grow old."

Adopted Korean Child Is Heard From By UCW

The theme of the devotional period, conducted by Mrs. Eve MacArthur, was "The Secret of His Presence". Eleven members answered roll call with get-well or sympathy cards to be used by the group.

Considerable discussion took place in regard to the annual church supper, and it was decided to collect from the congregation instead of holding the supper.

Reports were given by the various committees and a picture of our adopted handicapped Korean child, Hak-Soo-Lee was received by our president with a letter which gave us a detailed report of his health and life in Korea.

The meeting came to a close with a prayer by Rev. T. R. Goudge, and refreshments were then served by the hostesses and the committee in charge.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES MCGINNIS
McGinnis-Fogarty Wedding Is Solemnized In Cardigan

The marriage of Lois Christina Fogarty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Fogarty, Cardigan, to James Augustine McGinnis son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben McGinnis, Little Harbour took place recently at All Saints Church, Cardigan. Rev. P. Hamill officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The maid of honor was Clare Fogarty, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Georgia Fogarty, sister of the bride and Anita Somers, friend of the bride.

Nancy and Joanne Sullivan, nieces of the bride were the flower girls.

The groom was attended by LeRoy MacDonald, friend of the groom. The ushers were Darrell McGinnis, brother of the groom, and Albert MacDonald, friend of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Parish hall. One hundred guests attended.

Mrs. Philip Fogarty was in charge of the guest book.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis, left on a honeymoon tour of the Maritimes. Since their return, they have taken up residence in Souris. (Photo by the Craft Studio)

Widening Of Abortion Law Murderous, CWL Is Told

HAMILTON (CP)—Delegates attending the closing sessions Wednesday of the national conference of the Catholic Women's League of Canada were warned that widening the country's abortion laws would make murder legal.

Most Rev. Thomas McCarthy, Bishop of St. Catharines and the league's national director, said the Roman Catholic Church allows only in the case where the fetus is growing outside the womb.

The concept of abortion beyond that could lead within the next 10 years to the practice of destroying newborn babies, he said, because they are deformed.

More than 150 delegates attending the four-day convention unanimously approved a motion urging the federal government to resist all efforts to broaden the existing abortion laws in Canada.

Bishop McCarthy said therapeutic abortion at present is allowed when three doctors rule a mother's life is endangered by the pregnancy.

"THIS IS MURDER" If the law is broadened, Bishop McCarthy said, it would allow abortions for all reasons, not just for therapeutic purposes. "The only stand we can take as Catholics is to convince people that this is murder."

In other resolutions the CWL asked the federal government to increase the tax exemption for dependent children to $400 from the present $300 and raise the exemption for married persons to $3,000.

The league also appealed to the attorney - general of the provinces to enforce the section of the Criminal Code dealing with pornographic literature.

A recommendation urging league members to inquire about the attitudes and opinions on all matters of candidates seeking public office also passed.

In an earlier address, William Dyson, executive director of the Federation of Catholic Charities, said Canada should establish the world's first research centre on social affairs if the country is serious about waging war on poverty.

Mrs. H. T. Donihoe of Cornwall was elected president of the Aged Residents Enjoy An Outing

Forty-two residents of the Sacred Heart Home, Charlottetown, enjoyed a drive to Kelly's Cross, last week where the women of St. Joseph's Parish provided and served a picnic supper on the church grounds. On the drive out the group toured Strathgarny Park, and on return travelled by way of Lot 66.

Arrangements for the outing were made by Rev. Eric Robin, the recently appointed parish priest of Kelly's Cross.

The men and women residents of the Home took this opportunity to present their best wishes to Father Robin in his new pastorate, and their gratitude for his most recent evidence of his interest and kindness towards them.

PRESENTATION AT CRAPAUD

Mrs. George Nicholson, Crapaud, presents prizes to the three top pupils in the Grade 8 examinations. The awards are made annually at the Crapaud Fair by the Women's Institute of the South Shore and shown receiving them Wednesday are Janice Bell, Desable, left, Eleanor Boulter, Victoria, and Mary MacKenzie, Westmoreland.

MARY HAWORTH

New Husband Resents Bride's Summer Plans

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a newly married man, 26, a junior executive with a large manufacturing firm. My bride, 26, is from one of the city's first families. She is beautiful, congenial, all that a man could ask in a wife.

I love her very much and have felt that she cared equally for me. But I am confronted with a situation that, in my uncertainty I may not have handled properly. I need guidance for the future.

Maude's family has a summer home in Canada. They've spent the summer there for years, my father-in-law commuting for long weekends until August, then spending all of August there.

This year the family decided to spend only August there. I would be asked to spend one of two August weekends there, as my regular vacation time was allocated to our honeymoon trip.

I was shocked to learn that Maude planned to accompany her family to Canada as usual. Also that she and her parents were agreed that I should move into their house in their absence, where her younger sister, Janice, 23, would remain during August, while working for a local poverty project.

Incredulous, I protested: "But what will the neighbors think?" Nobody took my objections seriously until, just before departure, my father-in-law said it was a perfectly logical arrangement, that "people in our class" don't expect their wives to spend the summer in town, although men, unfortunately, can not dismiss their business responsibilities.

When my wife had been gone for a week I foolishly mentioned the situation to an associate. Since then I've been ribbed, goodnaturedly (I hope), about "separate vacations" on the heels of the honeymoon, and about the "situation consultations" of the present arrangement.

Frankly, I am embarrassed and I believe I was too glib in accepting the theory that "everyone does it." My present inclination is to insist, next year and thereafter, that my wife limit her vacations to the time I can share.

Would that be unreasonable? Should I be concerned that she was willing, if not eager, to live apart from me so early in marriage? She seems mature and I was impressed at how easily and well she set up and managed our home. I've been very proud, but now I am disappointed in this matter of her vacation. Please advise me. Sincerely, A.R.

DEAR A.R.: As I see the picture, there are all sorts of

HAPPENINGS

Audrey Jenkins, Women's Editor. Phone 4-8506

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Graham have returned to their home in Windsor, Ont., after spending a pleasant vacation camping at the National Park tenting grounds and touring the Island. During their stay they were visitors at the home of Mr. Graham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Graham, formerly of Cavendish and now living at 300 North River Road, Charlottetown, and of his brothers and sister in Cavendish and Charlottetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis O'Connor of Clinton are visiting their daughter Kathleen and other relatives in Calgary, Alta.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stanyer (nee Patricia Pendergast), of Richmond, B. C., and their children, Kathleen, Warren, Philip and Laura, returned home last week after vacationing with Mrs. Stanyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Pendergast, Darnley. During their stay they attended the Pendergast-Chaisson wedding at Palmer Road, on August 6th, and visited relatives and friends. This was Mr. Stanyer's first visit to P.E.I.

Austin Callaghan of Framingham, Mass., returned home recently after an extended vacation on the island, where he has been the guest of his brother, Russell Callaghan, Ebbesfleet, and Dr. Wilfred Callaghan, Summerside.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gaudet, St. Louis, were recent guests at "The Penderosa." Darnley.

Mrs. Gertrude Foberts, Vancouver, B.C., daughter of the late centenarian John Foley formerly of Waterford, P. E. I., paid her first visit to the Island this summer. She was warmly welcomed by relatives and family friends.

Marshall Proffitt, Summerside, is vacationing at Kensington, guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Proffitt.

A number of patients from Riverside Hospital were recently entertained at a picnic at St. Peter's Park, sponsored by the Souris CWL. Games and refreshments were enjoyed by the patients. THE CHEF LIKES WATERMELON
This Chef enjoys watermelon very much and orders it cut in quarters lengthwise, slips each quarter into a plastic food storage bag, fastens the top with the accompanying quick-twist tie, and refrigerates it at 40 degrees F. The melon does not then take up too much space and keeps fresh and flavorful for days.

Sometimes I enjoy it as a dessert for dinner. I cut off 2 or 3 slices, remove the seeds cut the melon in cubes, heap them into soup plates and add enough chilled sweet white wine or sparkling white grape juice to half cover.

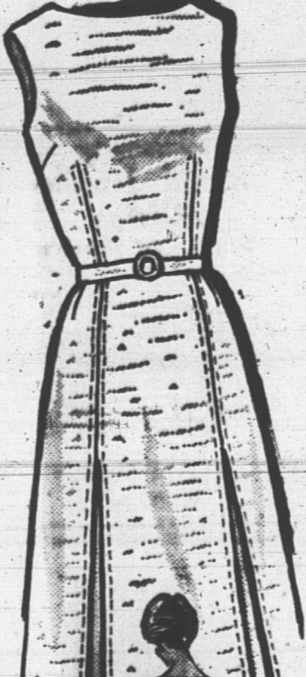

Or sometimes, I cut up the watermelon, remove the seeds and rind, then buzz it in the blender until it becomes a pink and pretty juice. Then for extra flavor, this Chef sometimes adds a few drops of Angostura Bitters.

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

Flavored Fondue Found Everyone'll Be Fond Of

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN
This fondue is like no fondue you've ever had before. Chunks of ripe olives and minced clams do interesting things with the well-seasoned cheese. Neat chunks of French bread cut so each piece has a bit of crust make the most popular dunk used for enjoying this dish.

For special occasions, the Caraway Cheese Pastries can be used as a dunk. If you're not expecting guests, make this fondue for the family dinner, and serve it over rice or noodles.

Measurements are level.

RIPE OLIVE
CHEESE-CLAM FONDUE
2 c. shredded process American cheese
1 (7 oz.) can minced clams (not drained)
1 c. California ripe olives (canned), cut in wedges
1 tsp. instant minced onion
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. dry mustard

3 drops Tabasco
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
Caraway Cheese Pastries (recipe follows)
Heat-stir cheese and undrained clams together until cheese melts. Stir in olives and all remaining ingredients except pastries. Use as dip for pastries. Makes 2 c. Fondue.
CARAWAY CHEESE PASTRIES: Prepare 2 sticks pastry mix according to pkg. directions. Mix in 1 tsp. caraway seed and 1/2 c. shredded American cheese. Roll 1/2" thick cut into desired shapes. Place on an unlined baking sheet. Bake 10-min in hot oven (425 degrees F.). Makes 6 doz. pastries.
TOMORROW'S DINNER
Caesar Salad (recently columned)
Ripe Olive Cheese-Clam Fondue
Served with Caraway Seed Pastries
Mixed Fresh Fruits in Raspberry Gelatin with Whipped Cream Topping
