

WIT AND WISDOM.

Jokelets That May Be Taken With a Tinge of Seriousness.

Bill—Did you ever see a river rise?
Jill—Sure. I've seen it leave its bed.

Yeast—Does the editor use a steel or a gold pen?
Crimsonbeak—I think his friend told me it was one of those trenchant pens.

"Say when, Miss Daisy," remarked the fresh youth as he was pouring a glass of water for the young lady.
"Oh, this is so sudden, Mr. Frost!" exclaimed the damsel, grabbing for the young man.

"This account is altogether too highly colored," said the editor, looking over the reporter's copy.
"Then why color it more?" inquired the young man as he saw the blue pencil go through it.

Sue Brette—Did the audience throw anything at the actors in the new play the other night?
Foote Lighte—No; why?
"Why, I notice the dramatic critics did the next day."

"Excuse my referring to so old a subject," said the funny man, "but do you know the quickest way to bring a man up with a sharp turn?"
"No," replied his friend.
"Put a bent pin under him."

She—Arcola, Ills., is a very rich town in proportion to its population. It has 2,000 inhabitants and absolutely controls the broom corn market.
He—Comes pretty close to sweeping the country, so to speak.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—For gracious sake! What is that girl trying to do in the next flat?
Mrs. Crimsonbeak—She's singing "Five o'Clock in the Morning."
"Oh, just trying to kill time, as it were."—Yonkers Statesman.

He Forgot About the X Ray.
The Professor—I have a new conundrum for you. Why is a mouse like a haystack?
The Doctor—A new conundrum! That had whiskers when I was a boy. A mouse is like a haystack because the cat'll eat it. New conundrum! Ho, ho! Ha, ha!

The Professor—That isn't the answer at all. The points of resemblance are these: You can't find a needle in a haystack, and you can't find a needle in a mouse. Some people weary me exceedingly with their affectation of superior knowledge!

Willing to Try It.
"Yes, Mary consulted a fortune teller."
"And what did the fortune teller say to her?"
"She told her if she ever married her life would be one long round of wretchedness."
"What did Mary say to that?"
"She didn't say anything. She went right down town and bought one of those dime handbooks on 'How to Win a Husband.'"

A Boston Beau.
Fred—Why is it you never take a lady to the opera?
Harry—For this reason: If I take a lady who doesn't understand the music, she will be pestering me all the evening with her irrelevant small talk. On the contrary, if she knows all about music she will be sure to find out that I don't.

A Joke That Failed.

During one of the legislative sessions at Albany Senator Thomas F. Grady wired for his evening dress suit. He wished to attend a reception. When the satchel arrived at Grady's apartments, his roommate, Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas J. Creamer, opened it, took out the dress suit and replaced it with one of his rainy day suits.

"Let's get a crowd of senators here when Grady opens that satchel this evening," said Creamer.

"All right," said Senator Timothy D. Sullivan. "Hurry up and get the senators."

As soon as Creamer left the room Sullivan took Creamer's old suit out of the satchel and put back Grady's evening dress suit.

Senators Coggeshall, Ahearn, Coffey, Featherston, Martin and McCarren were present when Grady opened the satchel. As he carefully unrolled his dress suit the senators looked at Creamer. The latter was speechless. At last he stammered:
"The cigars are on me, boys."—New York Journal.

Trick of the Sleight of Hand Man.

The Anne Psychologue has an interesting article by M. Binet, the well known French psychologist, on mental suggestion and prestidigitation, in which he shows that sleight of hand and clever tricks do not make a prestidigitateur without a power of "suggestion" on the spectator. A skilled performer has a marvelous power of acting on the secret springs of the will. Thus he can generally make a person choose a figure below ten by the way he asks for it. If he wishes the person to choose five, he runs rapidly over the first figures and dwells a little on "five" to suggest it to the memory. It is also curious that of such figures "seven" is the most likely to be chosen and "one" the least likely.

His Imagination.

During one of the Napoleonic campaigns a Frenchman was tripped up by a spent cannon ball, but without being injured in any way. He thought both his legs had been carried off and lay on the ground all night, suffering excruciating agony and never moving for fear of encouraging the bleeding. Next day the medical officer, coming around, said to him, "What has happened to you, comrade?" "Ah," he answered, "please touch me gently! A cannon ball has carried off both my legs!"

The Oratory of Gallarus.

The oldest Christian structure in Ireland is a remarkable building, evidently very ancient, but wonderfully well preserved, at Dingle, in County Kerry. It is popularly known as the "Oratory of Gallarus." Who Gallarus was history does not say, but as the oratory has stood practically uninjured for more than a thousand years he was probably one of the converts of St. Patrick.

A Japanese admiral receives the equivalent of $6,000 a year, a vice admiral gets $4,000, and first and second class captains are paid $2,496 and $2,263 respectively.
