H. M. S. Black Prince arrived yesterday afternoon. After leaving Malta for Marseilles, and when about 200 miles or so on her passage, her engines broke down for the second time on the same trip, and finding it impossible to proceed under sail, she put back to Malta, where she repaired, and left, reaching Marseilles Oct. 19. H. R. H. the Duke of Edinburgh embarked at that port, and the ship sailed for Halifax via Gibraltar, where she coaled, and left Nov. 1. Had light winds since then. Lay too off the harbor 10 hours, packing her engines. Shortly after anchoring, a boat, in being launched, was stove in. Captain H. R. H. the Duke of Edinburgh landed immediately after the ship anchored, and is the guest of His Excellency the Admiral.—He. Herald.

Wives for the West.

A short time ago the following paragraph, from a correspondent at Swan Lake, appeared in the Manitoba Free Press:—

"Out near Swan Lake means an area of some sixty miles extending westward from Calf Mountain past Rock Lake. We are nearly all bachelors, although most of us have pined since spring for connubial bliss. Here is a chance for a fond parent with a family of marriageable girls. As we number about fifty, there is no danger of the husband stock running out for some time to come. The soil cannot be surpassed, and there is any amount of it vacant, the reserve and speculator curse not having arrived yet. Wood, hay, and good spring water are in abundance, the former consisting of poplar and oak, and being in clumps of from ten to twenty acres and fairly distributed. Game of all description is plentiful, both four-footed and winged, although we don't boast a gun-club, we have no hesitation in saying that sport will be good here for some years to come. I hope next year at this time to give a good account of the crops for which the land is at present being broken.

Being read by a family of young ladies in Montreal they sent the following communications to the Free Press:—

404 St. LAWRENCE STREET,
MONTREAL, Oct. 24, 1878.

To the Editor of the Free Press:

SIR,—Will you please oblige by forwarding the enclosed to the fifty gentlemen mentioned by a correspondent in your valuable paper.

Yours respectfully,
EMMA BRUCE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24, 1878.

To the fifty unmarried Gentlemen:

Having read in the Manitoba Free Press your appeal for wives, we offer ourselves a sacrifice. Being all that is desirable, we trust to find three worthy husbands. As we are three in number, namely, a blonde, demi-blonde and brunette, we each hope to receive a favorable reply from a few or all of the fifty lonely gentlemen. Please accept our regards.

Remaining yours,
THREE WILLING SISTERS.

S. Bruce, blonde; J. Bruce, demi-blonde; E. Bruce, brunette.

The "Free Press" adds:—"Now here's a chance for the fifty anchorites 'out near Swan Lake,' and we trust they will not fly in the face of Providence by allowing the opportunity to pass. The assortment of maidens offers every shade of complexion and the sweet self-abnegation which induces them to sacrifice themselves for their country's good ought to be a guarantee of the presence of other desirable qualities. We would suggest that those meaning business send in their application at once. Should the lucky ones behave themselves as they ought to, we dare say other willing maidens can be found ready to launch their little barque on the matrimonial sea, as it is said the supply is practically unlimited. Who will be the first to speculate?"

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15, 1878.

Notwithstanding the embarrassments and anxieties and harassing disturbance to which the Patter Committee has been subjected, and which is the common lot, more or less, of all Congressional Committees, there is much to be gained and enjoyed (not to say accumulated) by being appointed on such Committee, or in being a favorite relative or particular friend of some member of such Committee. It is a good time, with no expense, especially if one is not a Chairman. Take, for instance, the visit of the "Congressional Committee on Indian Affairs" to California this summer. A party of 17 (by no means Committee members, all of them. Ladies, correspondents, clerks, guests,) swell the number) a special palace car, special cuisine on the rail, special and exclusive accommodations on the route, grand reception in the Golden City, delightful excursion to Seal Rocks, grand trip to the Yosemite, the Geysers, hot springs, public reception and grand dinner in San Francisco, a visit to the Chinese Theatre—all traveling "dead head" and expenses paid by the Government, and all in the interest of the "poor, untutored savage." This is but one of a dozen or two of similar excursions that have been taken for the country's good in the past few months. No moral is necessary. Apropos of Indians and their affairs comes the work Gen. Le Duc has taken in hand. Gen. Le Duc is the Commissioner of Agriculture, and among his benevolent efforts of the last two years are the raising of tea, olives, and bamboo in this country, and the introduction of rooks from England for the destruction of the western grasshoppers. But his more human and humane idea promises better success than any other. He has induced 70 Indian youths, of both sexes, to enter a Government School at Fortress Munroe, where they are to receive common school education, and be taught agricultural employment and housekeeping, respectively. It is hoped and expected that they will marry among themselves, establish families, and go back to their people civilized, industrious and ambitious, and, by their lives and occupations, do more real missionary work than can ever be done among the Indians in any other way. The seventy have arrived, and are already placed at school. Recent estimates place the number of full-blooded, self-supporting Indians, who voted at the last Presidential election, at no less than 10,000. The red men of Indian Territory had a unique but respectable exhibit at the Paris Exposition this summer, which is in itself a mark of civilization. In the words of another: "What the Indians of this country need is to be treated exactly like citizens—not like enemies, foreigners, children or beggars. Congress ought to compel them to abandon their tribal habits—their tepees, blankets, leggings, moccasins, long hair and laziness—and to live by legitimate work, to enjoy the benefits of thrift, and to receive the protection of law." All this would involve serious revolutions, but this is the time for heroic action and bravest correction of evil; and none of the many evils and mistakes of America's last century needs correction more sorely than does the treatment the Indians have received at our hands.
