Washington Confidant Continued from page 1 of war by Rhee in mid-June that brought a temporary halt to armistice negotiations which were then near the signing stage. "I have made very important concessions, even against my own best judgment of what is essential for the survival of my nation," Rhee said Friday. "I cannot remain silent when it appears that concessions and promises made to me in return are being vitiated by agreements reached at Panmunjom."

Meanwhile, Communist workers at Panmunjom had only to install lighting and furniture to make the hastily built pagoda-style armistice hall ready for the signing ceremonies. The Reds used even this for propaganda. They fastened over the hall doorway three carved wooden replicas of the Picasso "peace dove". Communist propaganda symbol. The dove is the creation of the leftist Spanish artist, Pablo Picasso. The Communist move seemed designed to give the impression in Communist-dominated nations that the Reds are playing host to surrendering Allies.

Discuss Role Continued from page 1 Although Russia was not represented at the meeting, Pearson said he thought the Communists would be ready whenever the assembly is called. Expressing some thoughts on how the political conference on Korea might operate, Pearson said it would "settle through negotiations the questions of the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea, the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, et cetera."

Asked what he thought would come under the term "et cetera", Pearson said the conference should discuss all the issues in Korea and questions relating to those issues. Let's Talk It Over by "R" The more we hear of summer drowning tragedies, the more convincing it becomes that it is almost as important to teach children how to swim as to have them vaccinated. In each case, you are preparing for an emergency which may arise, but, of course, there is a chain reaction to neglecting vaccination, which is not true in the case of teaching swimming. A considerable percentage of drowning fatalities could be prevented if the victims were able to swim. The very fact that one is conscious of swimming proficiency helps to prevent panic, and panic is the villain in many of our tragic affairs. A particularly good feature of our Island swimming program of recent years is that precautions to observe at beaches etc. is taught. Thus, prevention, as well as cure, is incorporated into their scheme of instruction.

Introduce Stock Car Racing To Summerside Stock-car racing makes its first appearance at Summerside this evening when a combined program of stock-car racing and horse-racing will be presented at the Summerside Raceway. Six cars from Moncton, three from Summerside, and eight or nine from other points on P. E. I. are scheduled to take part. All entries will be classified as to past experience, performance, and construction of cars. Raceway officials said yesterday that approximately 40 drivers had made application to enter tonight's stock-car races, and that the final selection of those who will participate had been left to the Stock Car Association. The program tonight will begin at 8 o'clock sharp with two preliminary 1/4 lap classes of stock-cars. This will be followed by five dashes of horse racing, when all motors will be silent. The stock cars will then take over for the balance of the program when the first four cars in the preliminaries will participate in the semi-finals for a distance of 12 laps. The program will be concluded by a free-for-all in which all cars will participate in a 20 lap event. Built to specifications the new 1-4 mile stock car track is located in centre field in front of the grandstand. An unobstructed view of the stock car track has been made possible by the construction of a 5-ton, 70 foot tote board and office, located in centre field across the track from the grandstand, has been set on a wooden skid-track and will be moved out of the way during the car races so that all spectators will have a clear view of the cars at all times. To remove the possibility of spectators being injured no one will be allowed beyond the board fence which separates the grandstand area from the horse track, and only starting officials will be allowed near the stock car track.

Side Student Befriended While Visiting London Clive MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacDonald, Summerside, who was one of two sea cadets chosen from Acadia University to attend the coronation related while home recently an experience he had which illustrates the spirit of hospitality towards Canadians in that country. Clive went to one of the large theatres in London to see "Guys and Dolls", an American musical play currently running in London. On reaching the theatre he was disappointed to learn that the house was sold out and no tickets were available. As he was leaving, however, a distinguished gentleman recognizing the uniform stopped him and said: "So you're from Canada." Learning his disappointment regarding the show, the gentleman said: "Come with me." And Clive found himself in one of the finest boxes in the theatre. Making inquiries after the show he was informed that the box was reserved for royalty when they were scheduled to appear at the theatre but used by others at other times. He was unable to verify this, and did not learn the identity of his benefactor. He found it interesting that a recent news despatch tells of the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret going recently to see the play, "Guys and Dolls".

Brother of U. S. President Blasts Sen. McCarthy WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Eisenhower's older brother, Arthur, confirmed Friday that he had described Senator Joseph McCarthy Rep. Wis. as "the most dangerous menace to America." After Eisenhower, a Kansas City banker, was quoted on McCarthy Thursday in the Las Vegas, Nev. Sun, the Wisconsin senator called on him to confirm or deny the newspaper story. A reporter for the Phoenix, Ariz. Gazette caught up with Eisenhower at the Phoenix airport, where he got confirmation of the Sun's quotes. "It's too bad we have such a man in public life," Eisenhower said in a brief interview. He added that McCarthy makes "deplorable attacks on people and gives people no chance to answer charges." He then added that he couldn't understand why his remark caused so much excitement. Informed of Eisenhower's latest remarks, McCarthy shrugged them off. "I have no concern at all in this fellow's blasting at me, and I certainly can't hold President Eisenhower responsible for what his relatives say," the senator said. "The White House had no comment. President Eisenhower has refrained from attacking McCarthy personally, even though they have disagreed sharply on several public issues. But his brother wasn't as reserved when he talked with Sean Flannely, Las Vegas Sun reporter. In a copyrighted story, Flannely quoted Arthur Eisenhower as saying: "When I think of McCarthy I automatically think of Hitler. I would believe anything about him and I think your paper, the Las Vegas Sun, and its publisher, Hank Greenspun, should be commended on the stand taken against this rabble-rouser." "I wouldn't believe anything that Greenspun said, even if he said it under oath," McCarthy snapped when the story reached him. County Hospital on Friday, July 17, much improved in health. Her numerous friends hope for continued improvement.

Side Student Befriended While Visiting London Clive MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacDonald, Summerside, who was one of two sea cadets chosen from Acadia University to attend the coronation related while home recently an experience he had which illustrates the spirit of hospitality towards Canadians in that country. Clive went to one of the large theatres in London to see "Guys and Dolls", an American musical play currently running in London. On reaching the theatre he was disappointed to learn that the house was sold out and no tickets were available. As he was leaving, however, a distinguished gentleman recognizing the uniform stopped him and said: "So you're from Canada." Learning his disappointment regarding the show, the gentleman said: "Come with me." And Clive found himself in one of the finest boxes in the theatre. Making inquiries after the show he was informed that the box was reserved for royalty when they were scheduled to appear at the theatre but used by others at other times. He was unable to verify this, and did not learn the identity of his benefactor. He found it interesting that a recent news despatch tells of the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret going recently to see the play, "Guys and Dolls".

Brother of U. S. President Blasts Sen. McCarthy WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Eisenhower's older brother, Arthur, confirmed Friday that he had described Senator Joseph McCarthy Rep. Wis. as "the most dangerous menace to America." After Eisenhower, a Kansas City banker, was quoted on McCarthy Thursday in the Las Vegas, Nev. Sun, the Wisconsin senator called on him to confirm or deny the newspaper story. A reporter for the Phoenix, Ariz. Gazette caught up with Eisenhower at the Phoenix airport, where he got confirmation of the Sun's quotes. "It's too bad we have such a man in public life," Eisenhower said in a brief interview. He added that McCarthy makes "deplorable attacks on people and gives people no chance to answer charges." He then added that he couldn't understand why his remark caused so much excitement. Informed of Eisenhower's latest remarks, McCarthy shrugged them off. "I have no concern at all in this fellow's blasting at me, and I certainly can't hold President Eisenhower responsible for what his relatives say," the senator said. "The White House had no comment. President Eisenhower has refrained from attacking McCarthy personally, even though they have disagreed sharply on several public issues. But his brother wasn't as reserved when he talked with Sean Flannely, Las Vegas Sun reporter. In a copyrighted story, Flannely quoted Arthur Eisenhower as saying: "When I think of McCarthy I automatically think of Hitler. I would believe anything about him and I think your paper, the Las Vegas Sun, and its publisher, Hank Greenspun, should be commended on the stand taken against this rabble-rouser." "I wouldn't believe anything that Greenspun said, even if he said it under oath," McCarthy snapped when the story reached him. County Hospital on Friday, July 17, much improved in health. Her numerous friends hope for continued improvement.
