MANILA, Feb. 9.—The provost guard is in control and all is quiet in the city.

The American troops are in the best of spirits.

On Tuesday the Filipinos at Calacan were evidently massing for a night attack on the American left wing. The 20th Kansas infantry attacked and drove a company of sharpshooters from a bamboo jungle.

STATUE OF DE LESSEPS.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—A colossal statue of Ferdinand de Lesseps will soon be erected at the entrance of the Suez Canal. The eminent sculptor Fremiet executed the monument, and has in an admirable manner preserved the artistic character of the work, in spite of the tremendous proportions which rendered his task extremely difficult.

A curious situation in Turkey greatly embarrasses the Sultan. The Government has run out of coal, and the official vessels are unable to move. The infidels are the only ones who possess coal, and they refuse to trust the impoverished Sultan. As is usual every year, the Sultan sent out a ship to carry a sacred camel and Imperial presents to Mecca. At present the whole outfit is stranded for want of fuel at Scutari, opposite Constantinople. It is regarded as a serious omen by the Turks if the sacred camel does not get to Mecca, and the Sultan is offering honors in lieu of money, in order to obtain coal.

OBITUARY.

Of the many sad deaths which it has been our painful duty to record lately, the saddest is that of John Smith, of Maplewood, Lot 29, which occurred at the CharloTTetown Hospital, on Sunday morning, the 5th inst. Although ailing for a short time, Mr. Smith came to the city only a few days ago, to undergo treatment, but notwithstanding the efforts of the best medical skill, and the kindest attention and greatest care on the part of his devoted wife and friends and the good Sisters of Charity, the fatal disease progressed rapidly and the Angel of Death drew nearer each day. Strengthened and consoled by the Sacraments of the Church, of which he was ever a faithful and consistent member, the deceased bore his painful illness with exemplary fortitude and cheerful resignation to the Divine Will, till rest came on the morning of the 5th, when his spirit passed to its heavenly reward.

Mr. Smith was a progressive and public-spirited citizen, always ready to promote and support any movement leading to the social and intellectual advancement of the community in which he resided. As President of St. Joseph's Literary Society he was ever active in promoting its interests, and performed his duties in a manner that won for him the highest respect and esteem of his fellow members; and to his zeal and influence is largely due the success of that organization. The congregation of St. Joseph's will also long remember his valuable services as a member of the Building Committee of their new church, and the active interest he took in its completion. Of a generous and obliging disposition, he was always eager to assist a neighbor in his necessities and sympathize with him in his afflictions. His rich fund of natural wit and ready appreciation of the humorous made him a genial companion and general favorite in the social circle; sober, truthful, honest, and upright, he was an exemplary member of the community in which he lived, and was deservedly respected and esteemed by all who knew him. In politics Mr. Smith was a staunch Liberal, and, while firmly adhering to Liberal principles, he was always courteous and gentle in reply to those who differed from him, and ever ready to give credit where credit was due to his opponents. His unexpected death, in the prime of life, in the 41st year of his age, was a painful shock to his numerous relatives and friends, and will be deeply regretted by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. His absence will be keenly felt in the circle in which he moved, and leaves a vacancy which cannot easily be filled. But, after all, it is in the home, where he was known and loved best, that the kind husband and affectionate father will be most sadly missed. His remains, enclosed in a beautiful casket, remained in the hospital until Monday morning, when an early hour Mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul by Rev. Dr. Monaghan, of St. Dunstan's College, after which they were conveyed to his late residence, Maplewood. On Tuesday, the 7th, his funeral took place at St. Joseph's church, Kelly's Cross, where a Solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Dr. Monaghan, cousin of the deceased, with Rev. J. F. Johnston, also cousin of the deceased, as deacon, and Rev. D. B. Reid, P. P., as sub-deacon, the choir, throughout the services, being ably assisted by Rev. J. J. McDonald, Kinkora. After the singing of the "Libera" the body was borne to the cemetery where the final absolution was given by the pastor, and the mortal remains of a just man and worthy citizen were committed to their kindred dust. The funeral was one of the largest witnessed for some time, being attended almost en masse by the parishioners of St. Joseph's, as well as by a large number of all denominations from the adjoining settlements, simply testifying to the respect and esteem in which deceased was held by the community. The pallbearers were Dr. Robertson, and C. Moore, John Bradley and J. H. Devereaux, Kelly's Cross, and Thomas Kelly and Peter Trainor, Maplewood. Deceased leaves a grief-stricken widow, seven small children, a bereaved mother, two brothers and four sisters, besides a large circle of relatives and acquaintances to mourn their irreparable loss, to all of whom we tender our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement.

SHAKESPEARE'S FATHER

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Great interest is evoked here by the discovery that Shakespeare's father was the first English public analyst or "ale conner." His duty was to discover adulterated ale, which vocation he pursued by means of a pair of leather breeches. When he visited an ale house he ordered a pot of ale, which he spilt upon a table. Then he donned his leather breeches and sat in the liquor. If, on rising, his breeches stuck to the table, the ale was adjudged adulterated. The extent of the adulteration was gauged by the adhesiveness.
