Ottawa Lady Lands Big Cod

Handling lead and line with all the aplomb of a seasoned veteran, an Ottawa lady vacationing in the Province, Miss Diana Wood, last week landed a four-foot 36 pound cod.

Miss Wood hooked the big fellow in the Gulf Seven miles off North Rustico Harbor. Archie Hartling, skipper of the fishing boat, gaffed the cod for the excited young lady from the national capital. Crewman Millar Orr assisted.

Archie is typical of the many Island fishermen who place their boats at the disposal of the summer visitors to our shores. They know where the big fellows are apt to be lurking, and can guarantee a good day's sport to anyone interested in deep sea fishing.

Cold War Reaction May Make Nationalism Obsolete

By HAROLD MORRISON
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 OTTAWA (CP)—Russia's new economic cold war may eventually force the free countries to make nationalism obsolete.

That, in essence, appears to be one of the main thoughts to emerge from the three-day conference between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

It appeared that Mrs. Diefenbaker suffered no loss of political stature from that conference. Rather it may have given him some advantage. For while many of the economic frictions between the two countries still remain, new political bridges were built and Canada seemed to get at least one major concession.

AGREES TO CONSULT

The U.S. government agreed, at the very least, to consult with Canada where American export laws prevent American-controlled companies in Canada from trading with Communist China in non-strategic goods.

The way Mr. Diefenbaker sees it, it paves the way for these subsidiaries to base their export policy solely on Canadian law.

U.S. companies have subsidiaries in many parts of the world. If such a concession is allowed for those located in Canada, why should they not also be allowed for those in other countries? And if they are to be allowed for subsidiaries, why not for the parent companies?

Thus, the U.S. may find herself in an untenable position in maintaining an embargo on trade with Red China.

 But aside from this point, Mr.

Romance Jolted If Girl Is Jilted

By JAMES F. KING
 LONDON (AP)—Robin Douglas-Home slipped quietly away into the English countryside Sunday, leaving the romantics sad and guessing. Did the English commoner jilt the pretty Swedish Princess Margaretha—or was he jilted?

Robin wasn't talking—but nearly everyone else was.

The impression grew that the young Englishman, who gave up a job playing piano in a Mayfair cocktail lounge to win the hand of the fair princess, had called it quits.

There was no doubt that his romance had cooled—if it wasn't frozen to death.

There were indications the couple had a tiff over the telephone late Friday night. Robin had called the princess to make final plans for a visit to announce their engagement. He had already shipped his baggage.

NOT READY

A Swedish court spokesman said Margaretha told him then she wasn't prepared to become engaged right away. The official royal attitude still was that the engagement had been postponed, nothing more.

But 25-year-old Robin announced his trip to Sweden was off—and that he has no intention of going there in the foreseeable future. Robin's father, Maj. Henry Douglas Home, blamed Margaretha's mother, German-born Princess Ibylla, for the snag in his son's romance.

Robin met 23-year-old Margaretha a year ago in the shadows

CHARGE U.S. TRICK
 MOSCOW (AP)—Russia accused the United States and other Western powers Saturday of planting Russian arms in the hands of Lebanese rebels. It called this "a new provocative trick."
