CHAT WITH GUEST SPEAKER

Hamilton Douglas, president of the local branch and Dave Roswell, P.E.I. physical education director, following a Legion banquet in the Charlottetown Hotel last evening.

As so far, and explained why he feels sports has a good deal to do with the relationships of modern countries.

Blake, Abel Not to Blame
Soft Ice For Losses Tues.

Canadian Press Sports Editor CHICAGO (CP) — Sid Abel and To Blake, who just happen to be the losing coaches in the of the series with the Canadiens, said he could not blame the players for their clubs' defeats.

The soft ice didn't help us," were the almost identical dressing-room comments as Abel's Detroit Red Wings lost 5-4 to the Black Hawks in Chicago Monday night and Blake's Montreal Canadiens dropped a 5-1 decision to Toronto in Maple Leaf Gardens.

Abel repeated his statement Wednesday as both Red Wings and the Hawks took a day off to enjoy the balmy 60-degree Chicago weather and the seven games, says Pilous, if he can get away from Nesterenko's clutch.

Pilous, talkative and just bit confident, figures now the duration of the series rests with Howie the National Hockey League's scoring champion and the Wings' perennial home-run hitter over 17 brilliant big-league seasons.

"Nesterenko had nothing else to do but skate," said Abel. "He could forget about the puck and concentrate on Gordie Howe can't break away from the Hawk right winger, Pilous thinks the Hawks might lose the series going to the full seven games, says Pilous, if he can get away from Nesterenko's clutch.

He feels sports has a good deal to do with the relationships of modern countries.

"If Nesterenko can keep Howe in check for the rest of the series, we could get the job done early," Pilous says.

No lineup changes are expected for Thursday night's contest.

"We will have Bruce MacGregor to fill out our quota of 17 men," Abel said. The 21-year-old right winger's father died last weekend and he went home to Edmonton for the funeral.

Hawk Opponents Expect Tough Semi-Final Series

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Sherbrooke Castors, a hockey team with a nice blend of youth and experience, expect tough going in their Eastern Canada Cup semi-final against Moncton Hawks, the Maritime champions.

"But we'll do well," team president Ivan Durie said Wednesday. "We have some good scoring combinations. It won't be easy to beat us."

The Castors—the name means beaver in French—will have the advantage of home ice in the best-of-five series which will be played in the Sherbrooke Arena, starting Thursday night and Friday.

The Castors will be reinforced for the series by six top players from their EPHL teams—defencemen Noel Placard and Jacques Gagne, of the Montreal Canadiens; Jean-Guy Charbonneau, Johnny Mentis and George Bouchard, all of Granby Vics.

Impotent Hat Trick

Dave Martin got one of the most important "hat tricks" of the season against the Fredericton Juniors on Tuesday night. Dave can make more spectacular solo rushes than anyone else we've seen in these parts. Not the "giddy-up" solos which fellows like Smek Gillis, Jim McLeod, George Cutcliffe, and Vance Hartman make, but the ones which line with no detours. Martin's solos are more like a broncho trying to buck his rider off his back under the time limit. He weaves and shifts and dodges and makes a series of shadowing. A little more of the passing game might make his one-man circus more effective, but it's really something to watch.

The Penguin promoters must have a bit more respect for mainland Junior opposition after that game with Fredericton (Steady) but not nobody shake that limb that Ivan is clinging to the last off from championship competition didn't do the Birds any good. After that game, they should be back in their stride, and we look to see them hold their slim margin on New Brunswick ice. We don't know how the rest of Summerside freedom sells, but we are much more interested in the Penguin-Fredericton Junior series than in the show between the Royals and Fredericton.

Have Two Favorites

We have this year a very comfortable arrangement regarding the NHL battle. We have two favorites instead of one. We don't know whether there is anything in the rules against this and we may be expelled for a year from the North American amalgamation of hockey fans, but there is always a chance that some friends of ours may pop up and make a name for themselves. Toronto and Detroit as our teams, and we're going to be ahead of the other should they meet in the finals. The worst that could happen there would be Montreal vs. Chicago in the finals. A final between Detroit and Toronto wouldn't be too exciting either but we'd settle for it.

Believe it or not, though we chew a lot, we do aspire to be fair to our allies, our opponents, and those who are neutral. We've had occasion to see Charlottetown hockey officials the business because of the "Carroll episode" — and we think if derogatory remarks are made, complimentary ones should also be expressed if this can be done without putting us in the annals bracket. All year our opinion of Detroit and Toronto would be high, and it still is. He is one of the best on the island, and ranks with such "Sp" and "Buddy" which is a rare compliment indeed. There! We've said it, and we feel better already.

Arguments For Neutral Refs

Also, perhaps we shouldn't make judgments so often based on circumstantial evidence. In Summerside, our opponent, Jim Barnett, and Whelan had he didn't see it, he no one would have known. In his statement for a second, Butch said it in front of a fellow townsman put that Denmark smell on the whole proceedings of a cowboy and Butch argument for having neutral (geographically speaking) referees in play-off situations. You never can tell about circumstantial evidence. Once upon a time there were people like Jake, his tried and true friend Butch, and Indian Jim living together far from the city. Some of us have been in Indian Jim for letting his chickens run loose in Jake's garden, and Indian Jim had a terrible temper and threatened to kill Jake every second day. Butch had been a true pal of Jake's for a long time. One morning Jake was found dead with an Indian arrow in his heart. The murderer was never found. Butch used to play cowboy and Indians, and Jake was always "Buddy" and Butch always "the dust". Recent built up in Butch and it became an obsession. He just had to get the better of that cowboy for once. The moral is that there are people who are presumed innocent and guilty. Sonny who has a blue ring around his mouth may have had the jar of preserves at all.

I shouldn't have a winner now," he says. After his service career he was for a year with the old Los Angeles Dons and then 11 straight years with Blue Bombers in the Western football season the big tackle would announce his retirement, then when training camp rolled around, there was Buddy back again. Two years ago, after 11 seasons, Tinsley finally quit for good, but not before leaving a classic impression on the football rather liked the game of football.

Ex-Bomber Star Is Coach Now

By GRAHAM COX
WINNIPEG (CP) — In the waning years of Buddy Tinsley's brilliant career with the nine Blue Bombers he used to engage in an annual ritual. He would announce his retirement, then when training camp rolled around, there was Buddy back again. Two years ago, after 11 seasons, Tinsley finally quit for good, but not before leaving a classic impression on the football rather liked the game of football.

Nigeria Seeks Title Match

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—World middleweight champion Dick Tiger drove into this capital city Wednesday and thousands of wildly cheering Nigerians lined the route to welcome him as a national hero. But as Nigerians roared greetings, Tiger was shaping up to lose his fight in an international boxing ring over the venue of the next fight. Tiger, who won the European title on hand to warn the champion he had not yet done enough for money, said he would not fight in Nigeria. Tiger and Fuller are due to meet in Lagos, 100 miles from here.

The country's federal and provincial governments have guaranteed $182,000 to a ward staging the contest and it is being broadcast on a national prestige that it held here. Tiger's American representative, Jersey Jones, his London manager, Bobby Diamond and British promoter Jack Solomons are flying here Friday for discussions with the local boxing officials who is in charge of sport.

RCMP Recruit Honored By Team

KENSINGTON—Carl MacLeod who has enrolled with the RCMP party was held in Carl's home by the team members and coaching staff for basic training, was entertained by the Seabrook hockey team, which he helped organize, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Francis, Freeport.

He was presented with a tie pin and cufflinks engraved with his initials, by Don Burt, on behalf of the team. Music and cards provided entertainment for the evening. On Saturday night a stag party was held in Carl's home at St. Mark's Hall, Kensington, when Sterling Bowen, mascot of the North Shore League group, singing with banjo music by Alan Andrews, added to the pleasure of the evening.
