THE PIG

His Form in Relation to his Profit

The pig which is deep in the heart and round in the ribs will of necessity produce a larger quantity of first-class bacon (viz. prime back and ribs) than an animal that is light-chested and flat-sided. This is one of the most valuable parts of the animal, and it is therefore desirable to add as much as possible to its weight. Looking at the matter from a breeder's and pig feeder's standpoint, the pig that is deep in the heart and well-sprung in the ribs will certainly be a good feeder, because he has plenty of room for his stomach, liver, heart, and all the main organs. Roundness of rib nearly always indicates a good constitution; flatness of rib the reverse. A pig well-sprung in the ribs will carry considerably more meat on the bone and have the ribs better clothed with flesh than one of different conformation.—Irish Witness.

Market Early.

A writer in Farm Poultry says: We wish people would understand that, in letting their eggs get stale before marketing them, they are directly contributing to discouraging the consumption of eggs; they are injuring themselves and every other egg producer. People are willing to pay most any price for eggs which they know to be fresh, and when they do get them they eat nearly twice as many as when they can not get them fresh. Of this we have abundant proof in personal experience with customers. It is just so with milk; as Mrs. Whitaker says. Her statement is: If milk was what it ought to be, there would not be any surplus, for it is safe to estimate that most families would use two quarts where they now use one. That statement is absolutely true, and is just as true of eggs as it is of milk. We need to get producers and consumers nearer together, and get the eggs into consumers' hands almost before they are cold, certainly before they have had time to become stale—and when we can do that, we shall double the consumption of eggs as an article of food.

Improved Fruit Trade.

As indicating the improved condition of the Canadian fruit trade this season, our correspondent "Agricola," elsewhere reports that the first shipment of Nova Scotia apples to London Eng., netted the shippers from $4.00 to $4.50 per barrel. Our Annapolis Valley friends are to be congratulated.—Farmers Advocate.

Salt Drying on the Butter.

When salt dries in on the outside of the rolls of butter, it indicates that the quantity used is excessive. No more salt should be used than will be completely dissolved by the moisture in the butter. One ounce of salt to the pound of butter will not thus appear when the butter dries. The working of the butter should express all excess of moisture and salt, and with the quantity mentioned there will be none appear on the butter after it is finished.

A 1,524 lb. Hog.

The biggest hog that we have ever heard of has been produced by a farmer of Decatur, Ala. This hog, which is only three years old, weighs 1,524 pounds, and is so fat that it cannot rise. It is ten feet two inches long and four and a half feet high, and is of the Berkshire breed crossed on the native southern stock. Its owner has refused five hundred dollars for it, as he thinks he can make more by moving it from place to place and exhibiting it.—Farming.

The Amount Under Crop.

In England one-third of the cultivable land is under crop; in Ireland one-sixth; in Holland more than one-half; in Denmark one-half, and in Belgium seven-eighths, which is five times the amount in Ireland. In Belgium sixty-seven per cent. of the entire area of the country is under crops. In those countries where a large portion of the land is under crop the size of the farm is very small.

In the Stable.

An exchange says: Keep a good rasp in the horse stable. It is very handy for keeping the horses' hoofs in good shape.

Of His Guard.

I remember hearing of a law court case where a man had entered an action against a railway company for an injury to his arm in an accident. Said the opposing lawyer:

"I understand you have lost the use of your arm entirely through this accident?"

"Yes," said the plaintiff.

Lawyer—How high can you lift your arm now?

Plaintiff, with great difficulty, raises it about an inch.

"How far could you lift it before the accident?"

"Right up there!" at the same time shooting it right up over his head.—Philadelphia Evening Saturday Post.

Smoke and Hair.

A physician says that smoking makes men baldheaded. Smoking in the parlor after the lace curtains have been freshly put up is apt to have that effect when the smoker's wife finds it out.—Pearson's Weekly.

What Friction Can Do.

Gunners inside of a monitor turret suffer intensely from heat generated by the concussion of the enemies' cannon balls when they strike the steel walls of the turret.

The energy of visible motion is suddenly arrested and becomes molecular energy in the form of heat. The moving mass has communicated its motion to the molecules of the metal of the turret as well as of the cannon ball itself.

All visible motion when arrested becomes heat, even that of running water. If we take two pieces of solid ice and rub them together, they can be heated by the friction until the melting point is reached. If we should pour water into an ordinary rotary churn and turn the crank, the mechanical energy exerted against the water will be transformed into molecular energy, and the water will be warmed in proportion to the amount of mechanical energy expended.

"When I know anything is worthy of recommendation, I consider it my duty to let my friends know it. I have used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder for the last two months and am now completely cured of catarrh of five years standing. It is certainly magical in its effect. The first application benefited me within five minutes. I would not be without it in the house if it cost $5 a bottle, as it will cure any slight cold I may have, almost instantly."
