

Habs Grab Second Tilt; Leafs Strategy Backfires

By AL McNEIL
MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens hold a 2-0 edge going into the third game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series against Toronto Maple Leafs, thanks to three period goals by right wingers Claude Provost and Bobby Rousseau here Saturday night.

The Canadiens, who won the opener Thursday night by a 4-3 margin, downed the Leafs 2-0 in Saturday's contest, a game which threatened to become a riot on several occasions.

The venue now shifts to Toronto, with games scheduled for Maple Leaf Gardens at 8 p.m. EST Tuesday and Thursday.

Lorne (Gump) Worsley stopped 25 shots in the Montreal net to earn the third playoff shutout of his lengthy career, while Terry Sawchuk, in the Toronto goal, stopped 38 of the 40 Canadiens fired at him.

STARTED HITTING
 Montreal outshot the Leafs 10-3 in the rough opening period, as the Leafs appeared intent on bodyswinging Canadiens out of their rink to the extent they neglected to fire on Worsley, when they got the puck. They outshot Montreal 15-14 in the second period, but Sawchuk had 16 pucks reach his crease in the final period while Worsley had only seven fired at him.

Campbellton Wins Opener
TRURO (CP) — Campbellton Tigers defeated Brookfield Elks 3-1 Saturday to win the first game of their best-of-seven Maritime Intermediate "A" championship series.

The first two Campbellton markers, one by Ron Vernet in the 17:05 mark in the first frame and one by Edgar Vick a minute later both came while Brookfield had two men in the penalty box.

John Matheson tallied the only Brookfield marker at 8:18 mark of the third while H. Payne of Campbellton scored the insurance goal for the New Brunswick squad about eight minutes later.

CAUGHT FOR HOLDING
 It was nine seconds after order had been restored that Mahovich was caught holding Montreal's Ted Harris and given a minor.

His penalty was delayed until the return of Purford and 33 seconds after Mahovich entered the penalty box, Provost had his goal.

Dave Keon, always a threat for Toronto at the Forum, almost got that one back seconds later as he forced Worsley to do the splits and come up with a skate save on a hard shot.

However, at 16:07 Dick Duff fed the puck ahead to Backstrom, who charged in along the left side and fired in the direction of Sawchuk. Rousseau was on the spot to bang in the rebound and it was 2-0 for Montreal.

Frank (King) Clancy directed the Leafs from behind the bench, as general manager and coach, George (Punch) Imlach, was flattened by the flu before the game, and found it impossible to make it to the rink until near the end of the contest.

Some indication of the game's pattern was given at the 34 second mark of the opening period when Toronto's Tim Horton was banished from clutching Gilles Tremblay, too fervently, as Canadiens were on the attack.

The remainder of the first period was played in savage style with the Leafs apparently intent in running Montreal out of their own rink, and Canadiens started to retaliate.

Larose took a swing at Shack at the 3:55 mark and was sent off for slashing. Purford pelted Harper into the boards in front of the Montreal bench with almost eight minutes gone and the Canadiens' defence was forced to retire to the dressing room for repairs.

Eight seconds later, Baun was caught interfering with Backstrom and Montreal had a man advantage. Purford stepped in to argue Baun's cause and Friday slapped him with a 10-minute penalty.

Pete Stenkowski ran Rousseau into the boards just past the 10-minute mark and drew a minor. Two minutes later a general brawl was in progress with Henri Richard and Baun scuffling off and Montreal's Harris and J. C. Tremblay picking partners with Tim Horton and Larry Hillman of the Leafs respectively.

Horton and Hillman were given two minutes for roughing and Friday gave the two Montreal offenders equal time to cool off.

However, tempers continued to flare and Harper bashed

Rousseau on the other hand scored a picture goal in collaboration with Ralph Backstrom.

Backstrom made the play, as he carried well in to Leafs' territory while being checked by two Toronto defenders, but still managed to get the puck away in Sawchuk's direction. Rousseau standing at the corner to the left of the netminder, lifted the puck over Sawchuk as he sprawled to stop Backstrom's shot.

Montreal's first goal followed a third period brawl that saw John Ferguson and Bob Purford mixing it up on the boards behind Worsley. They were joined by Bob Baun and Terry Harper, who decided they should try to wrestle to a decision.

Not to be outdone by their teammates, Canadiens' Claude Larose and Edie Shack of the Leafs squared off when the wrangle was finally broken up by linesmen Matt Pavelich and John D'Amico. Larose and Shack got majors for fighting and Purford and Ferguson escaped with roughing minors from referee Bill Friday.

Keon into the boards when no penalty was called. Toronto defenceman Kent Douglas decided to take on Harper.

No penalties came out of this engagement, but five seconds later—at 12:35 — Harper was caught holding Mahovich and then walked into an additional 10-minute misconduct for arguing the point with Friday.

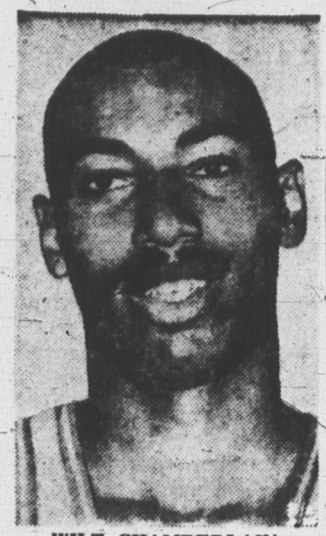

The violence threatened to erupt again with less than two minutes remaining in the period when Hillman and Jean Beliveau, who had been shoving each other all night, drew minors for high-sticking each other.

"That was all for the first period and Friday called six more minor infractions in the middle period. However play settled down to some extent and both netminders were sharp as they kept their clubs in the game.

SUMMARY
 First period—No scoring. Penalties—Horton 0:34, Larose 3:55, Baun 7:33, Purford (10-minute misconduct) 7:33, Stenkowski 10:11, Horton, Hillman, Harris, J.C. Tremblay 12:02, Harper minor (10-minute misconduct) 12:35, Hillman, Beliveau 18:16.

Celtics Contain The Stilt

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Celtics caught Philadelphia 76ers in the closing minutes of regulation play and stormed to a 114-108 overtime victory Sunday in taking a commanding 3-1 lead in the National Basketball Association's Eastern division finals.

The Celtics, bidding for an unprecedented eighth straight NBA title, came alive midway through the fourth period.

The defeat was a bitter disappointment to the 76ers, who de-throned the Celtics as eastern division champions by a single game during the regular season.

The 76ers now must win the next three against Boston to move into the league playoff final.

Wings Whitewash Hawks With Brilliant Power Play

By JERRY BLADMAN
CHICAGO (CP) — Detroit Red Wings unleashed a devastating power play attack to shellack Chicago Black Hawks 7-0 here Sunday afternoon and even their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series at one victory apiece.

FLOYD SMITH

GORDIE HOWE

The clubs now switch to Detroit for third and fourth games Tuesday and Thursday. A fifth game will be played here next Sunday afternoon.

Veteran Andy Bathgate and Floyd Smith each scored two goals for the Wings. The others were shared by Dean Prentice, Gordie Howe and rookie defenceman Bert Marshall. The goal was Marshall's first as a National Hockey League player.

Four of the Detroit goals were scored on power plays, one while they were a man short and one while both teams were short-handed.

OPENED FAST
 The Wings, who were picked as underdogs in this series, scored three times in the opening period, once in the second and three times again in the third.

Detroit came out fast and maintained a fast tempo throughout.

After the fourth Detroit goal in the middle period the Hawks appeared to wilt as the visitors outskated, outchecked and outplayed them.

The game was as one-sided as the score indicated with the Wings never giving the Hawks a chance to start a sustained attack. Checking was so close in the Detroit zone there always seemed to be two Detroit defenders on one Chicago attacker.

Aside from their power play attack, the Wings were able to control the action by forcing the Hawks into making defensive errors in their own end, which led to at least four of the seven goals.

GETS FIRST SHUTOUT
 Sophomore goalie Roger Crozier got his first playoff shutout, playing in his 11th Stanley Cup game. He played seven for the Wings last season and 1-2-3 the year before when Terry Sawchuk was injured.

Although the five-foot-seven goalie handled only 21 Chicago drives, he made several sharp saves to preserve his shutout.

He was particularly effective on drives by Doug Mohns and Bobby Hull in the first period, Mohns again and Eric Nesterenko in the second and Nesterenko again in the third.

Veteran Glenn Hall allowed all seven Detroit goals as he faced most of the 32 Red Wings shots. He was pulled in favor of Dave Dryden at the seven-minute mark of the final frame.

It was more a case of a loose Chicago defence than a poor performance on the part of Hull. Time and again he was left to fend for himself as the Wings attacked from all angles.

Smith, who has been a bonus man in the playoffs in his four years with the Wings, scored both his goals in the first period and both with Detroit holding a man advantage. Prior to this season, the 30-year-old Smith scored a point every two games in the playoffs and had seven goals.

SCORED 62ND CUP GOAL
 Howe, who was a threat at all times, picked up his 62nd playoff goal. The super-star right winger was just skating across the front of the net when the puck came out to him and he flipped it in.

Hull, who suffered a minor knee injury in the opening game, won 2-1 by Chicago, didn't come close to scoring a goal. While he wasn't really shadowed by anyone in particular, defenceman Bryan Particular gave him the most trouble throughout the game.

Hull didn't get to play on his regular line with Chico Makl and Phil Esposito in the first 20 minutes as he spent most of his time on the Chicago power play or killing penalties.

The 27-year-old left winger is seeking to break the record of most goals in one season, including playoffs—58 set by Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens in the 1955-56 season. Hull, who scored in the first game, now has 55.

After Dryden came in to relieve Hall, the Wings seemed satisfied with merely protecting Crozier's shutout.

The game was as hard-hitting as the first match, with 13 minor penalties called by referee John Ashley. The Hawks took seven.

The Wings haven't looked as good in several games, and their speed and power has the Hawks floundering in confusion. The Chicago power play, once considered the best in the league, was never able to get untricked against the tight-checking Wings.

Black Hawks Scare Viewers

By CHRIS ANNETT

It looked as if the Chicago Black Hawks were trying to scare away potential hockey fans yesterday afternoon as the National Broadcasting Corporation televised a National League Hockey game for the first time in the States. After having gone to all the trouble of tinting the ice surface at Chicago Stadium blue (for the color TV) the Hawks literally sunk the rink out as they diddled around and watched while Glen Hall fanned on seven shots before they saw Dryden replace him.

Perhaps it is just as well that the game was in color for undoubtedly colored TV set addicts could see the crimson blush on the face of Billy Reay. Try to tell any non member of the hockey following across the country that these same Hawks whipped the Wings 11 times in 14 games and tied them two others. It is quite likely that they would laugh in your face.

However one must give credit where credit is due. Lou Angotti was easily the outstanding player on the ice for the Hawks. How did he earn this honor? He merely skated for about five minutes. Stan Mikita noted in the hockey fraternity as being one of the best scorers in the game UNTIL the playoffs come along, could do nothing more constructive than knock Detroit goalie Crozier on his backside once and then make a couple of what were meant to be menacing swipes with his stick.

Glen Hall as mentioned before fanned on a couple of shots to be sure but let's not put all the blame on his shoulders. He must of felt rather queasy knowing that if he blocked a shot he was almost certainly going to have to stop a rebound of some kind. Why Hall waited until the seventh goal before he left the game is beyond this observer. It was obvious to all that Chicago was a beaten team from the opening whistle. Stan Mikita too retired to the bench in the latter stages of the game perhaps to rest from the rigors which he had faced. The way he was playing he wouldn't have raised a sweat in 60 minutes of play.

HULL 'WINGED' ?

Readers might have noticed that I spared the sacred cow, the Golden Jet, the Blond Bomber, or whatever nickname you call him in your section of the province. I have reason. Hull is alleged to have a leg injury and as of late he has been killing penalties and on the power play only. Perhaps his leg is bothering him more than the average fan realizes. We'll never know I guess but a lot of people that I know are going to lose some of that green stuff if Hull does not return to form and lead the Hawks out of the wilderness.

The Red Wings on the other hand skated as if they had a hive of bees coming behind them and the old pros like Howe, Ullman and Delvecchio had the opposition so confused that they were running into one another trying to get the puck out of their end. The Chicago organist should have played "Me and My Shadow" every time a Detroit line skated to the bench for they checked the Hawks so close that they did not have a hope of getting organized.

Brian Watson kept a close eye on Hull and it appears as if he will be making "a la Provost" in the upcoming games. Whatever the case the Wings are definitely in the favorites seat after the convincing triumph on the enemies home ice and they should be meeting the Habs in the finals, just as this corner predicted.

GREAT ACTION

Hockey fans got to see another great game between the Habs and the Leafs and at least they did not know after the first few minutes who was going to win the contest. The Leafs obviously going on the theory that if you can't skate with 'em then knock them down, gave the Canadiens a rugged going over in the game but they still did not pull out the winning formula. By times the Leafs were giving the puck away in their anxiety to cream a Habs player.

However they did give the Habs a few anxious moments as Henri Richard, better known as the Pocket Rocket, limped from the ice and did not return. However a Montreal doctor stated yesterday that Richard did not suffer a serious injury and will be back in time for the next game.

Terry Sawchuk, still subbing for the flu racked John Bower, was the victim of a rather unusual goal to say the least when Provost banged in his first of the series. Mr. Shadow had been temporarily relieved of his duties as his assignment, Frank Mahovich, was in the sin bin. Rousseau got the other tally on a rebound and that was the ball game.

The game was exciting throughout however and the Leafs did not lie down as did the Hawks. There is just no comparison between the two clubs in the "A" series and those in the "B" series. Montreal and Toronto are a long way from being finished yet but you can bet that the winner of their series will take all the marbles.

Three Finish Deadlocked In Wild Masters Windup

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Defending champion Jack Nicklaus and a pair of outsiders, Gay Brewer Jr. and Tommy Jacobs, climaxed a wild windup in the Masters golf tournament Sunday by finishing in a three-way tie at 288, the second highest 72-hole score in the event's history.

They will meet today at 2 p.m. EST in the fifth playoff in the 32 years of the tournament and the second involving three players.

The brawny, 210-pound Nicklaus, at one stage three shots out of the lead, almost became the first repeat winner with a dramatic charge on the final holes. He birdied the 14th and 15th and on the 420-yard uphill finishing hole, he slammed an approach out of the rough 40 feet past the pin and sent a putt skidding inches wide of the cup.

This gave him an even-par 72 for the round and the tournament and pulled him level with Brewer and Jacobs.

George Knudson of Toronto, 28-year-old Winnipeg native, shot a 71 Sunday for a total of 292. He had a 72 Saturday.

FINISHED WITH 70
 Brewer, unshakable although playing with the great Arnold Palmer and having to turn a deaf ear to the scream of Arnie's Army, three-putted the last hole from 75 feet for his only one-over-par score and a final-round 70.

Playing ice-cold golf under intense pressure, he led most of the bright, windless day but blew his chances with a single lapse on the closing hole.

There, after a good drive, he sent his approach 75 feet past the pin to the back of the green, came back to within five feet, and missed his crucial putt.

The imperturbable Jacobs shot a steady 72, marked by one moment of wildness midway in the round when he went one over par on the eighth and 10th, but he dropped back to par golf and rallied with birdies on the 13th and 15th.

Mid-way in the exciting final round over the 6,980-yard-par-72 Augusta National layout it turned into a strictly three-way fight with the championship hinging on almost every shot.

Palmer, the man who was supposed to win his fifth title in this year, moved in and out of contention but saw his bid die with three-putt greens at the 12th and 14th holes.

He finished at 290, two strokes away, tied with red-hot Doug Sanders, who closed with an up-and-down 71.

The fabulous Ben Hogan, trying for another championship at 53, finally surrendered to father time. His once-shattered legs weakening, he soared to a 77 on the final round and finished at 295 after hanging with the leaders after three rounds.

Don January, the raw-boned Texan who started the day one stroke back of Nicklaus and Jacobs, also faded early in the round, going over par at the fourth, fifth and sixth for a 75 and 292.

He was tied at this figure with Knudson, who shot a 71 with the help of a measured 90-foot putt on the sixth green for a birdie three.

Now it is left to Nicklaus to preserve the mastery of the Big Three in this colorful event amid Georgia's pines. Palmer made a gallant bid, but failed, and the other member, Gary Player of South Africa shot a 72 for 299.

HALIFAX (CP) — A break-away goal by Brian O'Byrne with 48 seconds left in the third period gave Halifax Junior Canadiens a 6-5 win over Cornwall Royals in the seventh and deciding game of their eastern Canada memorial cup quarter finals here Sunday.

Canadians now advance to the Eastern semi-finals in a best-of-five series against the Quebec champion Shawinigan Falls Bruins starting here Tuesday.

O'Byrne, a converted defenceman, broke loose from his own blueline in the last minute of play for his second breakaway scoring effort of the game. Royals removed their goaltender after the score and missed tying the score on two point-blank efforts.

Canadians led 3-1 after the first period and 5-4 after the second. O'Byrne, scored a goal in each period to pace the Hall-gonians. Rod Bossy, Norman Guimond and Fraser Rice were the other scorers.

Royals' Jean Payette, top scorer during the season with Cornwall, fired three of his team's goals. Pete Provost and Bob DesChamps got the others.

Canadians dropped the first two games of the series, but fought back twice to tie the series. They forced the seventh game with a 5-4 victory Saturday night.

More than 6,000 watched the series winner Sunday.

Canadians took the hard-fought Saturday contest on a third-period goal by Bossy. The teams were tied 1-1 at the end of the first period and 4-4 at end but Bossy's marker at the 16:22 point of the final gave Halifax the game.

Prevost 17:21; 11. Halifax, O'Byrne (Bossy, Shannon) 19:12. Penalties: None.
