

HEAVIEST NET, FISHERMAN SAYS

"The heaviest net I ever tried to pull in", Linus Alchorn, a fisherman of Rocky Point, said after discovering what his catch consisted of Friday afternoon. Along with some lake and other varieties, the net was weighted by the propose, or dolphin (Mr. Alchorn is not sure which) shown above. A little over five feet long and weighing approximately 150 pounds, the fish has a skin as smooth as silk. On the same day Mr. Alchorn found the giant lobster shown in one of his traps. Nearly 30 inches long, he believes it weighs about 10 pounds. His young son was his only companion when he made his fantastic catches and he said it was a struggle to get the big fish into the boat. He is not sure if it is edible and would like to have it mounted.
