NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

AQUATICS.

TORONTO, June 17.

Of Hanlan's future movements little is known. After attending the regatta at Manchester, and witnessing the Nicholson-Plaisted race on Monday next, he will take ship for home. Arriving here, he, of course, will be subject to a series of ovations, which being over, he will probably settle down for a month or so of well-earned rest. In August he may take part in a regatta at Barrie, and later he will row in a grand professional sculling race on Toronto Bay, to be given by the Haulan Club in honor of the Vice-Regal visit. There is little likelihood of his going to Australia to meet Trickett, but it is probable he will offer the champion of the world extraordinary liberal expenses to row here. Failing Trickett, there are no other champions for him to conquer; and unless Courtney should court another defeat, he will perforce be compelled to rest on his laurels until he shall have staled a bit and some younger oarsman shall come to the fore with pluck enough to offer battle. At Ottawa it is proposed to invite the champion to enter into a match against time, but that is a species of contest for which he will probably have no stomach. It has too much of the trotting-horse character about it. Of course he will be able to give exhibition races, and that he will probably do, providing the prizes are made weighty enough.

LONDON, June 17.

A match has been arranged between Elliott and Robert Boyd, on the Tyne, for £200 a side, four months hence.

NEW YORK, June 18.

A despatch from Courtney the oarsman, denies the rumor that he had arranged a race with Hanlan, and he further says he don't intend to try to bring about a match.

THE WALKING FEVER.

LONDON, June 17.

The score in the walking match is as follows: Brown, 155, Weston 150, Harding, 89, Ennis, 73. Noon—score: Brown, 163, Harding 89, Ennis 86.

UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, June 17.

The World announces that Cleopatra's Needle Obelisk, now standing at Alexandria, Egypt, has been secured by an American, and will be sent to this city.

GALVESTON, TEX., June 17.

Ike Rector, a negro, ex-city detective, in a gambling house fight, shot Nathan Harris through the heart. The murderer was captured.

NEW YORK, June 17.

In the garret of a tenement house on Elizabeth street, in this city, kept by an Italian, was found this afternoon the decomposing body of an Italian named Philippe Alexander Minnilla; a horrible stench came from the room. The deceased was a man of education, a proof-reader on a French paper. The cause of death is a mystery.

The Herald's London despatch says Talmage preached yesterday at Islington Presbyterian Church, Colebrook Road, to an enormous congregation. A dense crowd blocked the streets. Half a mile before the church was reached his carriage was lifted from the ground and carried bodily to the church.

FRANCE.

LONDON, June 17.

A correspondent in Paris describing the scenes in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, says:—"Many members of the Right rushed towards the Ministerial benches. Daristo called Minister Tirard a coward. There was a personal collision between them. Blows were also exchanged between Raulins and Jean David. DeCassagnac, after the censure of the House was pronounced upon him, declared the Government was the sum of cowards and wretches. The Soir announces that explanations passed between Gaubetta and DeCassagnac and that the latter will not be prosecuted. The Hungarian General Turr, initiator of the canal scheme, will probably accompany De Lesseps to Panama.

ALGIERS.

ALGIERS, June 17.

The French commander telegraphs announcing his arrival at Madera. He reports that ten chiefs of the rebel tribes endeavored to obtain a suspension of hostilities by falsely representing that the rebel leader has fled. The rebels have been warned to surrender to him or they will be attacked to-night.

VERSAILLES, June 17.

Minister Lepere assured the Chamber of Deputies to-day that the disturbance in Algiers afforded no present cause for anxiety.

THE TROUBLE AT FALL RIVER.

FALL RIVER, June 18.

Secretary Howard, of the Spinners' Union, has issued a circular urging the spinners to stand firm and not retract the notices given of intention to strike. He says things look as if spinners would get what they demand.

BRITAIN'S MINISTER'S ABROAD.

NEW YORK, June 17.

Lord Loftus arrived here to-day en route to New South Wales via San Francisco. The steamer conveying Sir Thomas Francis Wade, British Minister to China, to Peking, was wrecked in the Yellow Sea. The passengers and crew were saved.

DAMAGE BY FLOODS.

VIENNA, June 17.

There are fresh inundations in Galicia, Silesia and Hungary. Half of the town of Troppan, in Austrian Silesia, is submerged, and the hay harvest is destroyed. Seven iron bridges have been demolished, and the Danube is still rising.

WARSAW, June 17.

Seven bridges on the Warsaw & Vienna Railway have been flooded off.

Mr. Annear's Unfortunate Vote.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—During the last session of our Provincial Parliament, some of the new members have made themselves prominent by the utter recklessness with which they broke their pledges to the electors.

But the most conspicuous of these is a man by the name of Thomas Annear, who, during the election campaign, was loud in his denunciations against the Legislative Council as being useless, expensive and of no good whatever. The moment this mighty giant of People's Rights is elected, he turns his coat, supports a motion to retain the Council, and even goes so far as to say that "the views of the electors must be had on so important a question." Consistent Annear! who has bewitched you, that you should deceive the electors!

No later than the 25th March last, Mr. Annear, at a meeting held at Valleyfield, gave out the famous words, "I'll stick to my election card." But his sticking propensity is miserably deficient—particularly when the pocket is in the way. I am told that Annear is having mighty bright boots in the city. These are things we are not used to see him wear. Might not some one in Opposition supply him with shoe-blacking, and the consequence be a broken pledge?

Any M. P. who has pledged himself to support "any constitutional measure introduced to abolish the Legislative Council" and fails to do so is a traitor, and a traitor's doom should be pronounced upon him, and is pronounced upon our political Judas Iscariot; Thomas Annear, M. L. C. I fear, like the Judas of old, "he carries the purse," and takes whatever is offered him, from a box of the blacking upwards.

The electors were aware that in Thomas Annear they had a man who loved his pocket better than his country; but they wished the country to understand, that, they, as the electors of the second Electoral District of King's County for the Legislative Council, wished the Council abolished. O, the wailings of this political Judas for the poor farmer M. L. C. for being brought at such an unseasonable time from their homes, to legislate for the good (!) of their country; so wild were his lamentations, that the electors thought that, if he had the power, he would crush the Council out of existence that very moment for the sake of his dear farm. After he had occupied the cushioned chair for a short time, he found it so comfortable, that nothing short of a large bribe, I believe, would make him "get up and git."

The fact is, he lacks in almost all the qualities that a statesman should possess.

A statesman should have no broken pledges to answer for; he should serve his country before his pocket or self-glorification. The affix, no doubt, had a good deal to do with Annear's conduct on the Council question, as you see he was to lose all his titles, etc. But what are titles, if character is not there, if the finger of scorn is printed the man saying "there goes the man known only for broken pledges, the country has no faith in him, he has deceived the country, for the sake of an empty title, and, perhaps, a paltry, but almighty dollar." I would rather respect the most humble of men, than such a man as that; but men of that stamp we have got. We have a man who, with a smiling face, solicited our votes, and who, with tears in his eyes, told us of the sufferings of the poor farmer, alas! alas! Can this be the human being that voted for a continuance of our sufferings? A whole constituency answers "that's the man, down with him, down with him. The man is Thomas Annear."

The Presbyterian man tries hard to defend Messrs. Eurns and Annear; but he fails most signally. Can the Presbyterian man see the difference between Mr. Annear's card and his vote on the Council Bill? I can inform the Presbyterian man that electors of this place do not want him to dictate to their representatives. The only excuse that Mr. Annear has for violating his pledge to the electors, is that he was waited on by Mr. Lawson, who desired him to vote as he did. Is it a fact, Mr. Lawson?

Knowing, Mr. Editor, that Mr. Annear will be dealt with as he deserves.

I remain, yours, &c.,
