

Voters In U.S. Refuse To Curb Power Of The Unions

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States voters generally refused by heavy majorities to curb the power of unions or impose new taxes in Tuesday's state-wide referendum votes across the country.

In Louisiana, a pro-segregation amendment to the state constitution authorizing creation of a private school system with public funds had rolled up a 3-to-1 lead in Wednesday's slowly arriving count.

New bonds for roads, schools, housing and other improvements found good acceptance generally. But Illinois apparently had scuttled a one-cent-a-pack boost in the cigarette tax to finance a $75,000,000 bond issue to pay bonuses to Korean War veterans.

RED HOT MEASURE

Labor was victorious in five of the six states where right-to-work proposals were the hottest measures on the ballot.

The prohibition against union shop agreements, under which workers must join unions to keep their jobs, was scuttled by overwhelming majorities in Washington, California, Ohio and Colorado and by a narrow margin in Idaho.

But in Kansas right-to-work was endorsed as triumphantly as it was rejected in the industrial states. The Kansas vote increased to 19 the number of right-to-work states.

Unionists however hailed the election returns, including the Democratic sweep in the House of Representatives and Senate, as signalling a turning of the right-to-work tide.

REPEAL ACT?

Labor now has enough friends in Congress, some claimed, to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act section which permits states to adopt right-to-work amendments to their state constitutions. Union strategists said repeal would be sought in the 86th Congress, along with a higher minimum wage, improved unemployment compensation and other union-favored causes.

California swamped two other controversial measures by lopsided majorities.

One was a soak-the-rich tax backed by labor as a counter-blow at the right-to-work advocates. Overwhelming 4 to 1, it would have slashed low-bracket state income taxes, sharply increased higher-bracket rates, and reduced the state sales tax from three per cent to two per cent.

The other soundly defeated measure was a plan to levy property taxes on parochial and private schools.

New Hampshire cleaned up some unfinished state business by making it legal for women to vote. They've been voting ever since the 19th amendment to the federal constitution, of course, but New Hampshire's constitution still limited the franchise to "every male inhabitant."

Make Higher Education More Widely Available, Is Plea

OTTAWA (CP)—A. D. Duntion, president of Carleton University, says he believes Canada needs to put a greater fraction of the national income into making higher education more widely available.

"I believe that further freeing of the ways to higher knowledge and growth of mind is vital to the future of Canada," he said Friday in an address at his installation as Carleton's president.

His statements were included in the text of his address issued to the press before delivery.

In the last 100 years the emphasis had been on liberty of thought, expression, personal action and pursuits. But today "we need to put special emphasis on another branch of liberty—liberty of knowledge."

He said it is an obvious principle that knowledge should be free society. But lack of state coercion alone was not enough.

FALLING DOWN BADLY

"I think it is right to say that Canada stands four-square for freedom of knowledge, for the principle that we will have none of this totalitarian business of government deciding who should or should not learn what. At the same time, I think we are falling down badly in the implementation of this freedom."

Universities weren't open to many young minds capable of absorbing knowledge available there. No tyrannical power decreed this. Economic facts did.

Restrictions to higher knowledge now were based on personal ability and money. They should be based on ability and application alone. Large numbers of potential students were affected by this financial obstacle.

Untold sums were spent in this country, on "dinosaur-tailed cars," gasoline, roads, parking spaces and garages but "we still think we cannot afford the cost of effectively opening higher knowledge to most minds capable of absorbing it by establishing adequate university scholarship systems."

If Canadians put another $75,000,000 a year—$4.50 a head—into its universities "we could begin to say that freedom of knowledge in Canada was a reality and not just a phrase."

New Building Planned On Site Of Hotel

MONTREAL (CP)—A 42-story banking and office building is to be built on part of the site of the Windsor Hotel in mid-town Montreal, it was announced Thursday.

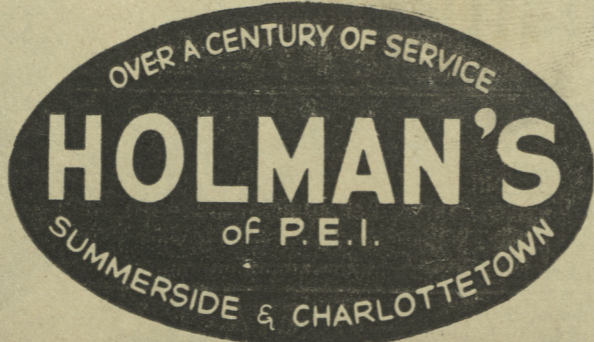

The structure will replace the older section of the hotel. The remainder of the hotel is to be renovated.

The building is to be undertaken by the Canadian Bank of Commerce in conjunction with Maxwell Cummings and Sons.

The development is to be known as the Windsor Plaza. Estimated cost of the whole development is $45,000,000. Estimated cost of the Canadian Bank of Commerce building is $22,000,000.

A modern shopping plaza is also to be erected adjacent to the bank building.

It is understood the bank's interest is confined to the bank building and that the remainder of the project is to be developed by Maxwell Cummings and Sons and their associates.
