Eddie Lopat Fired

KANSAS CITY Athletics have again proven one of baseball's standard theories correct. — If you're losing and you want to win, get a new manager. They pulled a switch and won five in a row.

Eddie Lopat, one of the smartest pitchers ever to out on the uniform of the New York Yankees, couldn't find the winning method with the A's. A coach for the Athletics in 1962, he took over as manager of the A's on the last day of the '62 season when Hank Bauer, another ex-Yankee, stepped down. Last season the club had a 73-89 mark. Under Lopat this season they were 17-35.

The case may be that Lopat wasn't too concerned about winning ball games this year. Some managers, many of whom have reminded us of Lopat, will try and build for the years ahead when they find themselves hopelessly floundering in the depths of the pennant race.

The former Yankee ace was using players that probably wouldn't even be listed on rosters of most of the other major league clubs because he thought they could win for Kansas-City in the coming years.

Lopat wasn't surprised he was fired. It happens to good baseball men all the time. "It's standard procedure as far as baseball managers are concerned," he said. "It's easier to change the manager than to change five or 10 ball players."

MC Gaha In - Handrahan Out

THE NEW A'S manager, Mel McGaha ,who had been a coach with the club for a year, found the winning method in five of his first six games at the helm of the Athletics.

After dropping the first, the five wins in a row marked the first time the A's have won more than three in a row since last July.

McGaha told reporters he planned "nothing drastic" for the club. His only concern was that he would place the nine best men available on the field. That's where Islander Vern Handrahan enters the picture.

McGaha apparently didn't rate Handrahan among the top pitchers on the club because only five days after the managerial change the Island's right hander was on his way to the minors.—Not that the demotion is the end of the world for Vern, some more experience in Triple A ball, after his stint in the majors, might do him a world of good and give him more confidence.

Although Vern is with a Baltimore farm club, Rochester, his contract has been retained by the Athletics. With Rochester he'll get what he needs most—pitching. The International League club, out of the first division, will probably make full use of Handrahan's talents.

Vern has shown both determination and ability in becoming one of a few Canadians to play in the majors. He has overcome a lot of disadvantages. We look foreward to his successful return to the majors

Off The Cuff

NORTHERN DANCER will be the heavy favorite in Saturday's 105th running of the Queen's Plate at Toronto. We expect GRAND GARCON, owned by Frank Sherman of Hamilton, will come home second. Rated the best chance to upset the Dancer however, is PIERLOU, owned by Louis Levesque . . . . Plans are being made in Summerside to organize a community track and field club for the summer. We would like to see other communities take up the t and f bug and follow suit . . . . . VADA PINSON and LEO CARDENAS slammed two-run homers Tuesday night to lead Cincinnati to a 9-4 victory over San Francisco, dropping the Giants a full game behind Philadelphia . . . . In another late game Tuesday, WARREN SPAHN failed to finish his sixth straight start as Los Angeles gave him his fifth loss, 5-1. DON DRYSDALE got the win . . . . Los Angeles infielder JIM FREGOSI has taken over the American League batting lead with a .355 mark. TONY OLIVA has dropped to .352 and CHUCK HINTON and MICKEY MANTLE have .331 . . . In the National League BILLY WILLIAAMS remained ineligible the pack with .377. Mays has .358 and ROBERTO CLEMENTE, .352 . . . . New York's WHITEY FORD, who has won all of his last eight starts, is currently the top pitcher in the AL with a 9-1 mark. DICK FARRELL leads the National with 10-1 . . . . . Kansas City Athletics said Tuesday that three of their players —shortstop WAYNE CAUSEY, relief pitcher John Wyatt and pitcher ORLANDO PENA— had been given "substantial raises." Causey is batting .314. Wyatt has figured in 15 of the 20 games the A's had won till then, and Pena has sent down 80 bv strikes.

Junior 'A' Hockey Player Makes It Big At Harvard

ELIGIBILITY QUESTIONED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP(— When Gene Kinasewich, Edmonton-born hockey ace, entered Harvard University four years ago, his arrival produced a storm of protest and he became the centre of controversy.

Kinasewich, now 22, had played Junior A hockey in Edmonton and his athletic eligibility at Harvard was protested both in the Ivy League and the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Harvard, despite its lofty scholastic rating, was accused of "importing" Kinasewich for his hockey prowess. The critics said the young Canadian was not a bold student.

Kinasewich, one of 13 children of Ukrainian immigrant parents, let his performances do his talking.

Just a few days ago, he left Harvard as one of its most honored graduates. He became the first student ever outside the United States to win the William J. Bingham Award, highest athletic honor at Harvard. At the graduation exercises. he served as first class marshal, highest elective office an undergraduate can attain.

SECOND HIGHEST

Hockey captain his senior year, Kinasewich finished his varsity career as the school's second highest scorer with 110 points. Only Olympian Bob Cleary scored more.

Now married to the former Janet Mitteli, a Massachusetts girl, Kinasewich received magna cum laude honors on his senior thesis in his social relations major. He has studied adolescent psychology and with all his other duties spent time in social work, helping children at a local settlement house.

The dean's list student says there will be no professional hockey in his future, though he has been thoroughly scouted.

Kinasewich has been named one of four winners of a Henry Russell Shaw foreign travel fellowship for nine months study overseas. Gene says he wants to travel in eastern Europe and visit Communist countries.

"If we can figure out a way for two to live as cheaply as one, I'll take my wife, too," Kinasewich says.

Kinasewich was paid for playing junior hockey as a teenager, a common practice in Canada. He was the youngest player on the Edmonton Oil Kings at 17. His total pay was $1,122.

He attended Deerfield Academy in Massachusetts one year before enrolling at Harvard. As a Canadian Junior A graduate, Kinasewich was ineligible for hockey as a freshman. So he played baseball to maintain his athletic scholarship.

DECISION REVERSED

Just before his junior year, the Eastern College Athletic Conference eligibility committee declared Kinasewich ineligible because of the pay he received in Canada. Later in the same season, the decision was reversed on the basis of a special exception.

If he hadn't missed the half-season, Kinasewich would almost certainly have established an all-time scoring record at Harvard.

Kinasewich was an orphan at 10. One brother, Ray, plays professional hockey with Cleveland of the American League. Another brother, Bob was on Cornell's unbeaten freshman squad last winter.

When Harvard won the ECAC hockey tournament in 1963, Kinasewich was named most valuable player. He scored three of the four goals against Boston College in the championship game, including the winner in sudden death overtime.

He also was most valuable player in last winter's hockey festival tournament at Boston Garden when the Crimson upset both Minnesota and Toronto. He scored three goals against Minnesota.

He became the second highest scorer in Harvard history with 110 points on 61 goals and 49 assists in 2½ seasons of play. He had to sit out half of one season due to the eligibility question. He was not eligible to play at all in his junior year.

During Kinasewich's varsity career, Harvard's hockey forces lost only 15 of 76 games.

KINSMEN PARK

Sir,—Please allow me a little space once again to answer briefly the reply to my letter on Tuesday; which appeared in yesterday's Guardian.

My only wish in writing that letter for publication was the hope that others would share my views on this matter and judging from the many names on the petition that has been circulating this neighborhood, I'm now sure of that.

First of all I can assure you that I am most anxious for the safety of my children; it is for this very reason I'm hoping to see them back in the playground and off the street.

I was pleased to note in the reply that my adversary mentioned that her main objection was the use of foul language in the playground; if that be the case then let the ball games resume with a warning to the older ones about such talk. And should it continue they would be barred from the playground, and also agree that the use of a hard ball should also be prohibited, but isn't it a pity the smaller ones as well as the older ones were barred. No mention was made to those boys about foul language or using hard balls, just the almost continuous daily orders to stop playing ball and then finally the threat of parents being taken to court if any one were caught playing ball in the future.

In closing it is my sincere wish that the sooner this problem is solved and all the neighborhood is back on pleasant terms again the better it will be for all concerned.

Finally may I thank my neighbor for voicing her views; she deserves credit for fighting for her rights. I hope I shall receive a little credit for doing likewise.

I am Sir, etc.,
AN ANXIOUS PARENT

TIME TO THINK

EDMONTON (CP)—A Welsh university administrator says students shouldn't have to work their way through college. John McIntyre, registrar of University College in Swansea, Wales, says a limited amount of work is good, but students should always have time to think, study and travel during the summer.

SPORT ECHOES

Summerside Bureau of The Guardian

The RCAF Eagles

Bob Hopper, RCAF flinger, pitched himself anothervictory Monday evening downing Enman Drug 16-9. Enman's threw a bad scare into him in the fifth inning scoring seven runs. But the airforce attack netted six counters in the previous frame. Pitchers Hopper and Dave Stewart of the drug nine were more or less innocent bystanders in each of the baseball's derbies. Their infields scuttled them with butter-finger routines on each occasion. Roger Bird, hard-hitting defenceman of last winter's Eagles, delivered a pinch-hit homerun in the fifth, and Steve Phillips, another member of the Eagles on-ice, hit the longest roundtripper in the fourth that we have seen at the RCAF diamond. The RCAF were decked out in new dark blue uniforms with "eagles" across the front, so the airforce are sticking to that high-flying bird as a pseudonym for their hockey, basketball, and softball teams.

On The Way Up

The commercial softball league is attracting a lot more attention this year, and their quality of play seems better. We saw a couple of innings a week or so ago and were surprised at the smooth infield work displayed. They probably don't rank with the Prince County league as yet, particularly in the pitching department, but give the boys times. Right now they should be a valuable "farm circuit" from which players can graduate to the higher league, but these commercial boys might not be satisfied with this for long. Don't be astonished if the winners of that league challenge one of the Prince County teams for a game this fall, and they might not get such a terrific lambasting at that.

The Prince County softball league is virtually an airforce circuit with only a smattering of local boys on the rosters (though most of them are headliners.) It seems rather strange that so few Summerside athletes play softball in this league. Now the commercial circuit is different. A lot of good local athletes are taking up the game and they should be apt pupils. We read where Dave Martin, one of Summerside's most promising hockey juniors, hit a home run the other evening, and circled the bases like Northern Dancer until he caught up to Eric Johnston, heading with a little more deliberation in the same direction. Martin took his time and enjoyed the scenery until Eric made home.

A Baseball Rule

Your attention, please, while we read to you a section of rule 51 from a book of baseball rules, but unfortunately not the latest edition by a good many years. "A coach may address words of assistance and direction to the baserunners or the batsmen. He shall not — by words or signs, incite or try.. to incite the spectators to demonstrations, nor use language which will in any manner refer to, or reflect upon a player of the opposite club." Guess this rule could never have got into softball. Oh, well, we enjoy, and figure most of the spectators get a kick out of those sarcastic remarks handied back and forth between the players of the opposing teams, especially if the coach is a witty guy (some of them unfortunately are not), and when the caliber of play isn't much fun to watch.

Forbie's Hit Wins Contest

A winning-run producing single by Forbie Kennedy in the top of the seventh inning paced P.E.I. Regiment to an exciting but error studded 5-4 win over Sunshine Island Dairy in a regularly scheduled Charlottetown Senior Baseball League fixture at Memorial Field last night.

Kennedy's game winning blow, off losing Dairy pitcher Joe Gallant, was his second big hit of the night. His double in the first inning gave the Regiment their first run of the game.

Carl MacQuaid took the win for the Regiment, giving up four hits, striking out four and walking one, Gallant was tagged for six hits, while striking out six and giving up no walks.

Regiment scored single runs in the first, second and seventh innings and picked up two in the third on a costly Dairy error.

Island Dairy scored all four of their runs in a big fourth inning on a double, walk, single, hit batter and Billy Weatherbie's booming triple.

Bill Sherry and Leo Kelly each rapped two hits for the winners while Cyril MacDonald and Weatherbie had the only extra base hits for the Dairy.

Horse Racing At Ch'town

The Charlottetown Driving Park will present another racing card at the local track tonight. There will be eight well filled dashes for the track patrons.

The feature event of the evening will be the "early closer" which will be divided into two divisions. The first division will be competing in races one and five and the second half of the night's main attraction will be witnessed in dashes four and eight.

The third and seventh events will be 'claimers' and will see the following horses leaving the wire: W.M.'s, Lucky Lark, Scottish Light, Zither, Bobby Brook, Reta Bold and Chet Lynn Roya. W.M.X., according to the records is the most promising betting choice in this event. Billy Rice is also reported to be a likely pick in the first half of the 'early closer' division.

The second and sixth races will round out what promises to be the most exciting card of the season, to date.
