Chapter 59

Pan, sure that Gloria would go into pneumonia and die at last called up the doctor and begged him to order her to stay indoors. Dr. Moore said he would look in and Pan felt she had triumphed. But when he arrived, Gloria had wrapped herself up in another of her many amazing tea gowns this time silver cloth with floating scarlet chiffon sleeves and a long train of scarlet velvet, and looked anything but an invalid.

"My duty is to tell you to stay home" the old doctor said with a smile at the appearance of his sick patient.

"And my privilege is to disobey," Gloria answered with a smiling impudence that she could make charming. "Stay for tea doctor, Bobby may come in you like to talk to him."

"The little doctor settled down into a corner of the sofa and waited for tea and muffins. He was something like a goblin, he had a long head that rose to a sort of bald peak on top, sparkling deep set eyes behind a fringe of eyebrow and a professional looking pointed beard.

"Of course I'm supposed to be visiting Mrs. Jamison," he began making himself still more comfortable among the cushions as the tea tray appeared.

"Mrs. Jamison is always a maddo imagine!" Gloria remarked, filling his cup.

"The invalid whose illness is imaginary is always the greatest sufferer," the doctor moralized. "Most of us are malades imaginaires. Both the sickness and the cure is in the imagination." And he helped himself to another buttered muffin.

"Exactly! But why talk against your profession?" Gloria wanted to know. "In any case it all proves that my imagination has cured my cold and I'm going to dance tonight. Frankie shall mother send you to a dancing class if you can learn to dance with her?"

"Yes, if I don't have to dance with little girls" the child answered solemnly, walking slowly around the table and inspecting the cakes and muffins.

This caused a general laugh, during which Bobby came in and joined the party.

And Gloria went off to her dancing class in a pale yellow long velvet dress that carried its train off one side instead of conventionally in back.

NEWS FROM THE OTHER SIDE

Interesting Letter From Woman in South Africa

Johannesburg, South Africa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and because I felt run down. I tried a lot of medicines before I tried yours. One day I was standing on my stoop when a boy came up to me and handed me one of your little books. I read the book and the next day my husband went to the chemist and bought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel quite strong and well now as I am on the sixth bottle. I have written to my sister and told her all about the wonders it has done for me, and I am quite willing for you to use my name as I can not thank you enough for what it has done for me."—Mrs. W. E. Rush, 128 6th Ave., Mayfair, Fortesburg, Johannesburg, South Africa.

It is this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by letter or verbally, one woman to another, that ought to commend this splendid medicine to you.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women's ailments (in use nearly fifty years), and the fact that it has helped thousands of other women, should cause you to give it a trial now. It can be safely taken by any woman—young or old.

PRESENTATION TO Bank Manager

Before leaving Mr. Stewart to take up his duties as Manager of the Royal Bank, Hunter River, Mr. S. M. Daniels, was called upon by the citizens of Mt. Stewart and presented with a travelling bag and the following address:

Mr. S. M. Daniels,
(Manager Royal Bank of Canada, Mt. Stewart.)

Dear Sir—

It is with feelings of deep personal regret that we learn of your departure from us, but wish to express our sincere congratulations, that it is a well merited advancement.

Our loss is one that will be difficult to fill for you entered into our community life for its betterment and shared in the labours that in any way contributed to a better social relationship in our midst.

You were interested in clean sport and helped much to promote the same. You were interested in the moral atmosphere and expressed your positive views for clean morals.

We will especially miss you in your capacity in the Royal Bank, your gracious manner of dealing with your customers, but we wish you to them and we will follow you and your devoted wife, Mrs. Daniel to your new home with heartfelt good wishes for continuing success. In parting with you, we desire that you accept this small memento, not for its intrinsic value alone, but as a slight token of our appreciation and friendship and we wish you God speed.

Signed by the Citizens of Mt. Stewart.

Mr. Daniels was taken by surprise but made a fitting reply, thanking the citizens for their gift and kindly interest.

CONDITIONS IN WEST WERE NEVER BETTER.

WINNIPEG, June 6.—I do not remember when conditions throughout the West were better than at the present time," stated Norman Lambert, Secretary of the Dominion Council of Agriculture, of The Globe yesterday. "Excellent growth is reported from all sections and there is no shortage of labor." This authority on Western conditions does not believe there is any decrease in the present average devoted to grain in Saskatchewan equals that of a year ago, but does not think there is any decrease in the other two Prairie Provinces. "There is more interest in mixed farming this year," added Mr. Lambert.

Stops Pain Instantly

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in two forms—a colorless, clear liquid (one drop does it) and in extra thin plasters. Use whichever form you prefer, plasters or the liquid—the action is the same. Safe, gentle. Made in a world-famed laboratory. Sold by all druggists.
