British Publisher Is Angered By Stories Chapel Neglected

By ALAN HARVEY
 LONDON (CP)—British publisher Geoffrey Harmsworth reacted angrily here to a Toronto report that the John Graves Simcoe chapel in Devonshire had been used recently to store manure.
 "I never heard such nonsense," he said.

WELLINGTON
 Mr. and Mrs. Ted L. Arsenault had as guests during Christmas holidays their three sons Paul, Benny and Sonny. Mr. Grant Brooks left on Dec. 29th for Port Credit, Ont., after holidaying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Brooks.
 Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Ward and family accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ward and son Eric, Richmond, spent New Year's Day with Mr. and Mrs. Roy MacCarville and family, Carleton Place.
 Master Preston Barlow observed his 11th birthday on Jan. 3. Messrs John S. Barlow and Claude MacCarville also observed their birthdays on Jan. 4th at their respective homes.
 Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Thompson visited Mrs. Howard Barlow and Lowell on New Year's Day.
 Mr. and Mrs. Ira Barlow and family accompanied by Miss Shirley MacArthur were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl MacEachern and family on New Year's Day.
 Members of Union Corner and Wellington United YPU met at the home of Miss Gladys and Shirley Barlow for the December meeting. Roll call was answered by a good attendance.
 A well-attended Christmas concert was held at French School on Monday evening, December 18th. The school had been beautifully decorated by Mrs. Euclid Arsenault assisted by Mrs. A.J. Arsenault for the occasion. Program consisted of a number of Christmas carols and hymns both in French and English under direction of Edward Poirier, music teacher. There were also four plays, drills recitations and step dancing. Program closed with a visit from Santa Claus with a treat for the kiddies after which he distributed gifts from under the tree.
 Wellington Ladies Aid members met for their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Milton MacCarville. Roll call was answered by seven members. Hymns were sung followed by scripture reading. Rev. MacPhail led in prayer. Minutes of last meeting were read. New and old business was dealt with. Christmas treats were boxed and delivered to the aged. Five dollars was voted to M and M Fund and a donation was received from Mrs. James Bishop. Sympathy cards were sent to the family of late Mrs. Alice Barlow also to Mrs. Hilda Barlow. Mrs. Garfield Day invited members to her home for January meeting. Meeting closed with Silent Night. A delicious lunch was served by hostess assisted by lunch committee. A pleasant social hour was enjoyed.
 Miss Nellie MacLennan recently visited Mrs. Ida MacLennan, Victoria West.
 Mrs. Sophie Gaudet has taken up residence with her daughter, Mrs. Emily Gallant, Richmond for winter months.
 Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Enman were Mr. Turner Moore, Mr. John Enman and in all my born days," said the nephew of Lord Northcliffe, whose family has looked after the chapel since 1926.

 Harmsworth said the chapel has been maintained in good order at considerable expense. Over the years, he had done his best to interest some responsible Canadian in the chapel but "nobody in Canada seemed to care."
 He said it is just possible that the chapel was used before 1926 to store farm implements, but "I just can't understand how anybody could believe this ridiculous story about manure being stored there—there isn't a wisp of truth in it."
 The publisher said he believes his family is entitled to an apology from "whoever has been spreading this nonsense."
MAD AT REPORTS
 He said he has seen, and become somewhat apologetic over, reports quoting the Toronto-Historical Board as saying the chapel is in poor condition.
 John Graves Simcoe, born in 1752 in Cottesbrook, Northamptonshire, was the first lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada and is regarded as the founder of York, now Toronto.
 He died at Wolford, a small Devonshire community. Simcoe, his wife, and their children are buried in the simple grey stone chapel at Wolford. Sir Leicester Harmsworth, the publisher's father, acquired the chapel 35 years ago when it was in a derelict condition.
 Harmsworth said he would have no objection to the chapel being transported to Toronto "stone by stone" if necessary.
 "I think you Canadians are rather lax. If this had been George Washington's chapel, the Americans would have done something about it in a hurry."

FAMOUS HANDS
 can play his cards in any way he wishes and it makes no difference whether or not he fools his partner, while if either defender attempts deception, he runs the risk of misleading his partner.
 However, this does not mean that the defenders do not have their innings, too. They also can occasionally steer a deceptive course and fool a gullible declarer.
 One of the best examples of deceptive defensive play is this hand played by Edgar Kaplan, of New York. He held the East cards and saw, as soon as dummy came down, that there was no hope of beating the contract unless his partner had the ace of clubs. Dummy had eight winners in sight, and South, on the bidding, was clearly marked with a spade trick.
 So when West led a spade, Kaplan won with the ace instead of the king. Kaplan wanted to sell declarer the idea that West had the king of spades, even though he realized his play would cause West to think that South had it.
 Kaplan then led the king of clubs—another strange play, since he had neither the ace nor queen to back it up. The purpose behind this play was to persuade declarer that the lead had been made from the A-K.
 When the king held, Kaplan returned a low club, thereby presenting South with a difficult guess. Declarer, after a struggle, put up the queen, basing his play on the assumption that Kaplan's overall had been made with the ace of spades and A-K of clubs.
 West thereupon took the queen with the ace, returned a spade, and declarer went down two when East won cashed two club tricks.
 But if Kaplan had won the first spade—with the king—and returned a low club, it is very probable that South would have ducked and made three a-trumps.
