Discus Visual Aids At Central Royalty H And S

The importance of visual aids in the classroom was the theme of a very interesting and informative talk given by Mr. S. M. McInnis, director of Visual Education for the province at the Central Royalty Hotel and School Association meeting on Tuesday evening.

He outlined the different methods used in acquiring knowledge which range from direct experience which is the most effective to verbal symbols or lectures which is considered the poorest method. Among the more effective and practical methods of classroom instruction is the use of films and film strips.

That this form of instruction is receiving more attention from educational authorities is evident from the fact that teachers-in-training will soon be receiving instruction in the use of film equipment and the technique of using this type of instructional aids in the classroom.

The president, Mrs. A. M. John also gave the report of the Provincial Home and School meeting which she attended. At this meeting plans were made for the Canadian Conference on Education to be held in Ottawa in February. The P.E.I. Home and School Association is eligible to send five delegates to this conference. A sum of money was voted as a contribution to the travel pass for the expenses of these delegates.

The competition for designing a school crest was discussed and it was decided to have the entries completed before the next meeting, the competition to be open to pupils of grades five to ten inclusive.

Following a discussion regarding means of increasing attendance it was decided to give a

Negro Composer Receives Tribute

NEW YORK (AP)—A throng of admirers joined Sunday night in singing happy birthday to William C. Handy, the frail, blind composer of The St. Louis Blues. For the 84-year-old Negro, it was a long way from St. Louis where he recalled, "I was a trumpet." About 800 persons gathered in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and paid $50 a plate—proceeds to the W.C. Handy Foundation for the Blind—in a tribute sponsored by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

GALLOP POLL

Big Profits Give Edge As Cause of High Prices

High Cost of Labour Blamed By Some What Smaller Proportion

There's not much to choose between big profits and high labour costs in the minds of the people when they come to name the main cause of increased prices. In a three-way poll, however, the main cause of increased prices between those who name big profits or wages as the cause or those who say it is a combination of both. Only a very small number—about one per cent—believe that big profits, or some other cause, can think of big profits as the estimated 45 per cent price increase over the past ten years.

As recently reported by the Gallup Poll, a very large majority of the public, 68 per cent, believe that their wages have definitely not kept up with price increases. This group is far more likely to name big profits for their
