School Board

Dr. MacMillan, himself a member of the School Board, agreed that the Council should have what they were a great many new desks, blackboards and maps bought recently because they were absolutely necessary. He thought the Board was economical but stated that it created an anomalous situation when it could build a $2 million school with nothing to stop them. He agreed it should be controlled by the city. "They know their own business best," he added.

Mr. R. R. Bell said it was unusual when the city with five appointees on the nine-man board could not get action without going to the Legislature for it. He stated it had been said that some children were sitting in the same seats their great-grandfather had used. He said he had old schools here and the trustees were trying to improve the situation. He opposed the reduction as he said the Board needed more money each year to try to meet the situation created by a steadily rising school population. Some children, he said, were presently being taught in rented rooms.

"What a Friend We Have in Jesus" closed this part of the meeting. A period of games and contests followed, and lunch was served. The meeting closed with the hymn, "Abide With Me", and the Mizpah Benediction.

Returns From Halifax Cured

Two weeks ago little Francis of Charlottetown, aged four, set off with his mother for Halifax Children's Hospital for investigation of the severe eczema from which he has been suffering since he was ten months of age. Yesterday afternoon he returned home via Maritime Central Airways under the care of the hostess, Miss MacBeth, and with his condition completely cleared. This is only one of the many cases for whom treatment is being arranged all the time. The contributions made at Red Cross campaign time each year help make it possible for treatment of this kind to be arranged for children whose parents are unable to look after it themselves.

While the money which pays for the hospitalization, transportation, etc., of these children (369 of whom received help last year) is raised annually by the Junior Red Cross members in the schools, the Rotary Club of Charlottetown and the Masons of Montague, the administration charges have to be financed from Campaign subscriptions to the Annual Campaign. This is just another reason why your Red Cross Campaign contribution should be a generous one.

New Polio

vaccine was injected into muscles, 90 persons all had antibodies against all three types of virus which can cause human polio. Dr. Salk reported. They developed as much, or more, antibodies as if they actually been invaded by live viruses.

By everything known now about polio, they should be well protected. So far, these 90 have been studied for only six weeks, but still have lots of antibodies.

There are reasons to think they protection will last for months, perhaps for years.

Delightful Performance

court, sweetly sang the familiar tune.

Toy Parade

The pupils of Grade five presented an intricate "Toy Parade." All appropriately garbed, and fitting actions to their roles, the toys — toy soldiers, bunnies, waiting tops, jumping jacks and dolls — made their entrances to music, and then presented an intricate drill, also done to music.

Allan Dunbar and Wallace Platts effectively set the scene for the second half of the program as they sang a sailor chanty, "The Rio Grande."

The charming romantic confusion and the biting satire of Gilbert and Sullivan's witty operetta were ably interpreted by the cast of senior students of Prince Street School. Ralph Rackstraw, the common sailor who falls in love with his captain's daughter, was sung by Ross Sturdy, and the daughter, Josephine, by Maida Rogerson. These two young lovers completely won the hearts of the audience with their renditions of Sullivan's songs.

Captain Corcoran's role was very ably played and sung by Norman Stewart, and Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., who also seeks the hand of Josephine, by Alan MacLeod. Mary Vessey starred as Buttercup, and Madge Mugiord as Hebe, with whom Sir Joseph finally has to be content, instead of the fetching Josephine. Rolfe Lee was Dick Deadeye, and David MacLeod the Boatswain. The marines, sailors, and Sir Joseph's sisters, cousins and aunts were all senior pupils of the school.

The program was produced under the direction of Miss E. Lillian McKenzie, Mus. Bac., F.M.C. M., to whom a great deal of credit is due for such smooth performances by all participating. Obviously a great deal of work must have gone into the production of such an ambitious undertaking as H.M.S. Pinafore, and the younger students were equally well trained in the very suitable numbers assigned to them. The accompanist was Miss Suzanne Brenton, L.Mus.

A great deal of work was also done by the staff of the school who handled the stage direction, costumes, scenery, lighting, make-up and properties. Most noticeable were the costumes, as the excellence of every number was highlighted by the elaborate and colourful costumes, which were little short of perfect.
