

HAPPENINGS

A delightful recital of piano pupils of Mrs. G.M. Muttart was held on Friday evening in the Epworth Hall, Summerside, with Rev. Robert Bartlett as chairman. Interwoven throughout the performance were vocal selections. At the close, pupils who had taken the Royal Conservatory Examinations were presented with their certificates, as follows: grade 2, Peter Sheen, distinction; grade 3, Peter Lewis, distinction; grade 5, Marcia Simmonds, distinction, grade 8, Marilyn Bartlett, took her examination earlier in the week from the Royal Conservatory of Music, but the certificate had not arrived for the presentation. Mr. Muttart was presented with a gift from Cathy Lewis, on behalf of the pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn W. Wallis, Mr. Summerside and his recent guests, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Phillips and daughters, Maureen and Susan, who left Friday on return to their home in Sudbury, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Erland Ramsay and son, Ross, of Summerside, moved to Saint John, N.B. on Saturday. They were accompanied to Moncton, N.B. by Mrs. H.D. Smith, who visited with Mr. and Mrs. D.G. Murray and family.

Approximately fifty relatives and friends throughout Prince County gathered on Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Allison Harris, Summerside to congratulate and tender their best wishes on the anniversary of their thirty-fifth anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris were married in the Methodist Episcopal Church, West Somerville, Massachusetts on June 18, 1927. The best man, Mr. Guy Harris, and one of the ushers, Mr. Ernest Darby, were present on Saturday evening. The family...

MARY HAWORTH Girl Hesitates to Marry After A 'Foolish Mistake'

Dear Mary Haworth: I am 19 and hope to be a teacher. Ever since I was 10 I have been in love with X. We have been friends and lovers. We dated all through high school. When he was 18 (four years ago) he introduced me to a girl and we wrote and saw each other regularly. When I was 14, my parents and his were afraid we were too serious, so we broke off for almost two years. At that time, it appears that X is pathetically ill-prepared on this score. His immature, I didn't know any better, but I was hungry for immediate sex gratification, heedless of other considerations. By comparison, your attitude is far more balanced, perceptively doubted my intentions, and he begged me to marry him but I was afraid. Now I know I am not pregnant and we still see each other exclusively. X wants to get married right away. I want to wait. He is only 22. I sense not to marry him—M.H. Mary Haworth, a counsellor through her column, or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

ELLEN'S DIARY Bleeding Hearts, Pink And White, Bloom in June-Time

"Now, make a wish!" Granddaughter said to Alex, in the sunshine of this afternoon. They were on the lawn there, he with a first heavy-headed dandelion in his hand, young lips pursed to blow the silken-winged seeds away. He smiled, revealing a fetching gap in a row of teeth. "Let me think — I wish I —" "Be reflected." "But you mustn't say what you wish" she reminded him. "You must keep that secret, for if you tell it, that will break the spell — Your wish won't come true." "A grin — a puff. And the seeds spread on the sunny wind, it was garden seed, later to earthy beds as do humans. "The goldfinches can line their nests now" she said. "The oak trees in the lawn-brood are charming now. In their gold-green foliage and delicate tassels bloom. Nearby in an old flower bed the bleeding heart-white, heart-shaped flowers of the bleeding heart's racemes of drooping pink and white, head-shaped flowers, were in full bloom. "She's a nice little bird to build in a bramble-thicket for roosting, isn't she? No cat can get her there," Granddaughter smiled. "Crops grow today. Ellen's James offers now, coming in at his day's end. "Warm sunny days like this we wish they need!" "And over for the summer, in the silence of night, the Lady Moon reigns. "Until tomorrow — Diary — Goodnight!"
