Compulsory Seat Belts And Age Checks Urged

That Everett Joseph Shea, Auburn, came to his death Aug. 7 at 11:10 p.m. near Mt. Ryan church in the Johnston's River district as a result of being an occupant in a 1963 half-ton Chevrolet truck driven at an excessive rate of speed in a restricted 40 mile speed zone, was the verdict brought in Thursday night by a coroner's jury.

The jury also recommended that the use of seat belts in motor vehicles be made compulsory in the province. The coroner was Dr. Allan MacMillan.

The verdict further read that the truck had left the road, crashed into a culvert and turned over, thereby causing multiple injuries to the victim and fatal injuries to the head.

The seat belt recommendation was made as a result of photographs offered as exhibits showing the relative good condition of the truck cab.

It was further recommended that clubs with liquor licenses operating in P.E.I. be compelled to employ a person at the entrance of the club to check the age of younger patrons.

A third recommendation advised the use of double weight paper with dull finish for photographs offered in court.

Witnesses testifying were Dr. A.D. Aquino, assistant provincial pathologist, John Levi McNally, Mt. Ryan, Albert Patrick Hayes and his brother Joseph Vincent Hayes, and Cnst. N .V. Harris, RCMP detachment, Charlottetown.

Members of the coroner's jury were John Leo Beaton, Duncan Brynden, John Nellas Richard, William Cummings Matthews, Ira Auld, and Gerald Francis Carroll.

The same accident claimed the life of Gerald Grimes, Watervale. Lawrence Dalton, Fort Augustus, is still in hospital as a result of injuries.

Better Appreciation Of Art Said Object Of Art Society

The Prince Edward Island Art Society will begin planning Tuesday evening for a series of monthly panel discussions on the history of art from their 1963-64 season.

Miss Eleanor Lowe, president of the organization, said yesterday that a major purpose of this year's program is "to prepare the public for the opening of the new gallery (in the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building). Those who take part in this series of programs will be able to better understand art and the changes that have led up to modern forms and expression."

"We feel that such a splendid setting as our gallery will offer for paintings and art forms deserves the best.

"And an educated public will not be satisfied with less than the best," she concluded.

OVER 60

Enrolment in the Art Society for this season is over 60, Miss Lowe said. This is a sizeable increase over last year's membership.

The series of eight illustrated discussions held the first Tuesday of each month, will trace the trends in art from "The Humanist Revolution" in the 14th century, to "Art and Atom", in our present age.

The third Tuesday of each month, members will be given the opportunity to imitate the painting techniques they have studied in a "studio workshop".

All meetings will be held at Prince of Wales college at 8 p.m.

Restriction Clamped On Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Wheat Board has placed a new restriction on wheat exports in a move apparently linked with the big sale to Russia, it was disclosed Friday.

A board spokesman said a temporary ban has been imposed on private export sales of wheat for shipment after Oct. 20.

The official said:

"We are holding off in order to re-assess our position."

Russian and Canadian negotiators in Ottawa are reported to have closed a deal for a giant wheat sale to the Communist country.

Earlier the board halted shipment of Canadian wheat to countries not covered by the International Wheat Agreement.

The latest restriction also applies to IWA countries.

In any case, the Oct. 20 restriction is not expected to interfere with movement of wheat because of substantial back-orders yet to be filled.

Meanwhile, one reliable source here said exporters have booked shipping facilities in Maritime ports almost solid until next June, apparently to transport grain sold to Russia.

Speculation in trade circles continued that Russia may also be buying Canadian rye in the current negotiations.

In response, rye prices jumped from three-eighths to two cents Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

On the basis of expected demand, prices in this commodity have been rising for days.

A formal announcement on the Russian deal is expected early next week.

BEEFS FROM

In two of them all questions are decided by a vote of the MPs. In two others, policies are determined by the party leaders and, though caucus is advised of the plans, no deciding vote is cast by the members.

The voting caucuses are the New Democratic and Social Credit. The non-voting ones are the Liberal and Progressive Conservative.

The aim of the caucus is to present a united party front in the Commons on any specific questions. And because two parties don't hold votes on individual policy questions doesn't mean the objections to a proposed course of action from which the caucus are ignored by the leadership.

MAY BE ALTERED

If the criticism is strong enough, the proposed action may be altered by the leadership. But also it may not be changed. The leadership isn't bound to take another line.

Opinions vary about the value of the caucus system. There are obvious advantages for the party leaders in a non-voting caucus. Also there are disadvantages to the public.

Douglas Fisher, New Democratic MP for Port Arthur, his party's deputy house leader and formerly caucus chairman, puts it this way:

"Caucus has given a needed party line and some cherent treatment in the House on an issue or on policy. Policy has been focused in the chamber. To be consistent it has had to have a preliminary review.

"It is true that the public thus has been deprived of some of the richest discussion which takes place before the parties make up their minds.

"The only solution (to giving the public the benefit of this discussion) would be greater 'laissez faire' on the part of party leaders to let the check rein off more often and an attitude by the public that consistency needn't be the jewel most prized by them."

Generator Tests Near Completion

Advising that tests are nearing completion, Maritime Electric Company officials said yesterday the unusual noises coming from the generating plant will come to an end soon.

Dear Friend:

The management of this theatre takes uncommon pride in announcing the return engagement, beginning Monday, Sept. 16th, of the motion picture version of the inspiring book, "A Man Called Peter." We know that this is a film you will treasure all the years of your life.

You are undoubtedly familiar with Catherine Marshall's unforgettable story of Peter Marshall's life, which led the non-fiction best-seller list for 128 weeks. The movie has been produced by Twentieth Century-Fox with loving fidelity. The producers have exercised the greatest care and restraint to guarantee a faithful, tasteful and truly uplifting film. The production is in CinemaScope, has been photographd in color by De Luxe, and stars Richard Todd and Jean Peters as Mr. and Mrs. Marshall.

Religious leaders, prominent lay citizens, film critics and other responsible figures who remember "A Man Called Peter" have attested to the dignity and the dedication of this memorable motion picture. We think you will be pleased to lend your support and patronage to our showing of this extraordinary film.

Yours truly,
