AUTOMATION HITS BRIDGE

HALIFAX (CP) — Automation Wednesday came to the Angus L. Macdonald Bridge linking Halifax and Dartmouth with the result that it took most early morning motorists twice as long to get to work.

In four streets approaching the bridge from the Dartmouth side traffic was lined up for as much as a quarter of a mile as motorists jockeyed for positions at the four toll booths. Two were automatic and two were attended.

Some motorists, accustomed to passing a ticket to an attendant, deposited the same ticket in the automatic machine designed to take coins and special tokens. The result was jammed machines.

Traffic from the Halifax to Dartmouth side was lined up the full length of the mile-long structure, mostly with drivers who had neglected to buy tokens early. The two automatic lanes were practically unused.

A bridge commission employee, surveying the confused scene at the toll booths, summed it up in one word— "confusion."

Personal Acc'ts Cheques Okayed

OTTAWA (CP) — The banks don't like it, but they're willing to let their depositors go on writing cheques on personal savings accounts.

And they have no immediate plans to increase the charge made for each cheque.

Both points emerged in the brief to the royal commission on banking and finance by the Canadian Bankers' Association.

The bankers said cheques written on these accounts mean heavy costs in bank savings departments.

That was why, in 1957, they introduced a personal savings accounts. They felt that by singling out the "high activity" savings accounts and handling them in a group, costs could be lowered and the savings would mean lower chequing charges.

However, the brief that while only Canadians are allowed this savings - account privilege — neither Britons nor Americans can do it—they have come to expect it, and the banks are prepared to carry on with it.

TO JOIN NAVY

OTTAWA (CP)—The national defence department has announced that HMCS Saskatchewan, one of five destroyer escorts being built in Canadian shipyards, will be commissioned into the Royal Canadian Navy Feb. 26 at Yarrows Limited, Esquimalt, B.C. The Saskatchewan will be the second of the Mackenzie - class destroyer escorts to join the fleet. The HMCS Mackenzie was commissioned last October.
