A dealer in horse-flesh, of Jewish persuasion, sold to a gentleman of little experience in such matters a steed as perfectly without faults. Next day the buyer came back in great fury, because his groom had found out that the alleged "faultless" was blind in the right eye. "Why," replied the sly jobber, "that is not the horse's fault, it is only his misfortune."

A kiss is a common noun—and also a proper one.

The road ambition travels is too narrow for friendship, too crooked for love, too rugged for honesty, and too dark for science.

If religion be the star you sail by, doubt not of a good voyage; at least you are sure of a good harbor.

A Mr. Turn recently married his cousin of the same name. When interrogated as to why he did so, he replied that it had always been a maxim of his that one good Turn deserves another.

Why is a washerwoman the most cruel person in the world? Because she daily wings men's bosoms.

"Did you pull my nose in earnest, sir?" "Yes, sir!" "It's well you did sir, for I do not put up with jokes of that kind."

The editor of a Western cotemporary remarks that he is glad to receive marriage notices, but requests that they be sent soon after the ceremony and before the divorce is applied for. He has had several notices spoiled in this way.

How do you do dear? said Mrs. Partington, smilingly, shaking hands with Burbank, in the Dock-square omnibus, as he held out his five dexter digits towards her.

Fare ma'am! said he, in reply to her inquiry.

Well, I'm shore, I'm glad of it, and how are the folks at home?

Fare, ma'am! continued he, still extending his hand. The passengers were interested.

How do you like Boston? screamed she, as the omnibus rattled over the stones.

Fare ma'am! shouted he without drawing back his hand; I want you to pay me for your ride!

O! murmured she, I thought it was some one that I knew, and rummaged down in the bottom of her reticule for a ticket, finding at last five copper cents tied up in the corner of her handkerchief—the last war handkerchief, with the stars and stripes involved in it, and the action of the Constitution and Guerriere stamped upon it. But the smile she had given him at first was now withdrawn—there was no allowance made for mistakes at that counter—and he went out, with a lighter heart and a heavier pocket, to catch t'other coach.

Why are women like churches? Firstly because there is no living without one, secondly, because they have many a spire to them; thirdly, because they are objects of adoration; and lastly, by no means least, because they have a loud clapper in their upper story.

If you should see a building well in flames, what three eminent authors would you be likely to call up first? Why, Dickens, Howitt, Burns.

POLITICIAN—a stray dog that runs up to every one he sees and wags himself all over.

An ugly bachelor says the reason why women do not cut themselves in two by tight lacing, is because they lace around the heart, and that is so hard they cannot affect it. The brute! What sort of a heart has he got?

A beautiful lady was kissing and caressing her beautiful lap-dog; "Ah, Maria!" exclaimed her foppish adorer, "why not grant me the favors you are wasting on Fido?" "I don't kiss every puppy," replied the pouting fair.

A young man who was about jumping from a train while in motion, was deterred by a reporter who asked for his name, age, business and residence, for an obituary item.

"You ought to lay up something for a rainy day," said an anxious father to his prodigal son. "And so I have," replied the youth. "What?" "An umbrella."

Mrs. Partington considers that wash-women are particularly silly people to attempt to catch soft water when it rains hard.

What is the difference between a housewife and an editor? One sets articles to rights, and the other writes articles to set.

The "shortest" day in the year is the day you want to borrow five hundred dollars. The "longest" is the day before you are married.

What is that which in July flies high, in winter lies low, and has no feet though it wears shoes? Dust.

A constant frequenter of city feasts having grown enormously fat, it was proposed to write on his back: "Widened at the expense of the corporation."

A domestic, newly engaged, presented to his master one morning a pair of boots, the leg of one of which was much longer than the other. "How comes it, Michael, that these boots are not of the same length?" "Faix, I dunno, sir; but what bothers me most is, that the pair down stairs is in the same fix."

"This can't be beat," as the farmer said when he pulled up a large carrot.

What is the key-note to good breeding? B natural.

There is frequently more pleasure in giving a thing than in receiving it. This applies especially to medicine, advice, and kicks.

"Don't you understand me, Jim?" thundered the old man. "Why you must be a fool." I am very near one, meekly replied Jim.

The profession of a parson is said to be sooner learned than that of a physician, because it is so much easier to preach than to practice.

House of Assembly.

THURSDAY, April 9.

Mr. Yeo asked the Government what intention they intended to take relative to West Point Wharf, according to a petition on that subject already before the House.

Hon. Leader of the Government replied to the effect that no further action was taken on the subject.

Hon. Mr. Davies said the situation selected for the wharf was of such an exposed nature that no work would stand there.

Mr. Yeo referred to the favorable report given by competent engineers, touching the practicability of the work; and said that it was impossible to suppose a work left in an unfinished and insecure state as that wharf had been, could stand.

The building of the West Point wharf was a work of the greatest importance to a large portion of the people in that part of the country, and he hoped the Government would consider the necessity of causing its completion.

Mr. Ramsay said that in addition to the grants of the Legislature, amounting to £500, the sum of £150 had been subscribed by the people. The amount of the contract was £900, and he hoped the securities would not be relieved from the said contract. There was no difficulty about making the work permanent, if properly built.

House in Committee of the whole on general matters relating to Roads, Bridges, and Wharfs.

Mr. George Sinclair, after some time spent in Committee, the chairman reported the Road Appropriation scales for the current year.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. Prowse said the bill to amend the School Act now before the House, contained but very trifling changes compared to all that might be expected from the prominence given to the subject in speeches of His Excellency already referred to. The appointment of two examiners was a move in the right direction, but they should have been selected from the numbers already composing the Board of Education. The change which the bill would effect, relative to the Normal School, was, he said, calculated to destroy the future usefulness of that Institution. He was not in favor of giving a grant to the Roman Catholic Bishop, nor for separate schools, but as head of the 35,000 Roman Catholics who gave their undivided support to the party now in power, that gentleman had a right to expect what he considered justice at the hands of that party. He then replied to the remarks made touching the actions of the Conservative party, by hon. members on the Government side of the House, and said that no allusions of that kind would satisfy those disappointed at the manner in which the Memorial of the R.C. Bishop had been treated.

Mr. Kickam alluded to the peace and harmony that prevailed when no such religious dissensions and bickerings as that now displayed on the floor of that House existed in the Colony—when Catholics and Protestants alike contributed to the buildings of each other's churches and schoolhouses, and all lived as neighbors should in the enjoyment of peace and good will towards each other.

Hon. Mr. Henderson replied to the remarks made by the hon. member, Mr. Howlan, on the previous evening, touching the different matters alluded to by that hon. member. He (Hon. Mr. Henderson, defended the course pursued, and the action taken by the Conservative party relative to the orange bill, the Bible question, and other subjects affecting, he said, Protestants in the Colony. He also expressed his opposition to giving any grant of the public money for the purposes alluded to in the Memorial of His Lordship the R. C. Bishop. He then reviewed the aggressive characteristics of the Roman Catholic Religion, and quoted authorities in defence of his arguments. The details of the bill before the House, he said, would receive his attention when in Committee.

Mr. Arsenault said the amendments in the bill were, on the whole, an improvement to the School Act. The Schools named in His Lordship's Memorial were as deserving of a share of the public money as others. Catholic members, he said, were taunted for supporting a government that refused the request of their Bishop, but he would ask what had they to expect from the other side of the House? It were, in his opinion,

"Better to bear the ills we have, Than fly to others we know not of."

Mr. McLennan—the subject of Education above all others, should be approached in a dispassionate manner. He regretted that so much irrelevant matter had been dragged into the discussion. He spoke of the system adopted in Nova Scotia relative to the construction of the Board of Education, the appointment of a general Superintendent of Schools, and of Examiners of Candidates. He said that County Boards of Education should now be formed on the Island, as the necessity of attendance at the Normal School was abolished, it would be hard to compel the attendance of Candidates from the other Counties at Charlottetown for Examination. He believed others as well as Roman Catholics would feel disappointed at the amendments to the School Act now before the House.

Mr. Cameron regretted to hear expressions used by hon. members on both sides of the House which might so well have been kept out of the debate, as they would be productive of no good. The consolidation of the School Act was, in itself, an improvement. The Normal School system was not generally practiced in country schools. He could not, therefore, see the justice of compelling candidates to attend that School. It was, however, to continue open, and would be available to those who, in the opinion of the Board, required to attend thereat.

Mr. Bell—the School System, as established, was free and complete, and all could embrace its privileges. It was conferring lasting benefits on the youth of the Colony, many of whom distinguished themselves at home and abroad by their educational acquirements. He alluded to the laudable exertions put forth for many

Mrs. S. A. Allen's PREPARATIONS FOR THE HAIR.

Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer is suited to both young and old. It strengthens the roots of the Hair, prevents its falling or turning grey, and imparts to it a beautiful glossy appearance. It never fails to restore GREY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL YOUTHFUL COLOR.

It is NOT A DYE, but directly upon the natural roots of the Hair, giving them the same nourishment required, producing the same vitality and luxurious quantity as in youth. It will restore it on bald places, requires no previous preparation of the hair, and is easily applied by one's self. One bottle will usually last for a year, as after the hair is once restored, occasional applications once in three months will insure against grey hairs to the most advanced age.

The Restorer Reproduces and the Hair Dressing Cultivates and Beautifies. Principal Sales Office, 198 Greenwich Street, New York City. August 1, 1867.
