The Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held their regular meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Trainor. The meeting was presided over by the president, Miss Helen Cox. A program by Mrs. Gerald Veinot and Mrs. Clifford Campbell, Mrs. Gordon MacMillan of Cornwall, showed some coloured slides of her beautiful gardens. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. William Thompson and Mrs. Raymond Studden.

Mrs. William J. Harrington, Spring Valley, has returned home after spending the winter in Los Angeles, California, with her daughter, Mrs. Russell Ramsay, R.N., and Mr. Ramsay. Mrs. Harrington also visited her sisters in Boston en route home.

Mr. Leonard McMurrer, brother of the groom, and Mrs. A. McAvina wore a two-piece Royal blue dress with matching hat, and white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a two-piece brown dress with beige and brown accessories, and a corsage of feathered white carnations.

The reception for approximately 40 guests was held at the Orient Hotel in Victoria. Mrs. Ellsworth Bassett, aunt of the bride acted as hostess, Miss Eileen McMurrer, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book. Mr. Thomas McAvina, uncle of the bride, capably acted as Master of Ceremonies. The newlyweds left afterwards on a honeymoon trip to points of interest in the Maritimes, the bride travelling in sapphire blue coat over tweed dress, with white and black accessories, and a corsage of Sweetheart roses. They will reside in Kelly's Cross.

Prior to her wedding the bride was tendered a community shower in Kelly's Cross Hall where many lovely gifts were received, also a sum of money. An evening of music and dancing was enjoyed by all present.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

In cooling home-canned goods, make sure that either jars or tins cans are spaced far enough apart to let air get at all sides. Never set hot jars on a cold surface. Use a rack or folded cloth.

Clear liquid wax provides good beauty treatment for fine leather. Rub it into the leather, then polish.

The clear wax furnishes protection from scratches and cracking without changing the color of the leather.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH McMURRER

Kelly's Cross Church Was Scene Of Lovely Wedding

The marriage of Miss Margaret Joan McAvina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonus McAvina of Kelly's Cross, P. E. I. to Mr. John Kenneth McMurrer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McMurrer, Albany, P. E. I. took place recently in St. Joseph's Church, Kelly's Cross. Rev. James Smith, P.P., assisted by Rev. Reginald MacDonald officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was beautifully decorated with candles and mixed flowers. Mr. Ellsworth Bassett, uncle of the bride, sang "Ave Maria," "Mother at Thy Feet We Kneeling," and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Gorman of Kelly's Cross.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a white strapless floor-length gown of net and lace over satin with long sleeves and lace bolero jacket. Her Peter Pan collar was trimmed with pearls and sequins. A crown of pearl and sequin-covered lace held her Chapel length circular veil of nylon illusion with embroidered forget-me-nots. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses on a lace-covered missal-gift of the groom.

The matron of honour, Mrs. Edward McMurrer, wore a cocktail length gown of Nile lace and net over taffeta. The bridesmaids, Miss Lavinia McAvina and Miss Adrianna Monaghan (cousin of the bride) were attired in identical gowns of coral and shrimp nylon chiffon over taffeta, with matching stoles, and wore picture hats of matching material and color, with sequin trim. The matron of honour and bridesmaids carried nosegays of white feathered carnations.

Mr. Edward McMurrer, brother of the groom was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Aeneas McAvina, brother of the bride, and Mrs. LeRoy White, 35 Goodwill Avenue, entertained on March 27th in honour of her twin daughters on the occasion of their ninth birthday. A number of school friends were present and the highlight of the afternoon was a fashion show put on by the "young ladies", with Patsy Stewart as commentator. Also an impromptu concert was enjoyed. A solo by Richey Carson, and group singing with Faye Rogerson as piano accompanist. At the supper hour the hostess was assisted in serving by Janet Rankin and Patsy Stewart. The lovely gifts were opened by Joan and Janice, and placed by Joan Aitken, the accompanying good wishes were read by Nancy Michael. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games.

ELLEN'S DIARY

They Count The Days Now Till Open Spaces Beckon

We remember now of the day the cool wind which spelled March in its strong gusts. Born in icy polar regions afar, it followed the stream which flows by and through the farms of our valley.

The stream remains edged more and less with ice now and is clear in its flow. Presently however it will run red and swollen against the fond hopes of the lads whose thoughts go ahead to the fishing. They count the days now. We heard them at weekend, Gage and Mack, as they fitted new lines to rods and made notes of other items they must buy "the next time we go to town" to be prepared for the day of "the opening."

"We won't have too long to wait now", Gage observed with a happy smile. Now that the stream is no longer pent in the dam but runs free and at will through the spillways, mothers (and grandmothers!) are occasioned less concern than formerly for the safety of their young anglers. Depths are not so forbidding as once. And how good for lads so inclined to go to their angling. Not so much for the catches they may take as for the time they spend in the open—away for a while from books and "larnin'" away from the confusion of the top ten tunes of radio and the strain of continued attention to TV.

Not that each and all of these do not have their legitimate time and place in youthful schedules but what a rare enjoyment it is to be had out in the loveliness of Spring—out where robins sing to them and blackbirds whistle, where flickers drum, and the world is alive again and bright and all made fresh and new. But today there was no bird-song. I was typically of March with its bright gusty winds—"Winds left over from the vernal equinox" as someone remembered.

This March afternoon brought a funeral to a home on that road which across the farms parallels this one of ours. It gathered folks from near and far communities to pay a last tribute to respect to a farmer recently and suddenly called away by death. He was one widely and most favorably known, this man whom now his loved ones bereaved, and legion of friends mourn. An unassuming man, affable, kindly and of a cheerful spirit, he was one always pleasant to greet. So nicely he spoke of those dear to him his family and friends. And no grandchildren were ever regarded with more esteem and affection than those he best knew.

A big man this...but they go too, the biggest and strongest. Death can, and does take, to leave behind the sadly vacant chairs...So they go—the dear ones, but when love and respect remain in the hearts of those who mourn their passing, then he or she has lived faithfully and well. We remember them now as having only gone before to that far country, pain, care, toil past, earth's pilgrimage ended and done, and they come at last to rainbow's end.

They go. "A Hand is put into theirs, which leads them forth gently towards a calm and bright land, so that they look no more backward" but ever ahead to that promised fair realm.

Until tomorrow — — — Diary. Good-night.

Try Sweet Cherry Tarts, New Dessert Miniatures

"Although it is still winter, buds are already forming on cherry trees in the great Northwest," I remarked to the Chef. "Come spring, they will burst into bloom. What a fairyland-like sight!"

"Sweet dark cherries will begin to form, grow to maturity, be harvested when the summer sun warms them to full ripeness, their lusciousness captured in cans ready for enjoyment any season in many ways."

FINE EXAMPLES
"Today, Madame, I suggest we present our new dark sweet cherry cream tarts," the Chef said. "They are a fine example of the smart new miniatures you originated to make small dessert portions look as glamorous as they taste."

Measurements are level; recipe for 6.
Dark Sweet Cherry Cream Tarts: Crust: Combine 2 c. graham cracker crumbs or 24 fine crushed graham crackers with 1/4 c. melted butter and 2 tsp.

fine - chopped toasted almonds. Press crumbs onto sides and bottoms of 6 small individual aluminum foil pie pans about 4" in diameter. Chill.

Filling: Drain 1 (1 lb.) can dark sweet cherries. (Save liquid.) Remove pits. Reserve 18 cherries for garnishing. Chop remaining cherries.

Dissolve 1 pkg. cherry-flavored gelatin in 1 c. boiling water. Add cherry juice and 1/4 tsp. almond extract. Refrigerate until beginning to thicken. Fold in chopped cherries and 1 c. dairy sour cream.

Spoon into prepared foil pans, refrigerate 4 hrs., or until firm. Garnish each with 3 whole cherries. Pass whipped cream if desired as dessert topping.

Tomorrow's dinner: Spanish apple salad, fish escalloped with potatoes or smoke ham and sweet potatoes, braised celery and tomato, dark sweet cherry cream tarts, coffee, tea, milk.
Spanish apple salad: Chop 3

BY ALICE ALDEN
The walking suit will be gracing the spring street scene in town, but it will not be fashioned of last year's heavy fabrics. The ever-so-smart walking suit is apt to be of silk, as is this model. Roxanne of Samuel Winston does it in black silk shantung and poses in an all-over-tucked jacket over a semi-fitted, buttoned-neck-line dress. The tucking repeats itself at the bottom of the skirt to carry out the suit theme with the jacket. This one should see long, useful and distinguished service.

JAZZ CONCERT RIOT
GENEVA (Reuters).—Dozens of policemen and students were injured Tuesday night in a battle of night sticks, broken chairs and jagged beer bottles following a concert by Louis Armstrong. More than 12 youths were arrested after some 2,000 students rioted following the jazz trumpeter's concert. Firemen using high-pressure hoses finally broke it up. Police later released the 12 youths.

SHORT LIFE
The common clothes moth lives long enough only to lay eggs and continue the species.

Mr. John Moreshead, Fredericton, N.B. arrived here Thursday night due to the illness of his sister, Miss Ruby Moreshead, who is a patient in the Community Hospital, O'Leary.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude MacArthur and daughter Carolyn, returned to their home in Mount Pleasant after visiting their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Ellis, O'Leary.
