REMEMBERING THE MINISTER.—The people of Dundas have long been noted for many good qualities, but for none more than their hospitality to strangers and kindness to clergyman of various denominations. The meeting held the other evening at the residence of Mr. W. A. Leard displayed the latter good quality in a marked degree. On this occasion the Rev. John Goldsmith, who has labored with great acceptance on that circuit for nearly three years was the recipient of an address from the Methodists and temperance friends generally of the place, to which he gave a very suitable reply. Commonly speaking, addresses, no matter how kindly worded, unless accompanied by something in the shape of a gift are not so comforting to the addressed as they might be. In this instance, however, none of the essentials were wanting, for with the address was presented a donation of thirty-five dollars in cash. Such evidence of good will is not likely to be soon forgotten.

THERE was a good sized audience of Newport's best people, and rarely have they enjoyed an evening of more continuous pleasure. The second part introduced Mr. Ryan, in a Romance and Rondo, of his own composition. The players who have been before the public for forty-four years are not numerous. Ole Bull, Wulf Fries, Thomas Ryan,—these names have been the property of the American people for more than one generation, and Mr. Ryan, with the exception of Mr. Fries, is about the only musician now before the public who used to delight our fathers with his music. If anybody went to the concert with the idea that Mr. Ryan was a sort of figure-head for the company, he must have discovered he had made a big mistake, for, with all the vigor of youth, mellowed by experience, Mr. Ryan gave a solo, in which he revelled in its difficulties, and, throughout, played with remarkable sweetness. The composition is a fine one, rich in harmony, and well adapted to the instruments of the club.—Newport (R. I.) News. The above organization will appear in this city in connection with the approaching Oldfellows celebration.

Trouble Between Steamship Companies.

NEW YORK, April 11.

Judge Addison Brown, in the United States District Court, has decided that the North German Steamship Company is liable for half value of ship Fred B. Taylor, which the steamship Trave cut in two on June 22d, when 240 miles east of Sandy Hook. The decision is the result of libel brought by William Law and others, owners of Taylor. The Trave was outward bound and the Taylor on its way to this city from Havre. The vessels met in a fog bank and the Trave passed completely through the wreck. Judge Brown holds that the Trave was under too great speed considering the foggy weather at the same time. The Fred B. Taylor was equally liable, as the fog horn used was not such as is provided for by international regulations. The ship's steam fog horn became unserviceable a few days before the collision, but Judge Brown says that a ship that makes an ocean trip without a duplicate fog horn is as unfit for a voyage as a ship without a duplicate compass or tackling.

A Uniform Tariff.

MONTREAL, April 11.

Clarke Wallace, Controller of Customs, had a very important interview yesterday with the members of the Board of Trade, when the advisability of a uniformity in the tariff throughout the Dominion was strongly advocated. Hardware, dry goods, clothers and druggists all pretended that in several western ports of entry goods were passed at a much lower rate than in Montreal. Wallace said that there was ground for great improvement and it was his firm determination to bring the improvement about.

—It is pleasing to note that the Guardian has no desire to see the present Dominion Government put into a "tight corner"—though, if such be the case its editor is evidently ignorant of the force and real meaning of the language he has employed in that connection. We accept the Guardian's explanation and only regret that it is not couched in courtly language.

WHAT'S THE HURRY, GOVERNOR?

WELL, what spare time I have at my disposal I propose to spend at the STAR TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT, as I want to get several Suits and Overcoats etc. before I leave for the Continent.

As you know, Americans travelling abroad always dress nice, and of course I want to uphold the style and dignity of the "Home of the Brave and the Land of the Free"; so this opportunity I must take advantage of to advertise the Star of the Hub of Canada.

The man is known by the company he keeps, so Poole of London, Bell of New York, and McKenzie of the Star Tailoring Establishment of the Dominion of Canada are always associated with what is elegant and strictly correct in dress.

Our aspiration has always been to present a faultlessly fitting garment—what is termed, a "correct thing" by our customers. Our success in attaining to that aspiration is attested to by our numerous customers from the Atlantic to the Pacific. To enlarge upon the quality of our goods is not necessary, as the same has become a common household word. Workmanship, etc., is in keeping with the reputation we have achieved. If you want for testimonials, ask anyone you meet. Prices at rock bottom.
