

Island Odds And Ends

Premier J. Walter Jones made the newspaper headlines across Canada early last week, and on Saturday night, his name flashed on all parts of the nation from Maple Leaf Gardens over to the National Hockey League hook-up.

Island-born Elmer Ferguson, nationally known sports writer and dean of the Maple Leaf Gardens "Stove League", let Canada know that the Premier of the smallest Province had attended Saturday night's game.

"Fergy" with his usual nice selection of words made mention of the Premier just before making his usual "three star selection" at the end of the game.

The gist of "Fergy's" deftly inserted plug for the Island was as follows: "Before making my 'three star selection' I say that we (the Hot Stove League and the 'Gardens) have just had a visit from the Premier of my native Province, J. Walter Jones. He shook hands with all of the boys and we were very glad to have him call.

The Premier was piloted around by one of his old football friends, Mr. Lawrence Lawson." Then Fergy went on with his selections.

Mr. Lawson, now the coroner of Toronto, was one of the most famous football players ever developed at Toronto University, at a time when inter-collegiate rivalry between Toronto, McGill and Queen's University dominated the Canadian rugby scene.

Two of Charlottetown's ex-athletes who made the trip to Sackville on Saturday to lend encouragement to the Saint Dunstan's football team, were Dr. "Jack" Sweeney and Mr. Lou Campbell, former member of West Kent Street School teaching staff.

Not so many years ago both men were fine rugbists, the Doctor wearing Saint Dunstan's colors, and "Lou" the uniform of the Abegweit.

Both were also fine baseball players. Dr. "Jack" a third baseman and Lou a standby of the Abegweit pitching staff. On the diamond they played together, on the Abegweit club of that time.

Dr. Sweeney drove his own car to Sackville and Mr. Campbell accompanied some members of the Charlottetown Press to the game.

Atlantic Powers Building 130 Air Fields In Europe

PARIS, Nov. 23 — (AP) — The Atlantic powers are building up a bulwark of 130 military air fields across Europe—all within striking distance of Russia, it was learned today.

These air fields will be the West's first line of defence in the event of a Soviet attack on Western Europe.

The fields form a huge arc from the top of the European continent to the bottom. Many of them already have been built, an informed source said. The others are nearing completion.

This rampart of air bases starts in Norway and cuts a southward path through Denmark. The line thickens as it passes through Holland, bulges into France, West Germany and Luxembourg, then thins out again as it curves into Italy.

Norway and Denmark are reported to have seven fields apiece built or under construction, the Netherlands 13 and Belgium 14. France is known to have 41, West Germany 35, Little Luxembourg 1, and Italy 12.

Glad To Meet Old Friends Here

Interviewed as he left Canada Packers' private plane on arrival at Charlottetown airport on Sunday afternoon, Mr. G. A. Schell, vice-president and assistant to the president, expressed his pleasure and that of other officers of Canada Packers at having had the company of Hon. J. Walter Jones and Mrs. Jones on the flight from Toronto.

Mr. Schell said he was looking forward with keen interest to meeting the many friends he had made here when circumstances had permitted his spending five weeks in Charlottetown in 1947. He hoped all would find it possible to attend the official opening of the company's new plant at 3:00 p.m. today, or at least to visit the plant during the open house on Monday evening.

Mr. Schell was optimistic that the improved processing facilities afforded by the new plant would work to the benefit of both producers and consumers. "Farmers," he said, "now have a convenient cash outlet for all their livestock, whilst consumers will appreciate being able to procure meats produced locally in a clean plant under government veterinary inspection."

INDIA SEEKS

Continued from page 1 ments in the Indian proposal. The plan, as originally presented, provided for sending all prisoners to demilitarized zones under a neutral repatriation commission where they would decide whether or not to return home.

U. S. Demands

The U. S. wants the resolution to spell out specifically what is to happen to those prisoners who refuse to return home 90 days after an armistice.

British, Canadian and Indian sources have expressed fears that the resolution's chances of success will be smashed if terms in the resolution are too hard and fast.

Some Western delegates expressed belief the Indian proposal still might be accepted by the Chinese despite the Moscow press' description of the proposal as an "American inspired manoeuvre" that would create a mass of displaced persons.

The Indian delegation has from the first insisted that it is the Chinese and not the Russians who are the key to a solution.

The new Indian draft provides: 1. That those prisoners who have not gone home 90 days after the Korean armistice shall have their fate referred to a political conference at which the Chinese, Communists and North Koreans would be represented. A four-nation neutral commission would recommend to the conference what should be done with them and suggest a target date for the end of their captivity.

2. If the political conference could not agree within 60 days, the UN itself would take over the care and maintenance of the prisoners. The Indians also followed Eden's suggestion that a neutral permanent chairman be chosen by the countries—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland and Sweden—set up by the original resolution as guarding the prisoners. If the four couldn't agree within three weeks, the UN general assembly would pick the umpire.

Canadian Suggestion The Indian plan embodies the suggestion first made by Canada for a neutral commission to take over the prisoners. Assembly president, L. B. Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, set up by the U.S. Most news from this area go to Detroit and Chicago, with other shipments to Buffalo and Toronto and as far east as Montreal.

L.P.U. Resolution Scores Railway Wharf Conditions

Poor working conditions on the Railway wharf were made the subject of a resolution by the regular meeting of the Labourers Protective Union held at the L. P. U. Hall last week-end. The meeting was largely attended with approximately 100 members present.

The principal subject of discussion was the general working conditions along the water front, and the matter caused heated discussion especially regarding the Railway wharf.

President of the L. P. U., Mr. Lemuel T. Rush, voiced the opinion of the members when he said that it was time something was done about it. He stated that there was no drainage and workmen were piling straw and shavings under their feet to keep dry, and loading operations were hampered by the present condition of the wharf.

A large increase in membership was noted with 35 new members admitted to the Union and an additional 20 former members being re-instated.

The formal resolution passed unanimously by the meeting stated: "The conditions on the new Railway Wharf due to mud and slush, and water-filled holes, have become nearly impossible for men to push loaded hand trucks without involving extra back-breaking work which we consider detrimental to our health and well being."

"Be it further resolved that the Department of Transport be petitioned in regard to supplying light on the south side of the C. N. R. carpenter shop as this area is extremely dark and men are in constant danger of serious injury after dark."

It was also moved that copies of the resolution be forwarded to the proper authorities as well as to the press and the four Federal representatives.

Still Awaiting

Continued from page 1 nothing official in the way of confirmation. Mayor Stewart said that the question of the City operation of the airport had not been discussed with Mr. Chevrier on his visit here. If this condition should be imposed, it would require very careful consideration by the City Council. He also pointed out even though the amount to cover the extension cost might be placed in the Estimates, it would still be necessary for Parliament to approve the spending.

The Guardian story November 5 from its Ottawa correspondent stated that the Treasury Board would pass on the project in the very near future. It referred to a favorable reaction of Transport Minister Chevrier, and to the satisfactory report which his engineers had prepared on the subject.

Hope of obtaining Federal assistance in this matter is based on the fact that due to the increasing use of larger planes, as well as those jet-propelled, the Department of Transport has been allotted larger amounts for airports which may have a military as well as a civilian purpose. Recently a great extension of the runways at Uplands airport, near Ottawa, was undertaken because it can serve a dual purpose. Prior to Mr. Chevrier's visit here, the Defence Minister, Hon. Brooke Claxton, also inspected the local airport and was apparently favorably impressed with the representations made at that time.

Britain To Ease Import Restrictions

LONDON, Nov. 23 — (AP) — Britain will ease her import restrictions next year to allow a freer entry of goods from Western Europe, it was disclosed Saturday.

The decision marks the first reversal of Britain's year-old policy of cutting imports to save money and reflects her improved trade position with Western Europe. The British Government plans to announce next week the relaxation in import controls effective Jan. 1 to June 30. British trade arrangements are made every six months. Informed trade officials said the action will benefit mainly France and Italy, hardest hit by Britain's import restriction. Freer exports of textiles, cheese and other products to Britain is expected to result.

Wedding Anniversary Celebrated By New Haven Couple

On Thursday evening, October 30 Mr. and Mrs. Neil MacKinnon of New Haven, celebrated their forty-fifth wedding anniversary.

At 5 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon, together with their family of three sons, Lloyd, Buddy and Foster and their wives, and one daughter, Vera, now Mrs. James Coles and her husband, and six grandchildren sat down to a bountiful supper. A beautifully decorated wedding cake centred the table and was cut in the traditional manner by the bride and groom of forty-five years.

After the supper, Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon were greatly surprised when Miss Nan MacKinnon, their oldest grandchild, read an address to them and little Paulette Coles, one of the youngest granddaughters, presented them with a beautiful mantle clock from the family.

Later in the evening the neighbors of New Haven and friends from other districts gathered at the home and after all had assembled Mr. Gus Tierney called upon Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon to come forward and then explained the purpose of the gathering, after which Mrs. Stanley Newman read an address. Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon were then presented with an occasional chair and arm rocker with them with a pair of white woolen blankets, and a small gift in keeping with each one's favorite pastime. Presentations were made by Messrs. Simon Cavanagh, Michael Murphy, Mrs. John MacPhee, Mrs. Artie MacPhee and Mrs. Alton Newman.
