TEA INTOXICATION.

A Noted Doctor Tells Some Things That May Not be Believed.

The intoxicating effects of tea is not appreciated as fully as they should be, either by the indulger in its effusion or by the physician who is later called upon to combat its untoward influence on the system and to give advice in regard to its further continuation. So very little is to be found in our text-books on the subject of tea-poisoning that, unless the facilities have been such as to make a study of it possible, a recognition of the condition is far from likely. That it is a potent factor in causing functional derangements of the gravest character is well known to those who have given its physiological action serious attention.

Of 1,000 consecutive cases applying for general treatment in our largest dispensary, 100, or 10 per cent. were found to be liberal indulgers in tea, and suffering from its deleterious effects, and no one of which came for treatment of the tea habit, but for various other complaints. They were loath, when apprised of the cause of their illness, to believe that such a harmless household commodity ever produced any bad effects.

Of these 100 cases reported 20 per cent. complained of persistent dizziness, 19 per cent. of indigestion, 45 per cent. of headache, 20 per cent. of despondency, 19 per cent. of palpitation of the heart, and 15 per cent. of insomnia. Truly the foregoing is an army of troublesome symptoms of which any pernicious drug should be proud.

There is a great difference between physiological and poisonous effects of a drug on the system. When tea has been used for a considerable period in excess and its detrimental action has been constant, we have well defined symptoms supervene, a few of which are such as vertigo, mental confusion, sensible palpitation of the heart, restlessness, insomnia, hallucinations, "nightmare," nausea, neuralgia, anorexia, constipation, prostration and anxiety, and a peculiar kind of intoxication ending after hours of vigil in a torpor from exhaustion.

What worse line of symptoms could follow the use of a beverage so commonly employed it is hard to imagine, and that many people use it to excess is unquestionable. Many have confessed to an inability to "get through the day," without copious imbitions of what is, in many cases, a strong decoction. Some drink every twenty-four hours as much as fifteen pints, and some there are who are unable to judge of how much they consume. Whether a confession would be considered a matter of shame, it is hard to say; the general lack of moral tone and the total perverseness are so great. They are nothing more or less than genuine inebriates, and look upon tea as the same agent of support as an alcoholic does upon alcohol. It is high time that physicians should recognize these cases of disomania and study a method for their amelioration.—Dr. James Wood in Medical Record.

THE LAWS OF TEMPESTS.

Influence of the Earth's Motion on the Direction of Winds.

Suppose a railroad train at first stationary. A traveller fires a shot towards some exterior object; it will require say two seconds for the ball to reach the object. Imagine next the train moving at the rate of thirty feet a second. The traveler aims at object the instant he is opposite it; but the ball in addition to the impulsion which has communicated to it preserves the general movement of the train, which in two seconds makes it travel laterally sixty feet. It will strike then at some distance beyond the object.

The rotation of the earth produces an effect of the same kind upon movements which occur on its surface. All the points of the globe turn together from the west to the east in twenty-four hours; but they all have in reality different rates of velocity according to the position which they occupy. At the poles the velocity is nothing; it increases regularly to the equator, where it reaches the enormous rate of 1,520 feet a second.

Let us take for consideration two places in our country (France)—Paris and Dunkirk. While the Parisian, affected by the movement of the earth, passes through about 1,000 feet, the inhabitant of Dunkirk traves only about 968 feet.

Let us imagine now at Paris a wind from the south that is blowing towards Dunkirk, which is almost directly north from Paris. As Paris moves from west to east at the rate of thirty-seven feet a second faster than does Dunkirk, the wind from the south at Paris will be like the ball fired from the moving train; it will be deviated towards the east, that is, towards its right, From being a south wind, which it was at Paris, it will become a southwest wind; and it will reach Liege or Cologne instead of Dunkirk, which it would have reached had the earth been motionless. Thus all winds are turned from their first direction, and in the Northern Hemisphere this deviation is always towards the right, while in the Southern Hemisphere it is towards the left.—The Chautauquan.

Within the memory of middle-aged people Consumption and other lung troubles were much more prevalent and fatal than they are to-day. The existing improvement in the public health in this respect is, in considerable measure, due to a more widespread appreciation of sanitary laws; but Puttner's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, and Pancreatine, may justly claim to have largely aided in the good work. Many persons who some years ago were in a most critical state of health, are to-day sound and well, as a consequence of a faithful use of this valuable remedy.

Dress Fabrics

In the long run it is the quality of the material that will determine the success of a lady's costume. Every lady who has at all studied the matter knows that Priestley's Black Dress Goods are the best that the market affords. That is conceded on all hands by ladies. Great Britain cordially acknowledge it. The American ladies prefer Priestley's dress fabrics to French. Our Canadian ladies are now asking for them. They wear better than other goods; but their great charm consists in a peculiar richness, a softness of appearance, and a flexibility which enables them to drape in the costume with that suggestion of flow and rhythm which it is the dream of all tasteful women to realise.

A DIPHTHERIA SCARE.

There is no doubt but that diphtheria at this season in its worst form is prevalent in many cities and small towns. At the same time, that fact is no reason for frightening people out of their wits, with every new case of sore throat. Hundreds of persons are said to have had diphtheria who only had a severe sore throat. The form of sore which often passes for diphtheretic is what old people call quinsy. "Putrid sore throat," known long before diphtheria An old hospital nurse in Boston, says: "It ain't the clear cold of winter that lays people up with colds, catarrh and sore throats, and lays the children low with diphtheria; its the soft, pleasant, alternating with the wet, slushy days." This is very true, because then the air is laden with poisonous vapors. The first symptoms of true diphtheria there is fever, some stupor, and difficulty in breathing. Very sharp pains are often felt in the neck glands, just below the ear. The tongue is coated, the throat and tonsils inflamed, little white spots, which increase and turn to a dirty yellow or brown color. Very many reliable people claim to have cured severe cases of diphtheria with Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. Be that as it may, it is worth trying, because we know from experience it will cure a common sore throat in one night, and thousands of people claim that no remedy known will relieve colds, catarrh bronchitis, croup, etc., as promptly. If it cure them, why not diphtheria? I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., will send their new illustrated book, entitled "Treatment for Diseases," free to any person for the asking.

Mercantile agency despatches, both in Canada and the United States, report signs of increasing activity, though they are not very extensive yet. Still the change is a good sign. Once the stakeboat on the depression course is rounded the return rush accelerates itself.

Gentlemen,—About three or four weeks ago I had an attack of Itching Piles. I tried two or three different remedies recommended by druggists as "the best and only cure," etc., etc., but got no relief. About this time I was beginning to despair of finding any relief. With some slight misgivings I bought a box of your pile cure, which I am pleased to say gave me almost instant relief and permanent cure. I consider your Ointment a Godsend.

The announcement that the British Parliament has passed an act enlarging the constitutional powers of the Australian colonies so as to permit their concluding preferential trade relations with other colonies is of great importance. The subject was among the earliest dealt with by the Intercolonial conference which met at Ottawa last year, and the Imperial legislation just completed is one of the first practical results of that gathering.

It's All Nonsense

For people to say there is no cure for consumption. Sufferers from that dread disease and kindred ailments are being saved every day by Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. Do not die without giving it a fair trial. If it will cure others it will cure you. The secret of its success lies in the fact that it creates new blood in the system, thus enabling sufferers from lung troubles to overcome the destructive forces at work to waste the tissues of the body. Miller's Emulsion is the great nerve strengthener and blood-maker, and cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, scrofula and all lung agections. In big bottles 50c and $1, at all drug stores.

Hon. John Costigan, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has received from the Board of Trade of Vancouver a lengthy address urging a thorough investigation of the British Columbia river fisheries, with a view to changes in the regulations. A bonus is asked for a factory to utilise fish offal by extracting the oil and converting the residue into fertilizer. The object is to help the canners to comply with the regulations forbidding the dumping of fish refuse in the rivers.

The Cheapest is Pond's Extract,

Lieut. General Sir George T. Chesney, whose death occurred a shor time ago, will be best remembered by his clever brochure, "The Battle of Dorking," which brought very vividly to the minds of the English people the fact that their country was very ill prepared to resist an invasion. It was published anonymously in Blackwood's in May, 1871, and gave a great stimulus to the demand for army reform. Two months later the detestable purchase system was abolished, and in the following year the British army was entirely re-organized, the short service introduced and a reserve provided for. These changes have made such a calamity as "The Battle of Dorking" at the present day, for including militia, volunteers and reserves Great Britain can now place 600,000 well drilled men into the field to resist and invasion.

If too rapid eating causes dyspepsia, and it in its turn produces nervous exhaustion, debility, weakness, anaemia, etc., the first step in effecting a cure is to eat slowly. The second and most important is to take a course of Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic, which aids the process of digestion, invigorates the stomach, renews the vitality of the blood, relieves brain fatigue, and makes weak nerves strong.

A good travelling companion, Hawker's liver pills, thep remove all evil effects of overeating or drinking, without discomfort.
