Local and Other Items.

PUSHING WORK.—Work is being rapidly pushed on the Annapolis, N. S., water-works system.

HAY CROP.—The Bridgetown, N. S., Monitor, reports an abundant crop of hay well housed in that section.

BALDNESS ought not to come till the age of 55 or later. If the hair begins to fall earlier, use Hall's Hair Renewer and prevent baldness and grayness.

LARGE LEAF.—A leaf 8 1/2 inches long and 8 wide, from the Linden tree opposite the residence of Dr. F. P. Taylor, on Urastron Street, can be seen at THE EXAMINER OFFICE.

THE M. A. STARR.—The steamer M. A. Starr left for Tatamagouche and Wallace, N. S., about 4 o'clock this morning. She had a full cargo of cement, wire fencing, bridge gear, etc. She is expected on return next Monday.

REFUNDED.—R. W. Eaton, of Kentville, N. S., has been refunded $399.99 by the Minister of Customs, the amount having been taken from him last fall by customs detectives on the score of alleged smuggling of goods.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR has long held the first place, as a hair dressing, in the estimation of the public. Ladies find that this preparation gives a beautiful gloss to the hair, and gentlemen use it to prevent baldness and cure humors in the scalp.

WORDS cannot express the gratitude which people feel for the benefit done them by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Long standing cases of rheumatism yield to this remedy, when all others fail to give relief. This medicine thoroughly expels the poison from the blood.

FIRE.—What it was thought at one time would be a very disastrous fire broke out at North Sydney, C. B., on Thursday. However, through the prompt action of the local fire brigade, the fire was kept within the bounds of the building in which it originated.

TALL CORN.—We were shown this morning a stalk of fodder corn grown by Dr. S. W. Dodd, which measured 56 1/2 inches in length. The corn was planted on the 27th May, was over ground by the 8th of June, and was pulled and measured on the 25th July. The stalk referred to can be seen at THE EXAMINER OFFICE.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.—J. Harvey Johnson, of Springhill, was found dead in bed on the 21st inst. It was not considered necessary to hold an inquest. Mr. Johnson resided in Springhill for many years. He had a large mercantile business on his own account, but encountered troubles and was forced, after a hard struggle to assign. He was but 29 years of age.

DEATH OF A CANINE.—The sportsmen of this city will hear with regret of the premature decease of the well known rabbit hound "Nim," which unfortunate event took place yesterday morning. The cause of death is unknown. It is to be regretted that so many well-bred dogs are being destroyed by poison and other illegal means in this city, while the vast majority of mongrels seem to flourish and increase.

THEATRICAL.—The manager of the Lyceum has received a letter asking for open dates in October or November next for the J. C. Lewis Company, presenting "St. Plunkard," or "Whistling Si, from Fairview, Pa." "St. Plunkard" is said to be an exceptionally strong and highly amusing piece. Besides giving scenes from rural life it depicts the traps and snares that lure daily set for the innocent in the big cities of the United States. Songs, glee, and other specialties are introduced. The Company also carry a brass band and orchestra.

SEVERE THUNDER STORM.—The New Glasgow, N. S. Chronicle says: "On Thursday last a severe thunder storm passed over this county. In some sections it was the severest known for many years. At Greenhill the barn of Thomas Fraser was struck with lightning, and in a short time was burnt to the ground, with a few tons of hay, which had just been taken from the field. The neighbors gathered and with great effort saved the dwelling house, which was near. One calf in the barn was killed, but another escaped. Several of the family were affected, but none of them seriously. About the same time the barn of Andrew Holmes, near McPherson's Mills, was struck and also entirely consumed. So rapid was the progress of the flames that Mr. H's implements could not be got out, rendering the loss to him more serious.

NO SICKNESS ON BOARD.—The Moncton Times say: Mr. Collector Binney, who had returned from Point du Chene, reports that he visited the fever ship, which has been removed from Point du Chene to anchorage ground ten miles outside the harbor. There is no sickness on board the ship at present. Part of the ballast will be removed where the vessel now lies. The stone ballast remaining in the vessel will then be washed in a solution of carbolic acid, the cabins scrubbed and disinfected, bedding, etc. destroyed, the hold and cabins thoroughly fumigated, and every precaution taken to avoid the spread of any fever that might exist on board. The vessel will probably be discharged from quarantine on Monday, the 29th inst.

DIED.—This morning at Notre Dame Convent, Mrs. Emily McCormack, aged 86 years. She rests in peace. [Funeral from her late residence to St. Dunstan's Cathedral, at 8.45 a.m., on Monday, the 29th inst.]

Stanley Bros. for Hosiery, all makes and sizes. July 25 61

Varia.

The marriage between Lord Fife and the Princess Louise of Wales, has been fixed for today (27th July). It seems to be an early date and to shorten very materially the time within which that vast collection of wearing gear—useful and ornamental—expressed by the term trousseau, can be gathered together. The wedding, it seems, is to take place in the chapel of Buckingham palace. This means that the ceremony will be shorn of much of the splendor which generally accompanies a Royal wedding, for the chapel is a tiny sanctuary, and quite unadapted for a state ceremony. The bridegroom has been created a Duke. He seems to have shown much good sense in refusing to allow his tenants in these hard times to subscribe for a wedding present. A "Society Paper," generally well up in matters of this sort, says that Lord Fife has bargained that the Princess shall not be burdened with a Lady-in-Waiting, and shall be called the Countess of Fife.

The late anniversary of certain events in the life of William of Orange recalls to me a strange story which has but lately appeared in English, and then copied from the "Famille Magazijn." I made a note of it at the time. It is as follows:

"As King William III. of England, the Stadtholder of the Netherlands, was besieging Namur in 1695, sundry soldiers from his army, through the want which reigned in the camp, went marauding, though such a transgression of the martial law had been forbidden on pain of death. Most of these marauders were caught by the country people, and killed; only two of them reached the camp unscathed; but they were sentenced to death. They were both brave soldiers, and the General-in-Chief wanted to save one of them, and thus commuted the judgment in so far that they should have to throw at dice for their life, as was the custom in former times in such cases. On the morning appointed for the execution, both the marauders were led to a drum, in order thereupon to cast the decisive throw; while at a few paces further, the fatal pole already stood erect. Full of painful expectation, a group of officers, the regimental chaplain, and the executioner surrounded the poor fellows. With a trembling hand one of the condemned took up the dice, he threw—two sixes! In the next moment he saw that his fellow had thrown—two sixes! The commanding officers were not a little stricken at this occurrence, but their orders were precise, and so they commanded both the men to throw again. This was done; the dice were cast, and in the throw of both there turned up—two fives! The spectators now loudly called out that both should be pardoned; and the officers, to ask for more directions momentarily put off the execution. They applied to the Court Martial which they found assembled; and after a long discussion the disheartening reply was that the delinquents should decide their lot with new dice. Once more both of them cast, and, lo—each threw two fours!

"This is the finger of God," said all present!

"The officers again submitted the strange case to the court martial. This time even the members of the court shuddered; and they resolved to leave the decision to the General-in-Chief, who was momentarily expected. The Prince of Vandemout came. He caused the two Englishmen to appear before him; they related to him the trying circumstances of their desertion. The Prince listened attentively, and relieved the poor culprits with the welcome "Pardon," adding, "It is impossible in such an uncommon case not to obey the voice of Divine Providence."

"G. F." asks me to give an account of the Quietists. It is not possible for me to do so within the limits which are assigned to me in this column. I would advise him to procure Vaughan's "Hours with the Mystics," where he will find much useful and valuable information, especially with regard to Eastern Mysticism. This school professes to resign itself in passiveness, more or less absolute, to an imagined "divine manifestation." The quietude aimed at begins with an act of resignation of self, and may be described as a state of mental inactivity, without thought, reflection, hope or wish; somewhat as the worshippers of Bramah describe him—as a sea without a wave, a sleep without a dream. In this state it is supposed that the soul is brought so immediately into the Divine Presence as to be merged in it by a complete union. This is as short a condensation as it is possible for me to give. There is a very interesting work on the subject by Molinos, called "A Spiritual Guide." It was originally published in Spanish, but there are several English editions. "G. F." can easily procure a copy from a second-hand London bookstore, for about fifty cents. I would recommend his getting the edition of 1699, which although needing Book II, contains "The Substance of Several Letters from Italy Concerning the Quietists." All that can possibly be alleged in defence of this heresy my correspondent will find in Weismann's Ecclesiastical History.

I have never seen a collection of epitaphs, but judging from many that I have come across in the course of my reading, it would form a most entertaining book. Everything relating to the family of the Hero of the Nile is interesting, but the following epitaph of one of his ancestors is so quaint and odd that I think some of your readers might care to preserve it. It is in the chancel of Bramfield Church, Suffolk:—

Between the Remains of her Brother Edward And of her husband Arthur, Here lies the body of Bridget Applewhait, Once Bridget Nelson.

After the fatigues of a married life, Borne by her with incredible patience For four years and three quarters, bating three weeks,

And after the enjoyment of the glorious freedom Of an easy and unblemished widowhood For four years and upwards She resolved to run the risk of a second marriage bed,

But death forbade the barns And having with an Apoplectic Dart (The same instrument with which he had formerly Despatched her mother) Toucht the most vital part of her brain;

She must have fell directly to the ground (As one thunder-struck) If she had not been caught and supported By her intended husband Of which invisible bruise After a struggle of about sixty hours With that grand evening to life (But the certain and merciful friend to helpless old age) In terrible convulsions, plaintive groans, or stupefying sleep. Without recovery of her speech or senses She died on the 12th day of September in ye year of our Lord 1731, and of her own age 44.

Behold, I come as a Thief.—Rev. 16 ch:15 v.

Personal.

Mr John P. Murray, Dentist, has opened an office at Alberton, where he will practise his profession.

Mr. John J. England, merchant, of O'Leary, P. E. Island, is in town on his way home from the St. John Carnival.—Moncton Times. Atchison Moffat died at Amherst, aged 77. He came from Ireland to St. John with one penny in his pocket and accumulated a fortune of $85,000.

Rev. J. W. Wadman, who sails from Victoria, B. C., to-day, for Japan, is a son of Henry Wadman, Esq., of Victoria, Lot 29, and a brother of O. B. Wadman, Esq., of Crapaud. We wish him a pleasant voyage.

General Butler's yacht America, and the General himself, are in St. John. The General visited the electrical exhibition on Thursday evening and expressed himself as delighted with what he saw.

The Queen is a lover of good tea, but only one man reaps the benefit of her tea-drinking habits and he has supplied her all her life. She has chests of forty and fifty pounds at a time, and pays 4s 6d and 6s a pound for it.

The Value of Brains.

There is romance in the announcement that the four leading Edison companies are to consolidate into one general electric company, with a capital of $12,000,000. What a proof this gives of the value of first-class human brains! Here is a business aggregation that springs from the ingenious wits of one man.

A few years ago, Thomas Edison was a poor and obscure telegraph operator. To-day, by devising machinery of advantage to the human race, he is a millionaire and the means by which others acquire immense wealth.

Yet no one is injured. The new fortunes come from traits of observation and mechanical wit that lay hid in the brain of one poor, wise man. There are mines of the mind that are richer than any which the geologist finds in the mountain.
