"But suppose he happens to be a cigarette smoker?"
"Oh, then he hasn't any character to tell."—Indianapolis Journal.

An Old Lady of Over 80 Years.

HER RIGHT SIDE WAS BADLY PARALYZED.

Her Sufferings Were Such That She Wished to Die.

Paine's Celery Compound Saved Her Life and Renewed Her Strength.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR THE OLD AND YOUNG

It is now an established fact that our dear fathers and mothers and our grandparents can have their lives prolonged and their years made happy and joyous by the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

Many old people suffer from nerve troubles, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaint, sleeplessness and terrible paralysis. With such dangerous diseases clinging to them, they are liable to drop off at any moment.

If we are truly and honestly interested in the welfare of the old people, we will anxiously seek to use the agency that will best meet their troubles. In the past, thousands of our aged people have been rescued from death by Paine's Celery Compound, and are now enjoying a happy old age.

Every week new testimony is received from old people, as well as from their friends and relations, lauding the strengthening and rejuvenating powers of earth's best medicine.

Mrs. James Cain, of Perot Settlement, N. S., now in her eighty-first year, has just sent in convincing and cheering testimony regarding the value of Paine's Celery Compound. She writes as follows:—

"I am happy to state that Paine's Celery Compound has been a great blessing to me. In November, 1893, the whole of my right side was paralyzed, and the doctor said I was too weak to take much medicine. I managed, however, to use a little, and was able to sit up for a short time, but felt so bad that I wished to die, as I thought death would be a great relief to me.

"In my weak condition I began using Paine's Celery Compound. The first bottle gave me relief. I continued to use the Compound, and I have gained health, strength and flesh, and my friends say I look quite healthy. Although in my eighty-first year, my limbs are getting stronger, and I hope soon to be myself again.

"I would advise all who are suffering from paralysis and other troubles to use Paine's Celery Compound and the Wills' English Pills that accompany the Compound, and if properly used they will surely cure."

"Fine Feathers Make Fine Birds"

Women are not all beautiful but all women are attractive who are beautifully dressed.

Beauty undressed may be in poetry, but the nicely fitting gown is the desire of every true woman. Pricely dress fabrics have done much to realize a woman's ideals by offering, in their texture, appearance, fit and wear, a character and distinction, which no other dress goods, however excellent, have quite attained to. And now Pricely's dress fabrics has something new. The "Eudora" is all the rage. It is even better than the Henrietta so much admired. The "Eudora" has something which the Henrietta lacks—to wit: greater width, greater weight, and a superior dust shedding quality. And then it has an exquisite surface which gives it an almost regal presence. Wrapped on "The Varnished Board," and the name, Pricely, stamped on every five yards.

PROF. BLACKIE.

Interesting Anecdotes—Furtive Political Wrangles in the Classroom.

Judging from the number of disputes of one kind or another in which Professor Blackie was engaged during his life, it must be admitted that he had a large share of pugnacity in his composition, and a curious instance of it is given in this account by himself. "As a boy," he said, "I was always antagonistic to school fights; pugilism did not fascinate me. As I will remember a lad, over some small squabble, saying to me, 'Will you fight me?' 'No,' I replied, 'but I will knock you down,' and immediately did it, and could not appraise." This method of non-fighting was rather characteristic of him throughout life. He did not care for squabbling about anything, but always "let out" straight from the shoulder.

Blackie, it may be noted, throughout life was a lover of anti-exercising. He boasted that he had walked over all the big hills of Scotland, going out for what he called a "single shirt walk," and staying out until apparently he wanted a change of linen, and he always preached to students the necessity of cultivating the body quite as much as the mind.

To a writer in The Strand Magazine, he said: The Highlanders wanted a Celtic chair of literature, and I was asked to undertake the task. Now, I am not accustomed to beggars, I was told that if I did not beg the thing would go to the wall. Well, I said I would try. During that four years of begging, I got a great insight into human nature, for the art of begging is simply this: If you want the duke, you must first get the duchess. There is more sympathy in women in these matters. When I had got about £5,000, her Majesty, at Inverary Castle, subscribed £200. The Princess Louise said to me, "How do you expect to get the rest of the money?" "Oh, some way or other, your Royal Highness," I replied. "How?" the Princess inquired. "Faith removes mountains," I replied. Professor Blackie collected about £12,000, and a chair was founded.

Professor Blackie, we are also told, was a great student of Greek characters in his own handwriting in the left-hand corner of the envelope. He put it on every envelope he found about the place the servants' included. "Adopt it," he said, "and it will turn earth into Heaven; it will revolutionize society in the twinkling of an eye." This motto was: "Speak the truth in love." (Ephes. iv. 15.) And the second motto was: "All noble things are difficult to do." Letters he divided into four files—"Thank you, Bessies, Bessies and Beggary." This was in his later days, when probably he found writing a nuisance if it did not serve some distinct purpose.

One of his old pupils states that in Blackie's class-room there used to be a demonstration every time he mentioned the name of a distinguished politician. Whether the demonstration took the Professor by surprise or whether he waited for it will never perhaps be known. But Blackie at least would put out the gleam in his eye and looked as if he were angry. "I will say Beaconsfield!" he would exclaim. (Cheers and hisses.) "Beaconsfield" (uproar). Then he would stride forward, and, with a flourish, announce his intention of saying Beaconsfield until every goose in the room was tired of cackling. ("Question.") "Beaconsfield." ("No, no.") "Beaconsfield." ("Hear, hear, and shouts of 'Gladiators.'") "Beaconsfield." ("Three cheers for Dizzy.") Eventually the class would be dismissed as (1) idiots, (2) a bear garden, (3) a flock of sheep, (4) a pack of numskulls, (5) hissing serpents. The Professor would retire, apparently fuming, to his anteroom, and five minutes afterward he would be playing himself down the North Bridge on imaginary lappets. This sort of thing added a sauce to all academic sessions.

Blackie and Gladstone met at Pittlochy, and they discussed their years, as old men do. "Ah, yes," said Blackie, in his own delightful egotistic style, "I was three great men born in 1816—Blackie, Gladstone and Tennyson." A twinkle appeared in the old Parliamentary eye. "Ah, but," quoth the G.O., "Tennyson won't thank you for including him in our set. We are far too noisy for him."—London Globe.
