CHURCHILL PLEDGES

Nationalist China, against Red China, and he praised the United States for bearing "nine-tenths or more" of the United Nations burden in Korea. He also pledged "increasing harmony" in the sometimes conflicting British and American policies in the Orient, where Britain has recognized Red China while the United States recognizes the Nationalist regime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. As for the Middle East—"a sombre and confused scene," he called it—Churchill proposed international control of the Suez Canal where bloody clashes have broken out between British troops and Egyptians. Urging a four-power sponsorship of the canal zone under Britain, France, Turkey and the United States, Churchill said that Britain alone cannot bear "the whole burden" of the Suez. Declaring that the strong defenses in the "mid world" now stand "not on paper but on rock," Churchill told Congress: "The vast process of American rearmament, in which the British Commonwealth and Empire and the growing power of united Europe will play their part in the utmost of their strength—this vast process has already altered the balance of the world. "And it may well, if we all persevere steadfastly and loyally together, avert the danger of a Third World War or the horror of defeat and slaughter should one come upon us."

Discusses Atomic Weapons

Turning to atomic weapons, the Premier said that "the awful secrets which science has wrested from nature must be recognized (as) the strongest deterrent against a Third World War and the most effective guarantee of victory in it."

Location Of Ragweed Areas Main Problem

It would take only about $3.00 worth of insecticide to kill all the ragweed in this Province — but the ragweed has to be found first. That was the opinion expressed yesterday by Mr. George V. Fraser, director of the Travel Bureau, when asked about the situation here. Mr. Fraser pointed out that an air index of 100 was considered an excellent pollen rating everywhere, but here the index was better than excellent with a figure of 0.4. That is good news for sufferers from hayfever who annually have to seek some place where they may obtain relief. At present there is just one pollen station on the Island and that is at Dalway. The air index quoted applies roughly to an area within 20 miles of the station. It is proposed to establish some stations in Charlottetown, Montague, Souris, Summerside, Cavendish, Alberton and O'Leary. This would virtually complete coverage of the Province and would enable researchers to quickly locate any areas in which ragweed exists. The air index would show the volume, if any, present in the district and then it would simply be a matter of locating the weed and destroying it by spray.

To Enforce Quarantine Regulations Re Poultry

A number of inquiries regarding Newcastle disease in poultry has been received by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, reports Mr. W. R. Shaw, Deputy Minister. The Approved Poultry Association and Federation of Agriculture have asked the Department to definitely restrict importations of chicks and poultry until the whole position has been clarified. "We do not think, however, that an embargo, if such is the proper term, can be legally enforced," Mr. Shaw said. "Consequently it has been decided to quarantine all poultry and equipment coming into this Province on the premises of the purchaser or importer." The Department has issued instructions to prospective purchasers, who are first of all advised, if they intend importing live poultry or used poultry equipment from outside the Province, to inform the Department of their intention to do so at least ten days prior to the arrival of their purchases in the Province.

Urges Greater Use Of Older Class Of Workers

MONTREAL, Jan. 17 — (CP)—Health Minister Martin said tonight that the attitude towards employment of older workers must be changed "if we are to prevent one of the greatest wastes in our use of manpower." He told the annual convention of the Dairy Farmers of Canada that advances in medical science and public health services since 1900 have added 20 years to the life of the average worker. "This was a 'fundamental' change in society and brought with it the need for an old age pension scheme. The Federal pension scheme which goes into effect in two weeks was 'our major single advance' in social progress. "If we are going to make full use of the productive capacity of our senior citizens and at the same time help them to live fuller, richer lives we will have to find a new approach to the whole question of old age," he said. "Our problem is to re-adopt our thinking so that we can keep our senior citizens from becoming 'displaced persons,' cut adrift from their intellectual, cultural and spiritual anchors." More attention must be given health, welfare, educational and cultural needs of the older people. One of the basic problems of old age is finding work. As society has become industrialized "the average city family is not able to care for parents and elder relatives so well as those who live in the country. For this reason many older people try to continue in employment," Mr. Martin said. The older persons have suffered most from industrialization because speed of reaction has become an important factor and many skills that required years to acquire have become outmoded. But despite these disadvantages, older workers are more reliable, less given to absenteeism, have greater maturity of judgment and are more adaptable to routine or repetitive work. "Since their record proves that discrimination against them is largely a matter of unfounded prejudices, we must learn to correct some of our misapprehensions about the capabilities of age and develop a better appreciation of its assets."

SOUTH FREETOWN HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Water Steel Site For Naval Quarters Reported Favored

Rumors have been current that a new site has been selected for the erection of a naval training base to replace the building presently used by H.M.C.S. Queen Charlotte. One of the logical sites is that now occupied by the lumber firm of L. M. Poole and Co. on Water Street. It is believed that some time ago Hon. Brooke Claxton, Federal Minister of National Defence, examined the premises during a visit here and it is thought to have found them satisfactory for the purpose. The wharf property covers approximately four acres and by virtue of an ancient deed carries water rights to the channel in two directions. Elimination of the jutting piers and erection of a seawall at the deep water end would provide an excellent mooring place for training barges. The site would also have a special advantage to the Navy in being on the water's edge. At present the training is carried on in a land-based "ship."

Firemen Stress Problem Of Snow Clearance For Fire Hydrants In City

The urgent need for a practical plan for snow clearance in the vicinity of fire hydrants following heavy snowfalls was voiced at the annual meeting of the Charlottetown Fire Department last night. The well attended meeting was held in the firemen's room in the City Hall with Fire Chief H.H. Jewell presiding. The following were elected to the executive: Chief Jewell, Assistant Chief James Walker, Captain Gordon Stewart, Captain William Connolly and Lieutenants L. Gillespie and L. Ranahan. The serious situation which arises when hydrants are covered completely by snow was stressed in reports read and in a general discussion by members of the department. It was pointed out that while the majority of the firemen knew the location of the hydrants, valuable time would be lost digging them out in the event of a fire. Until such time that a definite clearance plan is put into operation, citizens were urged to clear a space around the hydrants when clearing their sidewalks, sufficient to allow pumper connections. It was felt that this action would be in their own interests and could possibly prevent a small outbreak from developing into a major conflagration by avoiding delays in the immediate and proper deployment of equipment. The suggestion that stiff penalties should be imposed on car drivers who park in front of hydrants in the vicinity of the Forum on hockey nights was also made. It was reported that cars were parked so closely together that it would be even impossible to push or tow them out of the way if it was necessary to make pumper connections at these hydrants.

Vishinsky Hits Back At Garson

PARIS, Jan. 17—(CP)—Russia's Andrei Vishinsky struck hard at Canada's Justice Minister, Stuart Garson, today over Garson's questions on the Soviet views on atomic weapons. The Soviet foreign minister told the United Nations political committee—which sent his proposals to the disarmament commission for study—that some of Garson's questions were pointless and senseless. Garson yesterday urged clarification of the Soviet views immediately by Vishinsky himself in order to give impetus to disarmament commission meetings. At one point today, in referring to Garson's questions, Vishinsky said he did not intend to satisfy the curiosity of the leader of the Canadian delegation. Vishinsky said he was not in school and Garson was not a teacher. Western delegates saw Vishinsky's rejection of Garson's questions as a weakening in what was considered Russia's slick propaganda move in making apparent concessions to the West on the problem of atomic control.

IN MEMORIAM

Much sympathy has been extended to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ford of North Milton recently, following the sudden death of the youngest member of their family, Derrill Chester, at the tender age of thirteen months. He passed away on December 5th, 1951, after a very short illness. Purchase A Life Net

Strong recommendations for the purchase of a life net were made in the report of the Hook and Ladder Committee repeating the recommendations of last year's meeting when it was pointed out that there were sufficient high buildings in the city to justify this equipment, and that the cost would be more than outweighed if it was instrumental in saving one life. The use of hydrants in the training of new firemen and for practise also came in for discussion and the fire department regretted the decision of the water commissioners in barring the use of the hydrants for this purpose, and it was the hope that the officials would reconsider their decision in the near future. One hundred and fifty one alarms were answered during 1951. In cases where assistance was rendered at fires outside of the City limits, Chief Jewell emphasized that at no time was the City left in jeopardy on these occasions. The Company meetings of the Fire Department were held recently and the following officers elected: Hose and Chemical Company, Captain, Gordon Stewart; 1st Lieutenant, William Bevins; 2nd Lieutenant, Louis Ranahan; Secretary, George Rogers. Hook and Ladder Company, Captain William Connolly; Lieutenant, L. Gillespie; Secretary, Gerald Maddigan. Auxiliary Corps, Officer in Charge, P. O. BROTHERHOOD WEEK

The 1952 observance of Brotherhood Week is from February 17th to February 24th. It appears fitting that our people should, in these times, give thought to the necessity of living together as brothers under one common Fatherhood. When the Canadian way of life is threatened we must not allow differences in creed, race or origin to divide us as a people, but must stand together for those principles all Canadians cherish. I therefore commend to all our citizens the observance of Brotherhood Week as a time to reassert these principles and renew their allegiance to them.
