

The Irish Trials.

Tuesday, December 23, is fixed for the date of the commencement of the trials of the Irish agitators. It will be observed that on the part of the government an earlier day was desired, while the counsel for the accused persons was apparently not eager on that point. Two months is the period mentioned as the probable duration of these processes. It is doubtful, of course, whether a trial such as this can result in much satisfaction to either side of the difficult case, for, while the government perhaps only expects to prove the inadequacy of the present laws to preserve order in Ireland, the accused persons might find an equitable turn out a ruinous triumph if it led directly to the suspension of the habeas corpus act as a step deemed necessary for suppressing sedition. But it is probable that the testimony and the arguments will give an accurate picture of the present real condition of Ireland.—N. Y. Herald.

Appeal for Coercion.

The London Times, in a leading article of the 26th ult., says: "We fear that Mr. Forster was unable to encourage his colleagues with a report that lawlessness is abating in Ireland. It is too plain that the most detestable outrages daily occur, and that unparalleled terrorism has been imposed upon three Irish counties. The law is almost powerless to prevent these crimes or to punish the criminals. The authorities have made every effort to protect life and property by employing the ordinary forces, but the conspiracy is too strong and subtle to be so restrained. The utmost that can be done effectually at present is to defend the few persons who are threatened. Some eighty Irish gentlemen are under police protection. Legal enforcement of contracts relating to land is at an end in most parts of Munster and Connaught, and the lawlessness of the peasantry and of the masses in the towns is seething and spreading. These facts continue to cause grave anxiety to the authorities of Ireland, and we may conclude that the Cabinet has not resolved to set aside their views even for a short time without much hesitation and misgiving; but the decision has been adopted partly on the faith of hopes which spring eternal in the Ministerial breast. Captain Beamish, a magistrate of Cork county, has written a letter to Mr. Forster stating that he has received a threatening letter, and has, therefore, sought the protection of the police. He says his object in writing to Mr. Forster is, that if his death should be added to those of other landlords who have been murdered since the present government came into power it cannot be pleaded that it was either justifiable or took place because government protection was not called for in time. The News in a leader says the new Irish Land bill will be, beyond question, a genuine and practical effort to settle the controversy.

The Silk Industry in the United States.

(From the New York Herald)

According to a well informed writer in the November "Atlantic" as fine a quality of silk can be raised in the United States as in any part of the world, but the silk cannot be produced here and reeled as cheaply as the raw silk can be imported from China and Japan. These facts are proved by many experiments in silk culture extending through more than two hundred years and made in almost every part of the country. The climate of California is admirably adapted to silk raising. Cocoons and eggs of excellent quality have been raised there. But those who have engaged in the industry have found it more profitable to ship the eggs to France than to rear them for silk. A well organized effort to make silk culture successful in this country is now in progress in Kansas. It was started by M. de Boissiere, who came from France and settled in Franklin county. He has established a small, and, with M. Crozier, the author of a treatise on the raising of silk worms, is working with hope and enthusiasm among the farmers of Kansas. But the success of their experiment remains to be established. While silk culture has so far proved a failure in the United States, the manufacturers of silk has been a remarkably successful industry. The first mill on the continent was built at Mansfield, Conn., in 1880. To-day 279 firms are engaged in the silk manufacture in this country, the most of them being in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Massachusetts. They have eighteen million dollars capital invested, employ eight thousand operatives, pay annually more than six million dollars wages and yearly produce goods worth twenty-seven million dollars. The greatest centre of the industry is Paterson, N. J., the Lyons of America, where thirty two firms are engaged in the business with eight thousand operatives and an invested capital of six million dollars. Nearly every variety of silk manufacture is represented in the United States, while "the quality of the work," says the writer above cited, "will compare with, and in some departments is superior to, that of any other country in the world." Indeed, the goods of the Cheney Brothers, whose mill at South Manchester, Conn., is the largest in the United States, are now imitated in Europe. The display of American silks at Philadelphia in 1876 surprised Americans themselves hardly less than foreign experts. Our marked success in this field is due in no small measure to the improvements we have made in machinery. In silk machinery the Centennial judges declared this country to be ahead of all others.

A RELIC OF THE RESOLUTE.—The table made from the ship Resolute was received at the White House, Washington, on the 23rd ult. It is a present from Queen Victoria to the President of the United States. It is a magnificently carved article of furniture. It is of oak, and weighs 1,300 lbs. It is a writing table. Upon the smooth panel is the following inscription: "H. M. S. Resolute, forming a part of the expedition sent in search of Sir John Franklin in 1852, was lost in latitude 74 degrees 41 minutes, longitude 101 degrees 22 minutes west, on the 16th of May, 1854. She was discovered and extricated in September, 1875, in latitude 67 degrees north, by Captain Buddington of the U. S. whaler Geo. Henry. The ship was purchased, fitted out and sent to England as a gift to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, by the President and people of the United States, as a token of good will and friendship. This table was made from her timbers when she was broken up and is presented by the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland as a memorial of the courtesy and loving kindness which dictated the offer of the gift of the Resolute."

BEGGING FOR BREAD.—One of the Halifax despatches which we publish this morning tells a sad tale of how thousands of Nova Scotians in Boston and the New England States are out of work and actually begging for bread. The Halifax Mail, a well informed journal, is responsible for the startling statement. Who are accountable for this sad state of affairs? Will that portion of the press of Nova Scotia which has seemed to delight in telling of the exodus from day to day consider itself free from blame? Will it deny that its paragraphs have incited a desire in the minds of many to leave home for the United States who could never have seriously entertained the idea of quitting their native Province had they not read them? Let us hope that the great majority of New Brunswickers who have left our shores for the United States have fared better than those from our sister Province. Some of them, no doubt, are doing well, but we fear that the condition of most of them is little better than that of Nova Scotians. The going away of many young men has been productive of a double harm. It has placed themselves in poverty in a strange land, while the expenditure of money in fitting them out for their departure has left their families with so much less to carry them through the winter.—St. John News.

It is said in quarters likely to be accurately informed that Lord Beaconsfield has made up his mind never to accept office again, no matter what may happen. He has bought a lease of a house in Currian street with part of the large sum he has received by Erymion and means to begin life over again on a new departure at the callow age of 76.

THE N. Y. Herald says: "Perhaps part of the secret of Hanlan's wonderful success may be found in the hearty support his fellow townsmen give. It is proposed at Toronto that the freedom of the city shall be presented to the champion by the Mayor, that two regiments of troops and the fire brigade shall take part in a torchlight procession in his honor, and that he shall be made manager of a steam ferry line. To be held in such regard should make a giant of any man."

A LADY was fined five hundred dollars in New York for throwing scalding water upon two boys who had annoyed her. She might have saved the money and annoyance by having some other boy operate upon the offenders with a putty blower from some safe aiding place. Any boy would rather be scalded to death than be teased out of the neighborhood by another boy.

VIRGINIA, like some other States, needs missionaries. An ignorant mountaineer, who was executed at Salem on the 25th ult., admitted that according to Scripture he had done wrong, but he explained that he did not at the time know much about the Bible.

AMONG the prize winners at the McGill annual games held recently on the college grounds, we are pleased to notice the name of Mr. F. D. Walker, son of Mr. David Walker, of Laueching, who entered McGill University this year as a student of medicine.—Advertiser.

It is formally announced that Mr. Langtry, the husband of the "Jersey Lily," will shortly sail for America on business, and it is extremely probable that he will take with him his beautiful wife, who has done so much for his success.
