N. Y. Yankees Involved In An 11-Player Trade

NEW YORK, (AP)— In an 11-player deal Wednesday the world champion New York Yankees acquired first baseman Eddie Robinson and pitcher Harry Byrd from Philadelphia Athletics in exchange for Negro first baseman Vic Powers, outfielder Bill Renna and first baseman Don Bollweg.

The trade, greatest numerically in Yankee history, also involved the Yankees' Kansas City farm of the American Association and the return of $25,000 to the Athletics in the sale of third baseman Loren Babe last year.

Besides the main five, here are the other players involved in the transaction:

The A's sent Babe, first baseman Tom Hamilton and outfielder Carmen Mauro to Kansas City.

In return the A's got catcher Al Robertson, who played with Kansas City and Syracuse, pitcher John Gray of Kansas City and third baseman Jim Finnegan of Binghamton of the Eastern League.

In addition the Yankees said they would option two Kansas City players to Ottawa, Philadelphia's International League farm. The Yanks said they would retain possession of the players.

Sold For $25,000

The Yankees sold Babe last April to the A's for $25,000 and as part of Wednesday's deal the Yankees will return the money.

Although Earle Mack, Philadelphia vice-president, called it a wonderful deal for us, there wasn't the slightest doubt that the Yankees thought it was super-wonderful for them.

"This will open the floodgates," said George Weiss, Yankee general manager, with a huge grin on his face. "The other clubs will have to scramble."

"We strengthened ourselves in the departments we needed help in most," said Weiss, who contended the Yanks gave up no one important to their drive for a sixth appeared in 140 games.

The pennant-winning Brooklyn Dodgers had the highest team average, .980 while making the fewest errors, 118. Cincinnati Redlegs, the only club with a triple play, also came up with 176 double plays to lead in that department.

straight pennant in 1954.

On the surface the Yankees appeared to have heavily fortified themselves for 1954 without giving up anyone who would have figured.

In Robinson they received a left-handed hitter who had a lifetime batting average of .281 through 1952 and who hit .247 last year.

Although his average dipped last year, he still managed to hit 22 homers and drive in 102 runs. He will make up for the gap left by the retirement of Johnny Mize.

Byrd, a 29-year-old righthander, was named rookie of the year in 1952 when he won 15 and lost 15 and had an earned run average of 3.32. He, too, tallied off in '53, finishing with an 11-20 record and a 5.51 earned run average.

The Yankees said the key man in the deal for the A's was Power, the 24-year-old slugger who had been called up to the Yankees from Kansas City after leading the Triple A loop with a .349 average. He clouted 16 homers and drove in 93 runs.

National League Issues Statistics

NEW YORK, (AP)— Al Red Schoendienst, who narrowly missed out as the National League's leading batter, was its top defensive second baseman for the third time in 1953.

The St. Louis Cardinals' mainstay fielded .983 with only 14 errors in 809 chances, according to official statistics released today by the National League service bureau.

Schoendienst, a .342 batter, second to Carl Furillo's .344, easily won out over rookie Junior Gilliam of Brooklyn and Cincinnati's Rocky Bridges, each of whom fielded .976. Red also was tops at his position in 1946 and 1949.

The Cardinals were the only man to place more than one player on the league's standout defensive team, also contributing Enos Slaughter, who paced the outfielders with a .996 mark. Enos made only one error in 227 chances. Ritchie Ashburn of Philadelphia Phillies was second with .990.

His Third Year

Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati led the first basemen with a .995 average, barely edging Gil Hodges of Brooklyn, who finished with .993. Kluszewski, who ended up on top for the third consecutive year, showed seven errors in 1,350 chances.

For the second straight season, Johnny Logan of Milwaukee Braves paced the shortstops with a percentage of .978. He beat out Roy McMillan of Cincinnati with .972.

Philadelphia's Willie Jones, with 11 miscues in 440 chances, was the leader among the third basemen with .975. Danny O'Connell of Pittsburgh was a poor second with .968.

Brooklyn catcher Roy Campanella, the circuit's most valuable player, added another honor by leading the backstops in fielding with .989. Smoky Burgess of the Phillies had a .993 mark, but he played in 95 games. The leader must play in at least 100. Campy
