ROCKY POINT FERRY RESUMES SERVICE—The ferry, "Fairview" was back on the Charlottetown-Rocky Point service yesterday. The boat returned from Picot during the week-end, where it had been for the past week having its hull below the waterline covered. LOBSTERS REPORTED SCARCER—Discharge of a large number of workers from lobster packing factories in the vicinity of Bristol last week had been the result of a scarcity of the crustaceans since the opening of the early season. One packer stated although he packed generally an average of 12,000 lobsters annually this year his plant had not had one half that number to work on.

POLICE CHECK MOTORISTS' LIGHTS—Seventy motor vehicles operating on Charlottetown's streets Saturday night were found to have defective lights when city police made a check. The drivers were warned to get their lights in proper condition or they would have to explain to the magistrate if they were found on city streets in the future with inadequate lights.

INTERESTING WEDDING

Miss Peggy Hobbs Married To Mr. Peter Kelly Saturday.

Trinity United Church, Charlottetown, was the scene of a very pretty June wedding Saturday afternoon at one o'clock when Miss Pearl Marguerite Hobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin Hearz Hobbs of Charlottetown was married to Mr. Peter Cameron Kelly, well known hockey star, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly of Montreal. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Hugh Miller, pastor of the church.

The charming young bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by the organist Prof. Roy Kendall. She wore a bridal redingot gown of tea rose lace over satin, with a short train and Queen Anne collar caught at the throat with a large cameo brooch. Her large picture hat was trimmed with blue, and her shoes and gloves were of the same material. She carried a large bouquet of white lilies. The bridesmaid, Miss Edith Frances Hill, was gowned in blue silk chiton trimmed with blue velvet with hat and shoes to match. Her bouquet was of pink and white snapdragon, blue forget-me-not and lilies of the valley. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Stewart MacMillan Kelly of Montreal. Mrs. Frank Hobbs, mother of the bride, was gowned in black satin with black lace, hat and shoes to match, and silver fox fur. She wore a corsage bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Kelly, mother of the groom, was attired in navy blue silk flowered voile, with hat and shoes to match, and wore a patch fox fur. Her corsage bouquet was of mixed flowers to match her gown. The ushers were Messrs. Lemuel Prowse and Charles MacKinnon. The church was beautifully decorated for the joyous event with yellow and white flag lilies, buttercups and a profusion of ferns. During the signing of the register Mr. A. R. Gills sang "My Prayer to You."

After the ceremony a reception attended by about sixty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Hobbs and Mrs. Kelly received with the bride and groom. The colour scheme at the bride's home in the living, dining and drawing rooms was yellow and white with buttercups, sweet peas, lilies-of-the-valley, and apple blossoms, the last named fragrant flowers being banked in trellis work in the drawing room. Mrs. Hazel L. Wright ushered the guests. On the dining room table was the huge and artistically decorated wedding cake surrounded by sweet peas and tall pink candles. The bride was assisted by Mrs. H. J. Hill in cutting the cake, and by Mrs. James T. McKie at the tea table. Mrs. George R. Hooper and Mrs. Thomas H. White poured tea. Misses Doris Prowse, Leslie White, Eulalie MacLeod, Helen Collings, Bertha Brown and Katherine Wright assisted in serving. Music at the reception was rendered by Misses Thelma Burns and Thelma Teed. Following the reception the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Boston and New York. They then plan to sail for Bermuda and stay at Atlantic City on the return trip. At the end of a three weeks honeymoon they will return to Charlottetown to spend the summer, then leave for Detroit for the winter. Mr. Kelly has a contract with the Detroit Red Wings hockey club. The bride is travelling in a tangerine woollen suit with white gaiter blouse, black accessories and silver fox scarf. The young couple were the recipients of a large number of valuable and beautiful wedding gifts, the bride having been tendered a number of showers recently. The gifts also included a chest of silver from the Detroit Red Wings. The ushers and others assisting in the ceremony received suitable gifts. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly, Mr. Stewart Kelly of Montreal, and Dr. Harry C. Hooper, of Boston, uncle of the bride. The wedding excited great interest in Charlottetown owing to the popularity of the young couple, and the church was thronged during the ceremony. In the chorus of congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Kelly the Guardian heartily joins.

BROTHERS APPEAR IN MAGISTRATE'S COURT—A man who appeared before Magistrate George J. Tweedy, K.C., on Saturday charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, was sent to jail for thirty days without the option of a fine, his car seized and a recommendation made that his license be cancelled for at least three years. His brother was charged with illegal consumption of liquor and was fined twenty dollars and costs or twenty days in jail. The brothers were found by police in an ancient car in the ditch at York.

TIMELY SERMON PREACHED AT THE KIRK

Rev. Dr. R. Moorhead-Legate Preaches To Large Congregation.

St. Matthew VIII, 4—"And Jesus saith unto him, see thou tell no man." One of the things about the Lord Jesus Christ that must seem strange to us is His unobtrusiveness. His dislike for publicity. There never has been, in all the world's history, anyone who has been more in the public eye than He has been, and yet that prominence was unsought by Himself. If He had lived in Galilee while He lived there, we should have been hearing about Him every day. We should have found Him the general topic of conversation. And yet when He rendered a service to any kind of those people who so generally discussed Him, He had the habit of telling them not to speak of it; the last thing which He seemed to wish was to be talked about. The incident surrounding our text is an example of this. He had healed a leper, and he had performed that act of mercy before the eyes of a great multitude of people. Nevertheless, immediately the poor sufferer was cleansed of his malady, Jesus turns to him and says, "See, you are not to say a word about this that I have done to anybody." And, time and again, the very same thing. Of course these people who were healed by Him went and talked about it; their relief and joy were so great that they could not keep silence. But, all the same, He frequently, so frequently as to make it a noticeable thing, expressed His desire that nothing should be said about what He had done. He seemed determined that His ministry should be a ministry of quietness and secretness. Many guesses have been made as to why this was so; and all sorts of motives have been attributed to Him regarding this policy of reserve and reticence, some of them not very convincing. In trying to account for it you have to take a birdseye view of His whole life and character. And I think that, when you succeed in doing that, one thing stands out. And it is this—He wanted the essence of His Gospel to be humble, modest, unpretentious service. From a study of His character and method of life, I think we can be sure of that. And while the history of Christianity reveals that this ideal of His has been more honored in the breach than in the observance, I think it is clear that that is what He strove for. In the early period of the Church, the age of the Apostles, we know that this wish of His was realized. What a service those men, and even their women-folk did throughout the then known world for the Kingdom of God! And yet how little we know of those men themselves! We know the names of some of them, and the names of many of them we do not know. Their personalities were eclipsed by the glory of the Gospel which they preached and worked for, and they were content to let it go unappreciated or glorified; they wished for and all they worked for was the bringing of men and women to the knowledge of the Eternal God.

And so, interpreting the words of our text, "See thou tell no man," in that fashion, I want to try and show what bearing the thought has on your life and mine. To roll the teaching of our text up in a sentence—if you and I are striving to live the Christian life, this is the line upon which we too should be. And let us begin by saying this, the principles which are to guide us in living the Christian life are as far as the poles are asunder from the commonly accepted principles of living. A good deal of the teaching of the Christian religion in diametrically opposed to the ordinary run of living. The two schemes of life are utterly different. What are the qualities that win the public admiration today? What is it that draws the attention of the crowd. Brilliant gifts, consummate cleverness, physical prowess, or even mere audacity. Now nobody needs to be told that you look in vain for any of these endowments in the plan of life taught by Jesus Christ. Run your eye over that list of attainments which you find in the passage that we call the Beatitudes, and you will see the force of what I mean. "Blessed are the meek; blessed are the poor in spirit; blessed are the merciful; blessed are the peace-makers." Nothing showy, nothing pretentious, or dramatic, or sensational. Everything done quietly, unassumingly, with constraint. Our Lord deliberately laid the emphasis upon the modest and hidden qualities of life. He healed the sick man and charged him solemnly to go away and say nothing about it. I am certain that the Church would deepen and extend her work if she practised this principle of her Lord more carefully than she does. Not judging her success by the size of her congregations, or by the amount of money she raises, or by the statistics she can present, or by the prestige she has attained in the community. But, to use Christ's own symbol, doing her work like the leaven that the woman took and hid in three measures of meal
