Sandys In Washington For Vital Defence Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Defence Minister Duncan Sandys arrived Sunday for four days of talks which could change the nature of U.S.-British military cooperation. The talks are expected to centre about guided missile supply and development, and could result in U.S. production of such weapons for Britain, which now is planning a reduction in defence expenditure.

The talks are scheduled to begin today and continue through Tuesday. Sandys then will fly to Ottawa and return to Washington for two more days of conversations beginning Thursday. He is slated to fly back to London on Saturday from New York. Sandys, who arrived in New York Saturday, was questioned further by newspaper men here about his mission. He declared emphatically: "This is not a begging mission."

TALKS WITH DULLES Sandys said he also expects to confer with State Secretary Dulles. Asked if the talks would go into the Middle East situation, he said it would be "very difficult to talk without going into that problem."

Fled Prison 22 Years Ago; Must Serve Time Now

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A 54-year-old man who has "had a good life" since he fled a Wisconsin state prison 22 years ago to attend his father's funeral must return to jail. George Dietsch, who found a new life and a new wife, also will have to stand trial and submit to sentence for the felony of escape before he can hope for clemency.

Home Damaged By Snowplow

LUNenburg, N.S. (CP) — A street snowplow roared downhill backwards here Sunday and into the home of Mrs. Margaret Lohnes, shifting it off its foundation and demolishing one corner. The plow operator said the brakes failed. The hole in the house was said to be large enough to drive a car through. Town workmen patched it up temporarily with canvas.

Speculate Missing Plane May Be In Northumberland Strait

HAVELock, N.B. (CP) — Hope for the safety of Municipal Affairs Minister T. Babbitt Parlee and two companions faded Sunday as search parties found no trace of the private plane that vanished Tuesday night with three men. A five-day hunt in this area of southeastern New Brunswick was spurred by three reports that single-engine plane was heard flying low over Havelock, a community of 500, about 9:30 p.m. last Tuesday, a half hour after the plane left Fredericton airport on a 100-mile flight to Moncton.

Sunday night. A 75-man search squad gathered by the New Brunswick Forestry Service began moving from here to Port Elgin, 100 miles away. Only a skeleton RCMP force remained here.

A routine survey of the countryside around Chipman, about 30 miles north of Fredericton, was carried out Sunday in a last ditch effort to find the missing plane. Ground parties went over a 2,000-mile arc tract below Chipman while a helicopter whirled over the Salmon River north of the town. "We have exhausted every avenue of information," an RCMP official said Saturday in Fredericton. An intense air hunt by planes dispatched by RCAF Search and Rescue Headquarters in Halifax turned up nothing in the Port Elgin area.

34 New Arrests In Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungarian police Sunday announced 34 new arrests in Budapest. Twenty were accused as members of two alleged "counter-revolutionary" bands captured with large stocks of hidden arms and ammunition. Each group consisted of 10 persons. One alleged band was apparently made up of teen-agers because all are being handed over to juvenile courts.

RACIAL VIOLENCE RENEWED

Negro's Home Is Bombed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A second attempt to blow up the home of Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. misfired Sunday but another Negro's home was bombed in a new outbreak of racial violence. Twelve sticks of dynamite wrapped around a metal tube were tossed on the porch at the home of King's leader in the long and bitter fight against segregation. However, the bomb failed to explode. Another bomb tossed between a Negro house and a filling station a short distance away did go off however, and damaged both buildings. Two Negro taxicab drivers and a third employee of the cab company with headquarters at the service station suffered cuts and scratches but no one was seriously injured.

King, a Baptist minister, and members of his family were away from home at the time. The integration leader said he hasn't occupied the white frame residence "for some time." Another of outbreaks of violence which began shortly after segregation was ended on Montgomery city buses Dec. 21 under a federal court order. The Supreme Court ruled city and state bus segregation laws unconstitutional.

Negroes must continue to follow a policy of non-violence, the 28-year-old minister said, because "our oppressors control the police, the National Guard even, and if they send the federal government in here that will be white folks too." So far, city authorities have refused offers of outside help in curbing violence. Negroes have appealed to President Eisenhower to say something about the situation.

The Caribbean Federation Has Development Plan

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) The standing committee of the British Caribbean Federation will ask Britain to finance a £200,000, 10-year development plan for the region. The proposal was embodied in a draft memorandum approved by the committee Friday. The memorandum suggests that the federation ask Britain to lead it. £100,000,000 in the first five years of its existence and a similar amount in the second five years. The committee decided unanimously that main emphasis in the federal plan should be placed on economic development. A conference is in progress here to clear the way for uniting British Caribbean colonies under a single government. A governor-general will be named and general elections held.

U. S. Senator Sees Possibility Dulles' Usefulness Nears End

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Hubert Humphrey, leading Minnesota Democrat, said Sunday John Foster Dulles' usefulness may be nearing an end because of what Humphrey called Congress' "growing lack of confidence" in the secretary of state. Senators John Sparkman (Dem., Ala.) and Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) joined Humphrey in calling for an investigation of the secretary's conduct of foreign affairs, a project Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem., Ark.) has predicted the Senate will undertake. "Humphrey said Democrats have 'no choice but to support some form of a resolution giving President Eisenhower military and economic authority to counter any Communist expansion into the Middle East.' But he insisted the administration's resolution, drafted by Dulles, did not represent any constructive step. "The resolution is not directed at the real danger of Communist infiltration of the Middle East," Humphrey said in an interview. "We are being prescribed the wrong medicine and I'm afraid we need to change doctors."

British newspapers continue to criticize Dulles for remarks about British-French troops made during congressional testimony last week. The left-wing Reynolds News calls Dulles "history's gift to the Soviet Union." "He can always be counted on for some asinine remark or some ambiguity of policy that will cause the maximum of anger and confusion among America's allies," the newspaper says. Its comments were prompted by Dulles' remark that if he were "an American boy going to fight in the Middle East" he would "feel a lot safer" if he did not have British and French troops "one on my right hand and one on my left." "The News of the World, whose circulation of 8,000,000 is the biggest in the world, says Dulles 'has put his foot in it often enough to know that he is only giving comfort to potential enemies with this sort of remark.' 'We can't believe that any American servicemen who fought in World Wars I and II should be a Briton or a Frenchman would echo Dulles' sentiment.'"
