At the hearing yesterday the prisoner was released; the conviction was quashed and all proceedings set aside. Mike claims that "prospecting" covers a multitude of things, including farming, wood cutting, "tinkering," and just old fashioned peddling. Old fashioned peddling Mr. Murphy has been doing since he has been travelling across the prairies of Saskatchewan with a team of horses and a wagon and sells everything from his wagon. He trades with the Indians skins, furs, beadwork and moccasins. Mike sold the horses to take this trip and he should be run a little short, he says. "Heck I'm a prospector."

In Memoriam
In sad and loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Jerome Smith, who passed away August 24, 1954.
Today our thoughts they all go back,
To just one year ago,
When our smiles were turned to tears,
By a sad and bitter blow.
We often sit and think of you
And talk of how you died,
And to think you could not say
Goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
Lovingly remembered by husband and family.
In loving memory of a dear Mother, Mrs. Harold Adams, who passed away August 24, 1955.
We little knew when we woke that morn,
The sorrow the day would bring
For by that sad morn,
The shock severe
To part with one we loved so dear.
Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it cost to lose you
No one will ever know.
Always loved and sadly missed
By daughter Mildred, Margaret, Lila.

Nine Killed When U.S. Air Transport Crashes Into Three Small Homes

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—A huge U.S. Air Force transport plane, crippled by engine trouble, crashed in flames into three small frame houses near the Charleston air force base before dawn Tuesday, exploding and killing at least nine airmen and civilians.

Fire spread in every direction and lit the sky for miles about. Heat held back would-be rescuers. Five of the 11-member crew were trapped and died in the C-119 Flying Boxcar which first hit a tree and broke into chunks of flaming wreckage.

PROBE RUINS
Bodies of four of the 10 persons who lived in the three houses were identified. Rescue workers probed the charred remains of the buildings on the chance others had died.

The six surviving airmen and four civilians were taken to hospital. None was believed hurt critically.

The plane caught fire shortly after it and a sister ship took off on a routine night flight. A fireman said he saw two flashes from the stricken C-119 before it fell some 10 miles from the centre of Charleston about 2 a.m.

US AIR FORCE
Dobbins Peyton, 31, who operates a restaurant in the area, said he fought the flames with a garden hose for 10 minutes before the first firemen arrived.

Estelle Robinson, who works for Peyton, ran to the door of the restaurant as the plane sheared off its tail in its descent.

"My God," she cried, "it's my house."
Her husband, Charlie, was found dead inside it.
The civilians injured included a man and wife who were asleep when one of the plane's propellers was flung 100 yards through their window.

Vancouver Drug Traffic Resumes
VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says the price of illicit drug capsules in Vancouver has returned to the "normal level of $5 each." The newspaper says the price a capsule had climbed as high as $10 following the recent roundup of 30 suspected narcotics traffickers.

The paper quotes drug detail detectives as saying that pedlars are again distributing drugs on the street.

"The demand for illicit drugs has in no way been reduced," the paper says, adding that senior police officers have stated that the city's problem will not be eliminated until the demand for narcotics is cut by a sweeping drive on the drug addicts.

Eisenhower
50,000 members made homeless or jobless by the catastrophe. Four spans over the Delaware between New Jersey and Pennsylvania were reopened. Four others still were restricted to emergency use only, and two were closed.

MANY STILL MISSING
There still was massive distress. The death toll remained at 180, but many persons were missing. Hundreds wandered the drenched, mucky streets of wrecked towns, sleeping and eating in public buildings.

Tentative damage estimates ranged up toward $3,000,000,000. The president interrupted a Colorado vacation to make his first-hand inspection by air.

For four and a half hours, Eisenhower viewed a panorama of destruction as the presidential plane dived over New Jersey, New York and Connecticut.

At times clouds blotted out the view, but there still remained plenty to see.

Looking down on the still-swollen Naugatuck river in Connecticut, the president remarked that floods are a "terrible thing."

Ex-Mountie
commissioner to suggest that I would allow improper cross-examination," said Mr. Tupper.

LAWYER APOLOGIZES
He made the statement after Fleishman had admitted the accuracy of statements attributed to him in published reports of the inquest here Aug. 16 into the death of Supt. Harry Whelan.

Whelan died Aug. 5 from a self-inflicted bullet wound three hours before he was to have undergone cross-examination.

At the inquest, Fleishman testified he had warned Supt. Whelan on Aug. 3 that Chief Mulligan planned to smear him at the commission hearing. He said he also warned the officer to be prepared for cross-examination on the deaths of his daughter and father-both suicidal.

Fleishman apologized.

SOME RAILED, SOME NOT
Parolee, who reported to Mr. Thompson in 1950 that he could find no evidence of wrongdoing on the part of senior police officers, said his investigation led him to believe that some bookie joints "had their phones smashed while others didn't."

He said he heard rumors of certain gamblers being "in the ascendancy" and others being raided regularly.

The investigation, which he said at some times saw agents shadowing other agents to check their information, said of the underworld's estimate of Chief Mulligan:

"There were references that Mulligan would pinch his own neck."
Parolee's 1950 report has been called "WE SWASH" by H. A. D. Oliver, counsel for keywitness Det. Sgt. Len Cuthbert.

It said the underworld treated with amusement any suggestion that top police officers could be "got." "

Parolee testified that he did not question Cuthbert or Det.-Sgt. Bob Leatherdale, who brought charges of graft and offers of graft before Mr. Thompson. Leatherdale, said Parolee, "is one of the most honest policemen I have ever known."

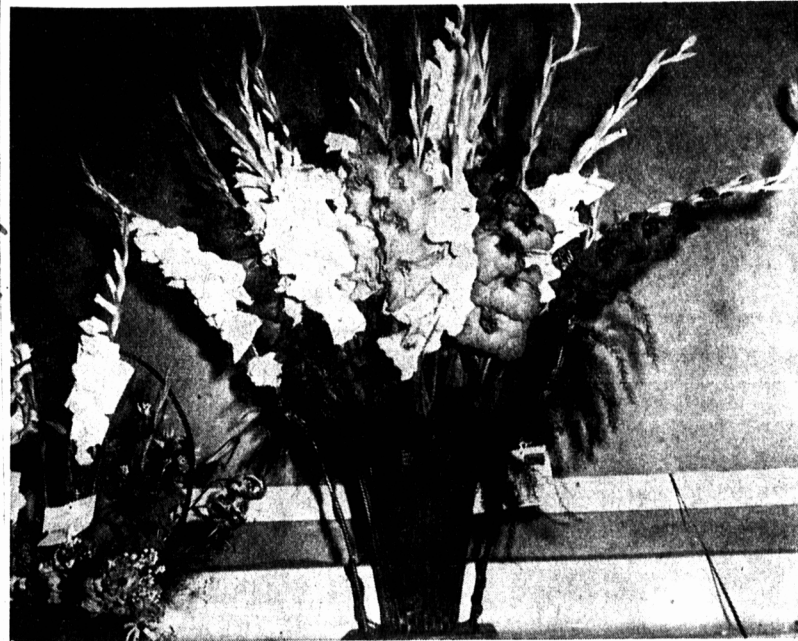

His information on Cuthbert, he said, was that he was "a fellow who always had his hand out."

"That was about all I could get."

Find Wreck Of Alleged Hitler's Treasure Plane

LINZ, Austria (Reuters)—A diver Tuesday discovered 260 feet down in a lake near here a German warplane which local legend says was carrying Hitler's personal treasure and secret files when it crashed in 1945.

"A load of platinum" was the description given to part of the cargo.

The legend is based on the date of the crash April 17, 1945, in the last days of Hitler's Reich, when Hitler was considering setting up an "Alpine fortress."

The pilot and co-pilot were saved. Villagers who spoke to them reported that one man had been lost with the aircraft, and that the plane carried "sealed chests."

Allied intelligence officers have failed to trace the two survivors, and the contents of the plane are so far still a mystery.

The wreckage of the Messerschmitt 210 will be brought ashore in the next few days, local officials said. Salvage firms have been trying for years to locate the plane.

Jamboree To Break Even Financially, Is Report

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—The eighth World Scout Jamboree, a $400,000 operation, will break even financially, it was stated officially Tuesday.

Fred Finlay, chief executive commissioner of the Boy Scouts' Association of Canada, told a press conference that the Canadian association, as host organization, "will come out all right financially."

The federal government made a grant of $50,000 plus in-calculable help in camp engineering and stores, while the Ontario government granted $25,000. Each of the 11,156 scouts attending, including volunteers working on the jamboree staff, paid a registration fee of $30, a total of $334,780.

"Our numbers are somewhat in excess of our expectations three months ago," Mr. Finlay said.

"The number of countries then going to be represented was 40. Final registration by countries was 68.

NO MAJOR COMPLAINTS
"There have been no major complaints, no unusual incidence of accident or sickness. The swimming beach will soon be back in operation—it was badly mauled by Monday's squall."

Since he discovered a shortage of wood for campfires, five lumber companies have responded with free lumber. This illustrates the number of countries then going to be represented was 40. Final registration by countries was 68.

Survives 3-Day Ordeal After Fall
NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A three-day ordeal ended Tuesday for Edward Dumphy, 51, of Toronto, who is believed to have fallen 100 feet down a gorge Saturday while trying to escape from the heat.

Dumphy was rescued by hydro security guards and Niagara Falls firemen. Rescuers had to lower a doctor in a basket to give him medical treatment before bringing him out.

PROMISES HOLIDAY
Back in the sunlight Mr. Massey attended a reception, had lunch, and was officially welcomed to Bell Island at outdoor ceremonies where he told the children gathered in the grandstand he was sorry he couldn't give them a day off from school then.

But he asked school officials to keep a holiday "in cold storage" until fall. As the youngsters whooped and clapped Mr. Massey told them to remember it as "Queen's holiday."

Then he was whisked across the island, past sheep red with dust from the roads, and back to the mine in time to chat with mud-soaked, rugged, iron miners changing shifts at 4 p.m.

He was driven back to the Manacoc, then to St. John's where he rested prior to leaving for a rail jaunt across the island today.
