PROBES NORTHWEST PASSAGE

Canada's Arctic patrol ship, Labrador, moves through Bellot Strait in north central Canada on last leg of operation to chart water passage from Pacific to Atlantic Oceans across the top of North America. The vessel headed a group of survey ships, including three U.S. Coast Guard cutters. Search for the passage was undertaken in effort to provide escape route to the Atlantic for the U.S. Navy's Military Sea Transportation Service in the recent that unpredictable movements of Arctic ice pack should block normal exit passages.

Conservative Steals Audience From Labor In UK; Vote Today To Extend Colombo Plan

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP)—With a margin of 748 votes to overcome Conservative candidate Francis Dashwood took a practical step in his campaign to win Gloucester from the Labor opposition in today's byelection.

He stole an audience from his opponent. The 32-year-old son of Sir John Dashwood, premier baronet of England, and grandson of a Royal Canadian Horse Artillery officer, turned up outside a big factory, found a crowd waiting, and began telling them his political views.

Ten minutes later, Labor candidate Jack Diamond showed up, protesting that the meeting had been called on his behalf 10 days earlier. Dashwood declined to yield the platform, observing that the meeting was being held in open ground.

MOTHER FROM N.B.
Dashwood whose mother, the former Helen Moira Eaton of Fredericton, is the daughter of the late Lt.-Col. Vernon Eaton, in RCHA officer, is putting up a vigorous fight under trying conditions.

The 748-vote margin by which the late M. Turner Samuels won the seat for Labor in the 1955 general election was obtained in a straight fight against a Conservative. This time, the Liberalso have a man in the field. Backers of the Liberal, Lt.-Col. P. Lort-Phillips, hope only for a large enough minority vote to bolster the morale of their shrinking party, which has only five members left in the 630-seat House of Commons. But it is generally agreed that he is likely to win over more Conservative than Labor supporters.

WORKED IN CANADA
Dashwood, an Eton and Oxford graduate gained factory experience by spending two years working in a Toronto aluminum plant, a drop forge foundry at Kingston, Ont., and a wire-drawing concern at Shawinigan Falls, Que. He has given enthusiastic support to Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposed diversion of Canadian imports from the United States to Britain.

Diamond is a soft-spoken chartered accountant, who represented a Manchester constituency from 1945 to 1951.

The present composition of the Commons is Conservatives and allies 336; Labor 277; Liberals five; independent one; vacant two.

Mrs. Geo. Drew Has Sailed

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. George Drew, wife of Canada's high commissioner to Britain, sailed Tuesday on the Empress of Britain to join her husband. She was accompanied by their daughter Alexandra, who will attend school in England.

son Edward, a student in architecture at McGill University, was on board to see them off.

Mrs. Drew said she is looking forward to knowing England, Scotland and Ireland. Born in Italy, she is the daughter of a Canadian engineer Edward Johnson.

Mrs. Drew said her husband's health is excellent. "He wouldn't have taken his present position if his health had not been good," she said.

tries would be good for Canada, he said, but "any radical change is most unlikely unless we are prepared to impose major additional restrictions on American goods and possibly on other non-Commonwealth goods."

A restrictive policy would "inevitably raise costs in this country and produce strongly conflicting and industrial interests."

However, he predicted a gradual increase in British sales to Canada "if we increase our efforts to make this market accessible to British goods."

He recommended "providing aid, long-term credits and direct investments" to increase exports to other Commonwealth countries. "We should certainly do our best to improve Commonwealth trade, both for economic and political reasons," he said.

Canada Must Go Along With U. S.

MONTREAL (CP)—Douglas Gibson, assistant general manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, said Tuesday Canada has no practicable alternative but to adapt itself to the growth of the American economy.

"The Commonwealth simply is not big enough or sufficiently oriented in our direction to restore anything like the proportions of trade we enjoyed with it in the thirties," he told a Rotary Club meeting.

More trade among more countries would be good for Canada, he said, but "any radical change is most unlikely unless we are prepared to impose major additional restrictions on American goods and possibly on other non-Commonwealth goods."

U.S. Coast Guard Navigates The N. W. Passage

OTTAWA (CP)—Three United States Coast Guard ships have successfully navigated the Northwest Passage, naval headquarters reported Monday.

They are the first American vessels to sail through the Canadian Arctic. The three—Storis, Bramble and Spar—left Seattle about two months ago and now are en route to Boston.

The RCMP patrol vessel St. Roch completed the passage in 1940.

Led by the Canadian navy's Arctic patrol vessel Labrador, the coast guard ships passed through Bellot Strait in overcast weather Friday. The strait, which divides Somerset Island from the Boothia Peninsula, most northerly part of mainland Canada, was the last major obstacle on the west-east passage. The Labrador had earlier surveyed and proven a deep-draught passage through Bellot Strait.

At the eastern exit from the strait, the commanding officers of the four ships signed a message detailing the story of the passage. It was left in a carin near Fort Ross at the southeastern tip of Somerset Island.

The Labrador is commanded by Capt. Thomas C. Pullen of Oakville, Ont., and Halifax. The U.S. Coast Guard officers, Cmdr. H. L. Wood, Lt.-Cmdr. H. H. Carter and Lt. C. V. Cowing, command the Storis, Bramble and Spar, respectively.

The Labrador is scheduled to return to Halifax Oct. 11 after further surveys in the Gulf of Bothia, Bernier Bay, Barrow Strait, Wellington and Belcher channels, Lancaster Sound and Davis Strait. Date of the U.S. ships' scheduled arrival at Boston is not yet known.
