NEW FANCY WORK.

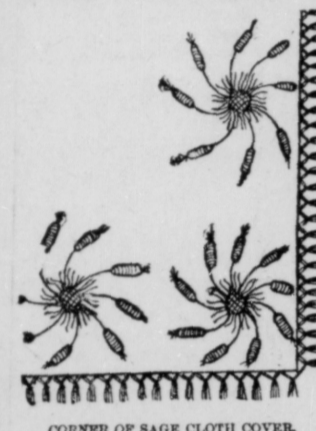

MONITON BRAID USED IN DECORATING LINEN NEEDLEWORK.

New Uses For Lace Braids. Adding to the Drawing Room in Making Pretty Dishes For Luncheons, Teas and Many Articles Which Most Women Like.

It so seldom happens that there is anything really new in the nature of needlework that it gives one a thrill of pleasure to discover that some enterprising soul has hit upon a genuine novelty, and that with it some excellent things can be done, says the New York Herald.

The combination of the moniton lace braids with feather stitching, and short embroidery stitches and the like seems very simple, and one is naturally surprised that it has not been used before, but the fact remains that it is the novelty of the moment, and pieces of the work can be had at most of the fancy goods bazaars now that are started up by which one can finish them at home.

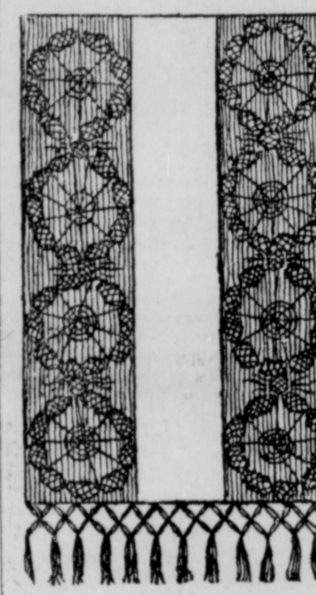

The specimens which first met my eye were far from being as good as those that have been developed since that time, and as the hint once given, there is room for endless combination and for all the originality of a fertile brain. It is likely that the future will see work that is better even than that of which I write.

PRINCE OF SAKE CLOTH COVER.

The principle upon which all variations are built is so simple as to need no rule. The design is held in place by fancy stitches of all sorts and is so arranged to form figures and designs as elaborate or as elemental as the maker may choose.

The design which the first drawing shows is one of the simplest that can be made and is excellent upon almost any plain colored cloth. In the original the material is sage colored bolton sheeting, on which the circular figures of white produce a really excellent effect.

SECTION OF TABLE SCARF.

This is outlined and is finished at the tip first with a section of the braid, then with an arrowhead of silk, and is so made to look like those in the design, with only the difference of increased proportions.

The other drawing is taken from one of the most striking pieces and shows the work done upon some striped cloth. It is designed for a table scarf for the summer house and is worked upon awning cloth in broad plain stripes of blue upon lighter stuff and for a dozen other things. Down the length of each blue stripe are netlike circles, each outlined with braid and each joined to the next by a single section of the same. All the braid is held in place with cat stitching over each of the narrow connecting links and by the netlike center worked in linen floss, which makes a permanent feature of the design.

The ends of the scarf are finished with heavy lines of braid, and there is no limiting of any sort. The plain stripes and the worked stripes combine to make a very handsome cloth, and the whole is strong and serviceable as well.

tended on the side at the point where the left end of the bertha laps over the right, is also of the pany satin. The sleeves are very full and are caught up with a stitch or two in a very fascinating way.

The hat of fancy straw has a charming garniture of marceline ribbons. Little pelerines of black tulle most delicately and thickly plaited so that they contain a marvelous quantity of cobweb material are the present delight of the Parisienne. They are bordered with black satin or white lace, and when worn over an ivory foulard are the most airy, fairy of garments.

A pretty Paris gown in a changeable silk of brownish gold and reddish violet hues has, as will be seen, a deep flounce on the skirt. It is headed and edged with a full ruche of violet silk. The corsage is of ecru lace over the silk of the gown. It is adjusted to the figure in the back and slightly gathered in front.

The chemise is of a violet crepe de chine, finely plaited. The bertha ends at the bust in front, having the effect of epanlets, while at the back it is a continuous round from shoulder to shoulder. The full puffs of the sleeve are of the changeable silk. The lower portions, which are quite tight to the arms, are of the ecru lace. The collar of the chemise is of the same crepe de chine. This is a charming model for any kind of changeable silk—the coloring of the trimmings to follow, as in this gown, the coloring of the dress material.

For the Summer. Many remedies are suggested for the prevention or removal of freckles. The girl who freckles will probably continue to do so long as she exposes her face to the direct rays of the sun.

Things to Know. That mahogany furniture should be washed with warm water and soap, then given an application of beeswax and sweet oil with a soft cloth and polished with camellia to a rich finish.

That the odor of onions left on the hands after peeling may be removed by rubbing the hands with celery or mustard.

That spirits of camphor applied with flannel cloth will remove unsightly white spots from furniture.

Princess Marie's Tea Gown. One of the prettiest tea gowns of Princess Marie of Edinburgh's trousseau is shown in the cut. It is made with a long train of brocade in white and yellow, embroidered by hand with clusters of crimson roses. The front and under-dress are of pale yellow silk muslin fastened at the waist by a deep band of lettuce green velvet. A wide flounce of yellow silk muslin falls over the shoulders and grows gradually narrower as it reaches the bottom of the skirt. The sleeves are of brocade, finished off by loose, hanging folds of silk muslin, and a huge butterfly bow of lettuce green velvet stands out at the back a little above the waist.

Fashion Notes. Ladies continually scan the fashion plates for some new and becoming design in dress to enhance their beauty and charms. There is nothing more becoming than the healthy glow, bright eye, and the firm elastic step of vigorous womanhood.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil.

Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil.

Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are so plentifully advertised.

Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me.

Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it.
